Man 3.75 Million Years Old, According to Fossil Evidence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anthropologist Mary Leakey has reported finds of well preserved teeth and jaws in East Africa that reliably place early man as far back as 3.75 million years.

Dr. Leakey said the specimens, from at least 11 individuals, appear to represent the genus Homo to which modern man belongs and not to the short ape-man Australopithecus that apparently lived in the same time period.

The fossils are the oldest firmly dated examples of members of the hominid family, which includes all manlike creatures.

Dr. Leakey said at a National Geographic Society news conference Thursday that her team of scientists will return to the site at Laetoli in Tanzania next summer to dig deeper into the volcanic ash bed that yielded the new man-like fossils.

In addition, she said she expects to investigate geologically younger fossil beds nearby to look for tools that early man may have used. No tools were found in the deposits that yielded the 3.35 million to 3.75 million year old remains.

When Dr. Leakey and coworkers found the teeth and jaws, she said they did not realize the significance of the discovery because the precise age of the specimens was not known. The big break came only a few weeks ago when Dr. Garniss Curtis of the University of California at Berkeley determined their age with precise radioactive dating techniques.

Until two or three years ago, the earliest evidence of man's ancestors was about 2 million years old. Similar remains found last year in nearby Ethiopia by other scientists have been estimated at three to four million years old, but they have not yet been dated in the laboratory.

The new fossils include the jaw of a child estimated to be have been about 5 years old when he died. The teeth were so well preserved by the ash that rained down on the area from nearby volcanoes that a large canine tooth remains where it was about to push out milk teeth in the child's jaw.

Editorial:

No Candidate Apathy

The Daily Freeman proudly presents its 1975 political magazine supplement today chock full of information about candidates from every nook of Ulster County.

Given the difficulty reported nationwide in getting people, especially good people, to run for political office, The Freeman is at a pleasant loss to explain the full slates of high quality people running for office this year in Ulster County.

We won't even try. Instead, we will just congratulate the political parties which nominated them to run, the citizens who have worked in the campaigns and the candidates themselves.

With a few notable exceptions, the candidates have fought their battles on the issues, rather than resorting to personal invective.

Generally, the oratory has been mannerly and graceful—we are speaking in relative terms—of course, politics not being the nation's tamest sport.

On behalf of a grateful Ulster County, The Freeman thanks all who participated in Election '75.

Waiting

This rotund pumpkin man peers knowingly out of the window at Halloween trick-or-treaters wending their way through Elmendorf Heights. Tonight is night for ghosts and goblins to roam. It just might be that somewhat smug expression on Mr. Pumpkin's face stems from not ending up as a more traditional leering jack-o-lantern. The striking seasonal display is at the Harry Osterhoudt home, Thomas and Sheryl Streets. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

A Mother's Defense

KINGSTON

Mrs. Joseph (Marie) Koenig has leaped to the defense of her son, the mayor, who she said was slandered by a political opponent's description of him as a "political animal."

William K. Darling, the Republican candidate for mayor, made the remark in Wednesday's Freeman in alleging that (in his opinion) Mayor Francis R. Koenig had aspirations for higher political office.

Thursday, Koenig himself lashed out at Darling for that statement, among others. The mayor's mother, herself once an elected official (superintendent of the old Ninth Ward in the 1940s), a politician for more than 30 years, expressed similar sentiments.

"I understand that when you are in public office you are subject to a great deal of criticism," she said. "I do not object to justifiable criticism. However, I deeply resent my son, Frank, or any other mother's son, being referred to as an animal, political or otherwise!"

"I have raised three respectable and honorable sons and I am extremely proud of each of them."

Daley Welcomes Sadat

CHICAGO — Mayor Richard Daley has given Egypt's President Anwar Sadat the kind of welcome New York denied him and made him an honorary citizen of Chicago, home of the nation's fourth largest Jewish population.

Daley and Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., greeted Sadat and his family Thursday at O'Hare International Airport where they began their one-day visit.

Sadat spoke at a formal banquet attended by 700 civic leaders and members of the Egyptian-American community. The city's seven Jewish aldermen boycotted the event.

Ford Asks $4.6 Billion

WASHINGTON — President Ford has asked Congress for $4.6 billion in foreign aid, including record amounts for Israel and Egypt.

Ford sent a message to Congress Thursday seeking $2.8 billion in military aid and $1.8 billion in economic aid. He earmarked three-fourths of it for the Middle East, including a record $2.2 billion for Israel and $750 million for Egypt.

Ford said the Mideast aid "will contribute to the confidence that Middle East nations must have in the United States if we are to maintain our momentum toward peace."

Franco Rule Nears End

MADRID, Spain — Prince Juan Carlos of Borbon met with the cabinet today, marking what is widely believed to be the end of dictatorial rule by the gravely ill Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The prince, delegated Franco's powers Thursday, chaired the 10:30 a.m. meeting of the 20-member ministers' council at his Zarzuela Palace residence that was called to deal with a backlog of problems that piled up during Franco's illness.

High on the agenda was Spain's conflict with Morocco over the disputed Spanish Sahara, government sources said.

Civil War Feared

LISBON, Portugal — The sealing of Portugal's main arsenal and stepped up military maneuvers have renewed fears of a possible civil war.

Rebellious left-wing soldiers assigned to the country's main arsenal outside Lisbon Thursday sealed off the installation.

The soldiers said they took the action to protest the purge of radical enlisted men through early discharges and compulsory furloughs.

They said they would keep the gates closed and not issue ammunition or weapons until the government reversed the trend.

Cease-Fire Enforced

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Security forces supported by armored cars moved into the battle-scarred seaside hotel district of Beirut today, enforcing a cease-fire that has given a brief respite to seven weeks of civil war.

The troops took over Beirut's leading hotels — the Holiday Inn and the Phoenix and St. Georges hotels — strongholds of Christian militia fighting Moslem forces.

The vicious street battles killed at least 350 this week and total casualties since fighting flared in mid-September number about 1,000 dead and 2,400 wounded.

Midnight Mary's Oct. 31 Legend

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — A restless spirit is said to rise at midnight from a great pink granite gravestone in a local cemetery.

They call her Midnight Mary. And on this Halloween night it is thought she may join the other spirits for a stroll amid the shadows of the century-old oaks and maples.

Halloween Editorial on Page 6

The stone from which the tales say she rises stands near the gothic-spiked black iron gate which clangs shut at sunset after the chapel bell has tolled 10 times.

Among the tales which have grown about the Evergreen Cemetery in the 103 years since Midnight Mary was laid to rest, one tells of a horse and wagon driven by the cemetery in the gloom of night, sinking into the earth to disappear forever.

Another recalls a young man who stood midnight vigil by the tomb. His body, the tale goes, was found the next day rigid in fear — his clothes snagged in bushes.

But the most ghostly legend of all tells of the death of Mary herself. The story goes that she fell unconscious, victim of a rare disease that left its victims in a death-like state of suspended animation.

She was buried on that October day, but she revived in her coffin.

Her aunt, who lived across the street from the cemetery, awoke during the night in horror. She saw a vision of her niece clawing at the lid of her coffin.

The coffin was opened the next day and Mary was dead, but the grotesque and cramped body gave the appearance of agonizing struggle.

Deputy Charged in Gun Incident

By Matt Spireng

TOWN OF SAUGERTIES

An Ulster County sheriff's deputy has been charged with misdemeanor reckless endangerment on the complaint of a Greene County man who alleges that, following a bizarre series of events including a high speed chase and a crash, the off duty deputy pointed a gun at him and forced him and his wife to lay face down on the ground.

The deputy, David B. Kaplan, 20, of Sunset Garden Apartments, Kingston, was arraigned on the second degree reckless endangerment charge in Saugerties Town Court earlier this week and was released in his own recognizance pending further court action.

Kaplan has served as a jail guard since being hired in May and he has not been suspended from duty, according to Sheriff Thomas F. Mayone, who said he feels the deputy had "reasonable cause for pulling his gun, based on the information I have."

The man who charged the deputy with reckless endangerment, William C. Walker, 20, of Palenville, was charged by the deputy with making an improper left turn.

The incident leading to the charges occurred last Friday. On Monday, Saugerties Town Police Chief Robert Riley, contacted at home while on a sick day, told the Freeman that Walker had decided not to charge the deputy. However,

On Thursday, asked again about the incident, Riley said that Walker had changed his mind and did have the deputy charged. Riley said he did not have the details on the case

An 'Honest Mistake'

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

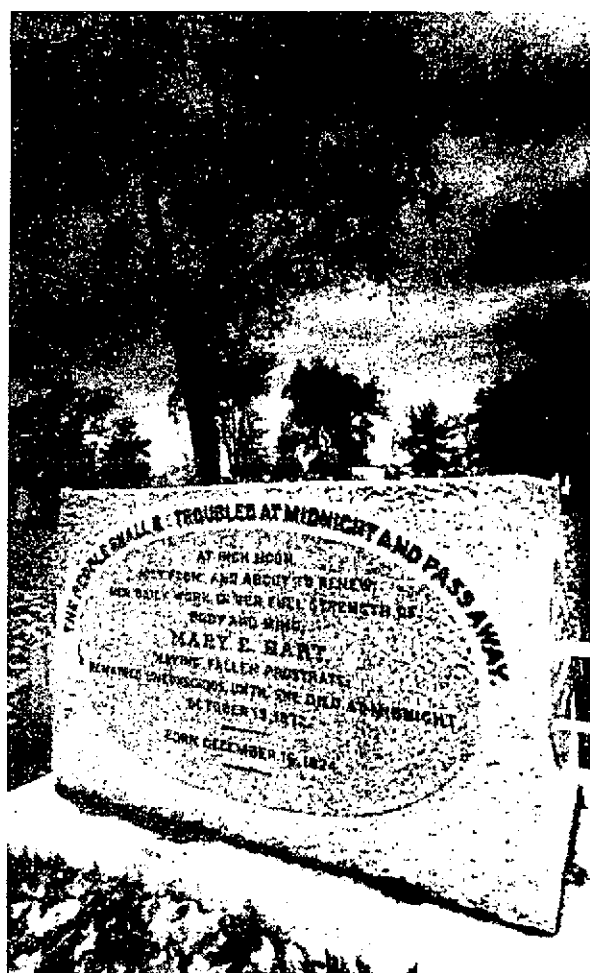

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt has dismissed allegations of election fraud in the 11th Ward during the Conservative primary for alderman-at-large last month as "an honest mistake" although he is a good deal less generous about the conditions that fostered it.

The district attorney's office was asked to investigate the case by Conservative Party Chairman Bernard Singer who was not satisfied with a supreme court ruling which had found no election fraud in the contest between Roberta Kolts and T. Robert Gallo, but wrote off as "inexplicable" a switch in tally sheets. On Primary night Mrs. Kolts was announced as the winner. Two days later the Board of Elections announced the tally sheets from the 11th Ward, Second District showed that the one vote cast there had been recorded for Gallo, making him the winner. The Conservatives went to court and won the election for Kolts.

Vogt in detailing the investigation by his office—under the direction of Assistant District Attorney John Modjeska—said that nine persons were interviewed, four of whom—Mrs. Rose Hogan and Louis DeCicco from the city clerk's office and election inspectors Mrs. Elizabeth Sass and Mrs. Anne Smythe—submitted to polygraph tests. "They obviously passed with flying colors," Vogt said.

He also said that all tally sheets in the city had been accounted for, thus ruling out the possibility that a blank tally sheet had been filled out with Gallo's name on it.

MIDNIGHT MARY'S GRAVESTONE

'White-Collar' Lottery Cheats

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investigators have found evidence of "white-collar" corruption in the state lottery operations. The New York Daily News reported today.

According to the News, "The investigations ... also revealed a pattern of the 'purposeful ignoring of existing laws' governing lottery operations in the state to benefit those in its administration."

The newspaper reported the probes indicated "no obvious criminality," but described the operations as an "amateurish attempt to make the lottery appear to be something it is not — a fully successful, moneymaking venture."

The News said reports have emerged that Lottery Director Jerry Bruno tried to convince investigators from the Arthur Little Co., who were appointed by Gov. Hugh L. Carey, that the blame for the lottery's computer problem belonged to underlings.

But, according to the News, Little's investigators said the computer printed duplicate tickets because it was fed "misinformation" by Bruno's aides.

One top investigator said the probe was still trying to determine whether or not the misinformation was fed deliberately, the News said.

The News said the probe also showed:

— Favoritism in awarding contracts to firms servicing the lottery without public bidding;

— The appointment of "politically motivated" persons to key lottery sales jobs;

— Nonpayment of prizes to winners because the money was kept so it would pile up and help future lottery sales;

— An "almost complete" lack of normal bookkeeping procedures, which has made it difficult for probes to determine if theft was involved;

— And a refusal to run over a list of all prizewinners and winning vendors because of a claim that "lists were not kept that way."

The News said investigators were still trying to determine whether any irregularities exist in awarding annuities to insurance companies to cover winners of prizes from $50,000 to $1 million.

The state is losing more than $1 million a week since Carey cancelled all lottery operations last week.

Avert 'Default' Battle is On

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats said today they may send President Ford a bill containing two plans — his plan to help New York City after default and their own plan to avert default — and let him choose which to carry out.

But in the Senate, Democrats don't want to give Ford a choice. The Democratic majority on the Senate Banking Committee sent to the floor Thursday a bill providing $4 billion in federal loan guarantees — the type of bill Ford said he will veto. One Republican, Robert Packwood of Oregon, voted for it, too.

"There ain't going to be no loan guarantee," said Sen. John G. Tower, the panel's senior Republican. "It's doomed." He said Ford will not be dissuaded from using the veto even if the bill gets by a filibuster which threatens to be sticky.

A different tack is being taken in the House. The strategy there is to pass a single bill authorizing a $7 billion loan guarantee — and also altering the bankruptcy laws in the way Ford has advocated. Ford could follow either course — but the onus would be on him if there were no loan guarantee, New York defaulted and the national consequences were adverse.

Default — the city's inability to pay a creditor — is expected to occur by mid-November, when a new round of debt becomes due. The city owes $12.3 billion and has not been able to borrow money to repay old debts for some time. Ford wants to do nothing to avert default, but to put the city's financial control in the hands of the U.S. District Court in New York City if default occurs.

Ford, raising funds for the GOP in California Thursday, said the "best way" to help New York is "to put pressure on the city to do things that have to be done and to indicate that if they don't act there is a way to maintain essential services after default."

If the House strategy prevails in Congress, Ford would have to sign the bill authorizing the loan guarantee in order to get the approach he seeks. Then, if the administration refused to put a loan guarantee into effect, the economic consequences of default in New York City would be solely on the White House.

As drafted by subcommittee chairman Thomas Ludlow Ashley, D-Ohio, and subject to change, the House bill creates a board of the secretaries of the treasury, housing and health, education and welfare departments, and the chairmen of the Federal Reserve and the Securities and Exchange Commission. That board, by majority vote, could decide whether and under what conditions to authorize federal guarantees for short-term loans of $2 billion and up to $5 billion in long-term loans which would not expire until 1999.

Carey Advises Mass Protests

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey wants New York City residents to stage mass protest rallies against "a kick in the groin" — his term for President Ford's promise to veto any federal help for the city.

Carey said Ford's decision has assured bankruptcy for New York, but city officials still worked on a last-hope plan to borrow $4 billion by using city workers' pension funds as collateral.

Mayor Abraham Beame said chances for success of the borrowing scheme were slim, and a spokesman said there was some question whether it would be legal, due to restrictions on the use of pension funds.

At a news conference Thursday, Carey said, "We're going to take a day and turn out for New York City in Times Square or Central Park and sound off on behalf of a great city."

"It's going to be 'Operation Comeback' and 'Operation New York is Alive and Kicking.' That's the way New York normally responds when we get a kick in the groin."

On Ford's plan to change federal bankruptcy laws to smooth the city's progress toward default, Carey said: "The words of the bill are the words of Archie Bunker; the music is the music of Herbert Hoover."

"If we had any chance to get back to the bond markets, President Ford killed that chance," he said.

Beame said Thursday night, "At this stage, we don't see anything beyond the possible — but slim — chance of using the pension funds." A spokesman said Beame believed "there are very serious legal obstacles" to such a maneuver and questioned whether enough money to avert default could be borrowed.

Can Dems Force A Tax Increase

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — With Republican and Democrat chairmen of key legislative committees in agreement that the state will face a budget deficit this year, the question now is whether Democrats can force through a tax increase.

A consensus that the state was spending more than it was taking in was announced Thursday by the chairmen of the fiscal committees of both houses of the legislature, although their estimates of the size of the gap varied widely.

Senate Republicans projected a $264 million shortfall by the end of March and Assembly Democrats estimated $778 million.

Public agreement by the GOP that any shortfall would exist added weight to Gov. Hugh L. Carey's disclosure a day earlier that he was prepared to call a special session of the legislature to increase business levies $300 million.

The GOP contentions that the shortfall was "manageable" assured a continuation of a partisan battle over the need for new levies, whether the question comes before the lawmakers in a special session as early as mid-November or early in the regular session in January.

Sen. John J. Marchi, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, laid the blame for a substantial part of the expected deficit at Carey's door, saying that state spending was running $186 million ahead of appropriations approved by the legislature.

Although it was the first time Senate Republicans had admitted the likelihood of a shortage, Marchi termed it "a manageable deficit."

GOP rejection of Carey's contentions the state was headed for a massive deficit had stalled the governor's $906 million tax proposals during the regular session.

Singer Attacks Campaign Tactics

Election . . . 1975

KINGSTON
Conservative candidate for Mayor Bernard Singer lashed out today at what he called "airy tale" advertisements tolling the leadership virtues of his Democratic opponent, Mayor Francis R. Koenig.

"Every effort has been made by my staff to restrain any involvement in personalities and stay with the issues," Singer said. "But now, because of the recent Koenig-Gallo ads, pushing 'The Big Lie', I must speak out on this tasteless, slick trickery. We are all interested in a fair election, but to get this the candidates must be offered honest answers to the issues."

"His October 26th ad stated, 'It's really hard to recall when his able, young administrator Frank Koenig' was ever involved in political controversy or self-seeking publicity.'"

'County Should Help'

KINGSTON
Mel Mones, Republican Conservative candidate for Ulster County Legislator from Kingston, suggested today that the county take the initiative to help the towns and the city resolve their solid waste disposal problems.

Mones noted that it was during his first term in the legislature in 1969 that he, as chairman of the Public Health Committee, gave the go-ahead for the county to accept state funding for a comprehensive countywide survey on solid waste.

"I believe it is time to sit down with the various municipal officers throughout the county and carefully analyze this report," Mones said. "The present solid waste problem in the City of Kingston dramatically shows that a consortium of just a few towns cannot even begin to approach a solution."

"Kingston has a waste problem up to its ears. The Chapel Street situation which could have ended disastrously for the residents of that area without solving the city problem, points out that crisis action will never take the place of practical planning."

"Unless we approach the waste problem on a countywide or regional basis and do it now, any attempts by smaller communities will be extremely expensive and of temporary usefulness."

Personal Touch Scored

KINGSTON
Republican candidates for the Ulster County Legislature from Kingston have charged that Democratic incumbents "have demonstrated the ability to present only five personally-sponsored resolutions to the legislature out of over 450 introduced during the regular business sessions."

In a joint statement, Emma Aprea, Adam Geuss, John Machione, Robert Matthews, Mel Mones and Frank Stauble asked: "Two years and $48,000 later, what do we have from our silent six Democratic incumbents? In fact, one of their group has a zero batting record for his two years of service."

"With all the needs of our people and the problems of government, Kingston has been neglected by our present Democratic legislators. The county has moved ahead while the city has fallen behind, thanks to this ineptness."

"With such a lack of record, what Democrats possibly mean in their ads with such phrases as 'Do you want your voice heard?' 'I care,' 'Responsible fiscal planning,' and 'Proven ability?'"

"It is our contention that two years ago, the silent six were handed the ball in a new game, but they fumbled away their big chance. It's time to bring in a new team so that Kingston can be part of county government again."

Kirschner Support

KINGSTON
A group called "Conservatives for Kirschner", on behalf of the candidacy of Lewis Kirschner, a Democrat, has been formed because the Conservative candidate, William Hegeman, has "done nothing," according to a spokesman.

The group espouses many of the positions taken by Kirschner during the campaign for County Clerk asks persons who might have voted for the Conservative candidate to instead vote for Kirschner.

were the years of dispute about the urban renewal agency? He claimed he had no authority over this agency but now he is claiming credit for all the good work they accomplished. What about the old city hall decaying while people argued daily? Was this a tea party? For six (6) years, Frank Koenig had a choice; lead our city or keep silent. On almost all of these issues he kept silent and did not lead. He completely abandoned the trouble between the paid and volunteer firemen.

Even Madison Avenue would not try to get this past an alert public," Singer said.

"If Frank Koenig wants to take credit for defeating three great political leaders: to wit: Tyrell-Murphy-Merrill; I will agree, but not to leadership! Frank Koenig cost us about one million dollars in taxes by not watching the assessor's office. We are heading for a dump crisis, we don't have the promised swimming pool, we don't have business on the desert downtown.

An Able Young Administrator would have seen to these problems. With his picture in the Paper almost every day for the past two months, how can anyone say Frank Koenig is not "involved in self-seeking publicity"? Singer charged.

"A reading of his 1973 'Annual Address to the City of Kingston' New Year's Day, he made some promises we are still waiting to have him keep. I quote from the 1973 address, 'The matter of a year round municipal swimming pool has been talked about and dreamed about for many years. I am extremely happy that it has become a distinct possibility during my administration.'"

"Talking about the Central Broadway uplifting program, he said, 'with the inclusion in my 1973 budget for a planning department, this uplifting can be accomplished, with our own staff personnel on a day to day basis, without requiring the services of consultants. 'Hopefully the project will be possible this year."

"If this is the leadership he is talking about then I say, 'The Big Lie' is back in style. We should not accept two more years of this kind of leadership. Vote the Singer Saving Machine for mayor and see the difference for yourself," Singer concluded.

Gallo On Fluoridation

KINGSTON
Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo has accused his Republican opponent, Emily Johnson, of attempting to avoid the issue of fluoridation.

Gallo, reiterating his opposition to mandated fluoridation of city water, a position Mrs. Johnson supports, said, "I wonder why my Republican opponent in this year's election has remained so silent about fluoridation when she has in the past been a very strong proponent of fluoridating Kingston's water system.

"Is she now going to try to wear two hats? Is she going to say she won't push it on the people when in fact she lobbied for it and tried to persuade the members of the Common Council to pass the necessary legislation to fluoridate our water," Gallo asked.

"The thousands of signatures collected against fluoridation should surely have told my Republican opponent that, in our Democracy, the majority rules.

She certainly had her own personal feelings, and those were so strong that indeed, even with this evidence, she still wanted Kingston's water fluoridated."

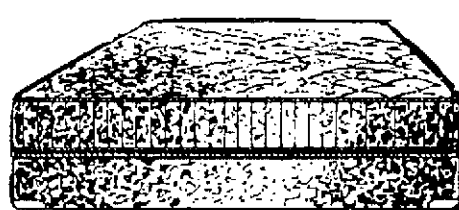

"Since then, my Republican opponent apparently had decided to try to sweep this very important issue under the rug," Gallo said, in closing "It is very interesting, with all the criticism leveled by her, that she has not criticized the Common Council for acting on behalf of the people in defeating the fluoridation bill."

Refugee Camp Closed

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (UPI) — Marines struck the last tents today and shut down this once bustling refugee camp through which 50,418 homeless southeast Asians had passed since the fall of south Vietnam six months ago.

The final few families were shuttled out on buses Thursday evening for new homes in the Los Angeles area and what had once been a noisy city of 18,500 population at its peak was deserted.

In the last two weeks, the problem was not relocating the refugees, but persuading them to leave.

Nick Thorne, the state department official who was chief civilian coordinator at Pendleton, said that as recently as 10 days ago 550 of the refugees would go hide in the hills rather than face the uncertainty of life in a strange country.

All but 16 were finally persuaded to depart, and those three families were flown to Fort Chaffee, Ark., for final disposition of their cases.

Out of the more than 50,000 who were processed, a total of 597 chose to return to their homeland. One of the few crises at Pendleton came when 27 South Vietnamese demanded to be put on a plane to Guam to catch a boat to Saigon.

They threatened that if they were not returned, one of them would burn himself to death in front of the officer's club. Authorities quickly gave in.

During the refugees' stay here 165 babies were born. There were eight deaths — seven of natural causes, including a 109-year-old woman, and a Cambodian who committed suicide.

They scattered under sponsorship to new homes and jobs around the country, although about 19,000 chose to stay in California.

The program at Pendleton alone, funded by the federal government, cost $17 million. At one time there were 1,000 Marines just feeding the Vietnamese and another 700-800 providing other services.

At one time, 500 teachers were coming in from the San Diego school system to teach classes in basic English and citizenship. There were movies every night and entertainers including Pat Boone. Rosemary Clooney and the Barnum and Bailey circus came to Pendleton to help relieve the tedium.

Thorne said there was considerable worry about some of the refugees' reluctance at departure time.

"Some of them had been here as long as four months," he said. "They were like patients who have had a long stay in a hospital and are afraid to leave the security."

"Some of them were apprehensive that life in this country would be so strange. Others were afraid they would not be able to cope — to find jobs and homes. Others had a misunderstanding that they had to do exactly what their sponsors told them."

Henry May Shed His Hats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In addition to being secretary of state, Henry A. Kissinger wears three other hats in performing sensitive functions.

He might have to don and doff all four in succession in testifying before the House Select Committee on Intelligence.

Kissinger's appearance today began as an invitation to appear before the 13-man panel to try to work out a compromise on the release of a memorandum critical of U.S. policy during the Cyprus crisis last year.

But the House is now in the midst of hearings on the National Security Council (NSC) and the Forty Committee, the two powerful presidential advisory boards which oversee intelligence agencies and vote approval or disapproval of clandestine activities abroad.

Kissinger has leading posts on both, to the dismay of some members of the committee.

He is adviser and assistant to President Ford for national security affairs, chairman of the Forty Committee and a member, sometimes chairman, of the National Security Council.

The council also includes Ford, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, and Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger. At times it is joined by CIA Director William E. Colby, Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and cabinet members whose areas might be involved.

The Forty Committee, which supposedly derived its name from the number of a room where it once met, includes Kissinger, Colby, Joseph J. Sisco, the under-secretary of state for political affairs, and a deputy for Schlesinger.

Testimony brought out that the State Department can recommend overt intelligence actions.

"Kissinger's presence in all committees is unprecedented in U.S. history," said Rep. Ronald V. Dellums (D-Calif.), during Thursday's hearings. "Doesn't it give Kissinger an armlock on the intelligence community? Isn't it all down to Mr. Kissinger?"

William Watts, former staff secretary and senior staff member of the NSC, agreed, but said he believed the President had the final say.

"I recommended separation," Watts said of the various offices Kissinger holds. "He performs an awful lot of functions... The devil's advocate rule is very difficult when one man plays so many roles."

Although the CIA charter calls for NSC supervision on such matters as covert activities, testimony revealed the Forty Committee apparently makes the decisions, subject to presidential approval.

Yet, James Gardner, former State Department liaison official with the Forty Committee, testified it did not meet formally for two years between 1972 and 1974, during which time 40 clandestine operations were approved.

Bandit's Hostages Freed

CLEVELAND (UPI) — "OK, I'm ready," said Edward Watkins. "I'll send the hostages out."

With those words, Watkins — once listed among the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals — ended a 21-hour siege Thursday and released his six hostages unharmed. Police and FBI agents then arrested the 56-year-old fugitive and discovered that a "bomb" used to threaten officers during the confrontation was a fake.

"The most frightening thing was whether there was a bomb," said FBI Agent J. Bernard Thompson, who did most of the talking with Watkins. "We were trying to convince him it was not the end of the world."

Watkins, who has a history of heart trouble, was under guard in a hospital coronary care unit today undergoing a series of tests. Police said he had a knack of feigning illness to make escape attempts.

The siege began about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday when Watkins' robbery attempt at a Society National Bank of Cleveland branch was foiled by a teller who tripped a silent alarm, bringing officers to the scene within two minutes.

Watkins, surrounded by officers, herded the nine persons inside the bank into a lounge at the rear of the building. Three of the hostages were released that night.

"The hostages all indicated they were treated very nicely by him," said Police Inspector Harry Antel said.

Watkins, threatening police with a .357 Magnum revolver and the fake box of dynamite, demanded $50,000 ransom, a van to get him out of the area and a plane to fly him out of the country. The only demand met was the van, which remained parked outside the bank's front doors throughout the ordeal.

Federal Judge William K. Thomas, who had sentenced Watkins to 45 years in prison 10 years ago for robbing eight Ohio banks, talked to the suspect shortly before he surrendered, telling Watkins he would help him seek treatment at a hospital instead of him being sent to an infirmary at a federal prison.

"Up until the very end we did not know what was going to happen," said Antel. "The suspect said he would like to go to Metropolitan General Hospital."

An American Holiday

Halloween used to be a nice holiday.

A little scary, perhaps, with jack-o'-lanterns grinning malevolently, witches and goblins on the prowl, and half-remembered tales of headless horsemen, but still a time for innocent pranks and harmless fun.

Now instead of innocence, there are yearly reports of vandalism and poisoned candy.

Turning over a few garbage cans because the treats aren't up to standard or soaping some windows to avenge real or imagined past wrongs are pranks. Property destruction is vandalism, and it has struck with increasing severity in many of this county's communities. A particularly ugly tradition has grown in Napanoch, where the laying on of increased police protection for Halloween has become one of the year's most important civic duties.

Halloween vandalism is mainly committed by kids, and kids are the responsibility of parents. Parents should disbelieve any child over the age of 12 who claims he is going out trick-or-treating, and devising something more constructive for youths to do on Halloween than roaming the streets in packs shouldn't be all that difficult.

As for poisoned candy, Ulster County has so far been spared the dark news of children poisoned with their own sweets, but geography is no proof against sick minds. It should be a hard and fast rule that no Halloween treats are eaten until a parent looks them over, and a parent accompanying a band of trick-or-treaters could help avert tragedy.

What used to be a time for fun now presents an opportunity for children to acquire police records, or get sick, or die. If anyone is to return the fun to Halloween, it must be parents.

UNICEF Campaign

At a time of bleak headlines from throughout the world, rising unemployment and inflation here in Kingston and other parts of our great nation, the nationwide commemoration of National UNICEF Day this year can take on an even greater meaning.

Today, millions of American children—stretching from here in Ulster County to the Pacific—are taking part in a small but important phase of U.S. foreign policy.

And this 25th consecutive Halloween campaign will again help, through financial contributions, to ease the hunger of millions of other less-fortunate children in other parts on the world.

UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund) reports that a half billion of the world's children may slowly go from their present malnutrition to outright starvation.

The need is desperate to halt this seemingly unending drift.

The Kingston area UNICEF drive is being chaired by the Rev. Joseph G. Bailey of Sunset Park, pastor Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church, under the auspices of the Kingston Area Council of Churches.

Open your hearts and your pocket books tonight when the little witches and goblins, elves and imps knock on your door and hold out the familiar orange and black boxes for UNICEF. Open your hearts to the childhood of the human race. There is no better hope for the future.

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The conscience-stricken ex-CIA analyst, Sam Adams, told Congress the truth about the false estimates spread by U.S. officials before the 1968 Tet offensive.

His testimony has produced a controversy over juggled statistics. Other intelligence experts have called it all "a numbers game." But the numbers, tragically, were flesh and blood. By official count, 920 Americans died in the Tet attack.

Sam Adams' revelations have led the House Intelligence Committee to investigate the alleged role of Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham, director of the Defense Intelligence Agency, in distributing the phony figures.

It's a story we happen to know something about. Ten weeks before the Tet offensive, we learned about the secret dispute over intelligence estimates. We reported on Nov. 30, 1967, that Maj. Gen. Joseph McChristian, the Army intelligence chief in Vietnam, had been transferred to Texas for reporting higher estimates than the Pentagon liked.

"McChristian's estimates of communist infiltration and recruitment," we wrote, "were a constant source of annoyance to Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, who thought they were higher than they ought to be."

"Intelligence specialists, who worked with McChristian, have told this column that his estimates were conservative. He insisted upon hard information and would never resort to guesswork. . . . There was subtle pressure on McChristian from the Pentagon to reduce his estimates, which he refused to do."

The Tet explosion convinced us that the military brass had made a ghastly miscalculation. We flew to the battle scene to seek the evidence. In Vietnam, we obtained a confidential, pre-Tet report which badly underestimated communist strength. "It is now clear," we were able to write, "that our policy-makers have been basing their war plans upon faulty intelligence."

We quoted at length from the confidential report, which concluded: "We believe the tide has turned and the enemy strength is on the decline. There is evidence of faltering morale and discipline among the southern enemy — the true Viet Cong. There are fewer but significant signs that the northern invader is likewise weakening."

We were shown other corroborative documents in Vietnam, but nervous sources asked us not to quote them. Some of these have now been made available to us.

They show how Washington not only suppressed McChristian's unwanted warnings but encouraged the Saigon command to sell a rosy outlook to the press. Saigon came back in October, 1967, with plans for a massive press campaign to portray the enemy as faltering.

"We will hold on-the-record briefings," cabled Saigon, "whenever some point can be proved by captured documents . . . concise, hard-hitting briefings designed to allay credibility problems."

The Saigon authorities sought to prove "that the enemy is fast losing control of the people for his side, his recruitment has dropped off sharply, he is having food shortages and he is having serious problems collecting VC taxes."

The Saigon proposals went so far that Washington cautioned in a secret "joint State/Defense message" in November, 1967: "We are concerned lest our credibility be tarnished by overstatement of our case. While some pieces of the arguments can stand unchallenged, others are more vulnerable because of the fragmentary nature of the evidence."

Still, Gen. William Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, sent the Pentagon a secret, year-end report promising: Through careful exploitation of the enemy's vulnerabilities and application of our superior firepower and mobility, we should expect our gains of 1967 to be increased manifold in 1968.

Exactly 29 days later, the communists, far from faltering, stunned Washington by attacking South Vietnam's main centers during the Tet holiday. McChristian had been right, his critics wrong. Their miscalculations were paid for with American blood. Yet he remained in Texas, and they continued to direct the war effort.

Now Sam Adams, whose CIA intelligence confirmed McChristian's estimates, has reopened the episode. We can furnish the House Intelligence Committee with documents supporting Adams' testimony. We also suggest that the committee invite McChristian to testify.

With the help of Saga magazine, we located the retired general who spoke out publicly for the first time. He told us how he organized military intelligence from the ground up, beginning in 1965. He wound up with the best intelligence, he said, "we ever had on the battlefield."

An operation, code-named Cedar Falls, brought in key enemy documents and personnel throughout 1966-67. As early as the Spring of 1967, almost a year before the Tet invasion, U.S. military intelligence had sufficient data to predict the offensive, McChristian contended.

He forwarded the information to the top command which took his information "very seriously," he related. But over his protests, he was transferred to Texas in June, 1967.

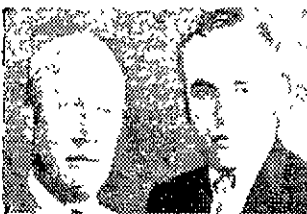

The Tet offensive should not have been a surprise, he told us. "We had a very good picture of the enemy's strength and plans."

Footnote: General Westmoreland, despite his misleading 1967 year-end report, told us he agreed with McChristian. The Tet offensive, he said, was in no way a surprise. "We almost called the date," he said. He even tried to intercept the attackers before they reached Saigon but couldn't because of the jungle expanse, he said. He is also eager, he said, to have the truth about Tet made public.

'Numbers Racket' In Viet War

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

QUINCY, Mass. — In Catholic white working-class neighborhoods of Greater Boston where Gov. George C. Wallace seeks votes from anti-busing fervor, he instead risks an early disaster in his quest for Democratic national convention delegates.

That surprising conclusion is drawn from our interviews, conducted with Patrick Caddell's Cambridge Survey Research, in two lower middle-income precincts of suburban Quincy. Although these predominantly Democratic voters loathe the racial school busing, that does not translate into support for Wallace here as in other Northern cities. Typical is one 24-year-old auto mechanic, who told us: "I don't like busing, but I don't like what Wallace says against blacks."

This undercuts Wallace's tentative strategy: open his campaign next month with a Boston rally, skip the Feb. 24 New Hampshire primary and instead go into the Massachusetts primary a week later to ride the anti-busing wave in the only state carried by George McGovern. But our interviews suggest Wallace bears burdens in this state which afflict him nowhere else and might be relieved only by spectacularly successful campaigning.

Accompanied by pollster Caddell, we interviewed 78 registered voters in anti-busing country of the kind Wallace must sweep to compensate for liberal upper-income neighborhoods. Although Quincy has no busing, the voters interviewed have absolute empathy for their bused neighbors in Boston. Only two voters supported busing; 39 voters, exactly half, declared they would break the law to oppose busing; one out of three vowed opposition to any presidential candidate who supports busing.

But these same voters give Wallace a favorable rating of only 33 per cent — scarcely higher than the 26 per cent for federal Judge W. Arthur Garrity, Jr., father of Boston's busing. The voters interviewed approved President Ford by 75 per cent, Sen. Henry M. Jackson by 72 per cent and Sargent Shriver by 57 per cent.

As an independent candidate, Wallace runs as a poor third (with 9 votes in a Ford-Jackson race, 13 votes in a Ford-Shriver race). When opposed to six liberal Democratic presidential candidates with pro-busing records (excluding anti-busing Jackson), Wallace is favored by only 12 of 54 registered Democrats — far below his needs in these precincts. Finally, he is volunteered as first choice for the Democratic nomination by just two voters.

Precisely half the voters said they would not vote for Wallace under any conditions, but none cited his physical disability. Rather, these were the anti-Wallace complaints: "extreme," "radical," "arrogant," "blow-hard," "ignorant," "bigoted."

Rational explanations for being both anti-busing and anti-Wallace were given by a very few voters, including a young electrician who told us: "I think he's a bit of a racist. I'm against busing, but I believe in equal opportunity."

However, many more voters here derive opposition to Wallace from xenophobia. "He's a redneck," a 24-year-old janitor told us. A 69-year-old widow objected to Wallace as a "true Southerner." In a decade of interviewing Northern whites about Wallace, this is the first anti-Southern hostility we have encountered. Unlike their counterparts in Chicago or New York, Greater Boston's ethnic voters may still be fighting the civil war.

Another sentiment we newly encountered was the feeling here that the political wizard of Montgomery is not quite bright. While commending Wallace as "a very courageous person," a plumber's wife told us he is "not smart enough to be President."

ers failed to correlate busing and presidential politics. A 49-year-old newspaper pressman vowed he would never vote for a candidate who supported busing but then volunteered Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, foe of Senate anti-busing amendments, as his choice for President.

Other fervent anti-busers expressed hope that the Senate's most fervent buser, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, would run for President after all. Kennedy's name was volunteered most often by the 54 Democrats (9 times). Most frequently selected (by 14 Democrats) in the contest between the six liberals and Wallace was Shriver, who is vaguely pro-busing.

This might change if Wallace, who has never campaigned extensively in Massachusetts, comes here to assail pro-busing records of his opponents as in the 1972 Florida primary.

But Massachusetts is not Florida — or even Michigan, Pennsylvania or Maryland. Liberal-oriented media, great universities and the abolitionist tradition helps produce the anti-busing voter repelled when he sees his own passions reflected by George Wallace. A 53-year-old school janitor, read y to defy the law to oppose busing, says he cannot vote for Wallace, adding: "Sure, he's against busing, a little too much against busing."

Learning Lessons of Humility

Someone said, "We are born loving our parents, we grow up understanding them, we grow old forgiving them." I am an exception. I grow old appreciating how truly wise they were.

Big John and Jenny had good instincts. They were strong teachers of the work ethic and humility. I didn't mind working hard for movie money, but the humility philosophy almost crushed me.

There were three of us — two sons and a daughter — and we were told that if we died the earth would continue its sedate journey around the sun. Life would go on without us. We were grains of sand on an endless beach.

I was writing professionally for 25 years when Dad told Mom (in my presence, of course) that there had never been a writer in any branch of our family. He thought I did it to avoid working.

My mother knew I had completed a book called "The Day Lincoln Was Shot." The last chapter had gone to Harper & Row. "What do you think, son," she said. "If this one doesn't sell do you think you'll look for a job?"

Our forebears were policemen, farmers and laborers. Those occupations she looked upon as honest labor. Writers were effeminate dilettantes. Sissies who could spell.

At a recent seminar in journalism I was asked why I write a story but once. Many writers type first, second and third drafts of books and stories.

I know why I do it but once. It goes back to dusting furniture. On Saturday mornings, the Bishop kids had household chores before being allowed out to play.

We could hear the kids screaming at street games. Sometimes, at work, we were close to tears. I drew the furniture polishing. First, dust it. Then get a clean cloth dampened with lemon oil. Polish it. Dry it.

It wouldn't have been so bad except for the final inspection. Mom washed her hands, then walked around the furniture. She ran her finger under tables and mantels. If the finger had a speck of dust, she would say sadly, "All right. Begin at the beginning. Do it over."

Sobbing availed us nothing. I had to start again with the dusting rag. Jenny taught us that it was much better, and easier, to do the job right the first time.

I grew up refusing to commit a sentence to paper unless I could see it and hear it. In spite of this, my parents never risked spoiling me by saying that any work I did was good.

I had children of my own. My hair began to whiten at the temples. I was growing old waiting for a kind word. They read my books and said nothing except, "It's kind of nice."

Ironically, both of them lavished praise on grandchildren who could utter two or more intelligible words. I began to believe the humility philosophy that, although I did my best, my best wasn't good enough.

Then I wrote a book called "The Day Christ Died." It was dedicated to

JENNY TIER BISHOP

Who taught us to love HIM. Between the time I wrote those words and publication of the book my mother lost her sight. With it went my last chance to win an "A" from Mom. And yet, something strange happened.

When she heard that the book had been dedicated to her, she smiled through those sightless blue eyes and said, "John, I want you to read it to me."

He did. Ten pages a night. It took a long time. I didn't ask either of them what they thought. When the book was slammed shut for the final time, I waited for a word. There was silence for a week.

Then, one evening when I kissed my mother hello, she took me in her arms and wept. "You're my good boy," she said. "My truly good boy."

My father waited until we were alone. We were playing pinochle. My mother had retired. "About that book," he said carefully. "As you know, I read it aloud to your mother."

"Know what I think? I think you've written a masterpiece. But don't take my word for it. I'm so old I'm soft in the head."

Some ERA Facts

Editor, The Freeman:

Let us get the facts straight: The Equal Rights Amendment states: "Equality of Rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the State of New York or any sub-division thereof on account of sex."

The phrase "under the law" means that the Amendment will pertain to public or government action, and will not interfere with the private activities or relationships of men, women, and their families. It recognizes the fundamental dignity and individuality of each human being.

Some of the facts you should bear in mind are that: The ERA will not require the integration of restrooms or sleeping quarters in public institutions; ERA will not take alimony away from women; ERA child custody will continue to be awarded according to the "best interest of the child"; ERA will require that women be allowed to volunteer for military services on the same basis as men; ERA will extend to both sexes the protective labor laws beneficial to workers; ERA will enhance women's freedom to choose a career at home or outside the home; ERA will not invalidate present laws protecting women from sex crimes such as rape;

ERA will not deprive women of any real privileges they now possess; ERA will not interfere in an on going marriage. Similar provisions in 15 other state constitutions have not disrupted family life.

Please make your decision on the basis of the facts, do not be confused by opponents of the ERA stating cases, they forget to state the whole case. When the opponents refer to the Yale Law Journal they forget to mention that the Journal came out in favor of the ERA.

On November 4 we will be voting on the New York State ERA, therefore Social Security and possible draft, which are handled on the federal level, are totally irrelevant. Again, when you make your decision remember to consider the facts and only the facts.

I urge The Daily Freeman to publish an updated total list of supporters and opponents of the ERA. Here are a few:

Supporters: American Association of University Women, American Bar Association, Church Women United, Democratic and Republican Party, New York State Council of Churches, YWCA and may more.

Opponents: John Birch Society, KuKlux Klan.

DeCicco Supporters

Editor, The Freeman
In the Daily Freeman, Thursday, October 16, 1975 there was an article in which Ninth Ward Alderman Philip A. DeCicco was accused of being an alderman for only two months out of twenty-four.

We were affiliated in business with Mr. DeCicco for several years. Shortly after his election Mr. DeCicco left our business because he was aware that he could not give his full time to the business without shortcoming his constituents. We were wondering if his opponent was aware of this fact, and if he would make the same decision if put in this position.

With this in mind we urge the people of the Ninth Ward to re-elect Phil DeCicco, Alderman, for continued good representation.

Editor, The Freeman:

Supervisor, Raymond Dunn's letter of October 16, 1975 was an insult to the people of Shandaken. In the letter he portrayed the Town Board as responding to the voice of the people. He characterized his leadership of the Board and the Board's actions as constructive, thoughtful, and prudent.

We would like to present another view of the Town Board in the last two years. And we believe that almost any one of the people who has attended Town Board meetings will agree. There is a lack of leadership and clear direction on our Town Board. Month after month meetings disintegrate into shouting matches between Supervisor Dunn and the Townspeople he is supposed to serve. And time and again those of our townspeople who attend Town Board meetings leave disgusted and with little hope for Town Government.

Supervisor Dunn insults us by thinking that the people in Shandaken are not aware that this is what is really happening.

When town attorney resigned after lengthy service to the Town Board, it was reflection of the board's confusion. His advice had been ignored and his efforts to save the town and taxpayers from costly mistakes fell on deaf ears.

Interested townspeople would probably also tell you that many actions of the Town Board have been far from prudent.

Supervisor Dunn claimed in his letter that he had "held the line on unnecessary spending." On the contrary, by avoiding mediation on the constabulary crisis, he kept the constabulary salaries down but heaped a series of extra costs on the town instead. We firmly believe in careful scrutiny of the town's budget. However, we have no use for the kind of scrutiny that leads to greater expense by the town.

Mr. Dunn also said that "the Town Board seeks a permanent solution to the landfill site problem" rather than what he calls "hasty, temporary and more expensive plans." Yet the history of the landfill issue suggests something quite different. Councilwoman Umhey herself said that the town has been trying for about 20 years to find a suitable site. During that time the Town Board purchased a site which has been determined unsuitable for landfill. Just recently, the Town Board put down a non-refundable deposit on still another site. This selection has now come under severe criticism from members of the surrounding community.

Is this Supervisor Dunn's version of a "permanent solution?" Is this an example of the town "carefully, deliberately, weighing, considering and acting upon" an issue as the supervisor claimed? We don't think the People of Shandaken believe this.

Another Shandaken View

One final issue, that has allowed many townspeople to view firsthand the lack of leadership and direction of the Town Board, has been the handling of the shopping center issue. The board has changed its mind, stopped and started, so many times on this issue, that there is almost no way that an acceptable decision can now be reached. If the Town Board had listened to and worked in conjunction with the Planning Board and the Zoning Board, perhaps a decision which reflected the real needs of the community, could have been reached. Instead, the Town Board has once again come in conflict with the County Planning Board and the issue is still unclear.

This is how we see the "record of achievements" of the Town Board. We believe that the people of Shandaken are more intelligent and more aware than to believe the empty words of Supervisor Dunn. We are concerned about the lack of leadership in town government, about the cost of this to taxpayers and to the well-being of the community. Although there are difficult issues which consider much thought and community input, the approach of the pre-selection of the Town Board, has been the handling of the shopping center issue. The board has changed its mind, stopped and started, so many times on this issue, that there is almost no way that an acceptable decision can now be reached. If the Town Board had listened to and worked in conjunction with the Planning Board and the Zoning Board, perhaps a decision which reflected the real needs of the community, could have been reached. Instead, the Town Board has once again come in conflict with the County Planning Board and the issue is still unclear.

ernment, about the cost of this to taxpayers and to the well-being of the community. Although there are difficult issues which consider much thought and community input, the approach of the present Town Board provides little hope for constructive solutions. We would like to confront these issues straight forwardly, to include the community and make the effort to find solutions we can live with. And we hope that the people will help us to deliver this message to Supervisor Dunn and the Town Board on Election Day.

ATTENTION VOTERS OF ROSENDALE

The Democratic Supervisor has defended the assessment disaster created by the Democratic Board of Assessors.

Return responsible Republican Candidates to those offices.

Remember, the Town Board appoints the chairman of the board of assessors. Make sure we have a Republican Town Board with Republican Assessors to undo two years of reckless bungling that has cost the Rosendale taxpayers $120,046.37 in extra taxes this year.

Exchange Club President Visits

KINGSTON

Jack Pirrie, president of the National Exchange Club, recently conducted a three-day visit to the Kingston area, where he was the guest of the Exchange Club of Greater Kingston.

During his visit to this area, Pirrie was a guest at the annual Columbus Night dinner sponsored by the local club. Other guests recognized at the dinner included state president John Lukasiuk, state secretary Aaron Ornstein, state president-elect Frank Rinaudo and district director Phil Neeter James Amendola is president of the local club.

While in Kingston, Pirrie also participated in the installation of the Kingston Exchange Club's 90th member. The Exchange Club of Kingston is the largest in New York State.

Pirrie, whose home club is located in Nashville, Tenn., was elected national president during a Hawaii convention earlier this year. He has been an Exchange Club member since 1960.

Julian Bond, a member of the Georgia State Senate and the first black to be nominated for the U.S. vice presidency, will discuss "The New Politics" at 8 p.m. in Chicago Hall auditorium at Vassar College on Wednesday, Nov. 5. The lecture, sponsored by the college's Black Studies Department, will be open to the public without charge.

Bond was nominated for vice president at the 1968 Democratic National Convention, where he was also chairman of the insurgent Georgia Loyal National Delegation, a group that was successful in unseating the hand-picked Georgia delegation. Bond later disqualifed himself because of his age (28).

After working with various southern civil rights organizations, Bond was elected to the Georgia House of Representatives in 1965, but was barred from his seat by legislators who objected to his public opposition to the Vietnamese conflict. Despite victories in two special elections in 1966, he did not gain his House seat until 1967 after a Supreme Court ruling against the State Legislature.

Bond eventually served four full terms in the House and was elected to the State Senate in the fall of 1974.

Bond, president of the Southern Poverty Law Center, is a director of the New Democratic Coalition, the Southern Regional Council, The Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Fund, the Martin Luther King Jr.

Antibusing Amendment Under Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress should refuse to allow "the fever of the times" to result in passage of an antibusing constitutional amendment, says Louisville League of Women Voters president Dot Ridings.

"Louisville, itself, after barely eight weeks of busing, cannot be allowed to be the precedent for the entire nation," she told the Senate Judiciary Committee at the last of two hearings this week focusing on the busing situation in Kentucky's largest city.

The committee also heard reaction to four proposed constitutional amendments to prohibit busing for the purpose of achieving racial balance.

Sen. William Roth Jr., R-Del., said although approval and ratification would take several years, "the only ironclad route is a constitutional amendment route."

The parents of a boy killed six weeks ago during racial violence at an Oklahoma City high school blamed "the climate of forced busing" and urged Congress to submit an antibusing constitutional amendment to the states.

Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane said he was opposed to the amendment, arguing that "a federal court faced with a strictly drawn antibusing amendment might well resort to even less palatable remedies for achieving school desegregation."

Mrs. Ridings told the committee that busing and other methods of desegregating schools such as redistricting or pairing should be available for communities.

"We hope the Senate Judiciary Committee will not allow the fever of the times to dictate closing the door on one means of achieving this type of a learning environment," she testified.

The league's opposition to an antibusing amendment is shared by its affiliates in more than 1,300 communities in all states, she said. Because busing in some communities is the only alternative to school segregation, "a constitutional prohibition on pupil transportation for racial balance would indeed be a denial of equal opportunity to education," said Mrs. Ridings.

Robert Bradford, a parking meter repairman, goes over stock of 800 outdated meters retired from service in Kansas City but destined for new and novel uses. (UPI)

Meters Find New Parking

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — One buyer wants to use a parking meter to charge his teen-agers overtime money if they stay in the bathroom more than 15 minutes.

And a Colorado man wants two meters just for old times' sake.

Since Kansas City offered 800 surplus parking meters for sale this week, clerks have had their hands full taking orders.

"The Colorado man said he got so many parking tickets in Kansas City he wanted one of the meters for old times' sake," said Charles Johnson, commissioner of purchasing and supplies whose department is handling the sales. "The Colorado man bought two."

The 30-year-old, 20-pound, nickle and penny meters had been gathering dust in a storeroom since last winter when they were replaced with new models.

Johnson and four office workers have spent most of their time answering phone calls about the $15 parking meters. Johnson said he received calls from as far away as California.

A Tulsa, Okla., man bought 20 meters and a Los Angeles company offered to buy the entire stock, but Johnson declined the firm's offer to give the general public first choice in the buying.

"Theoretically, we've had enough offers to sell them all, at the rate the calls have come in," Johnson said. "If we have any left over, then we'll let the commercial buyers have them."

Shrub May Be A Cancer Cure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new, potentially potent anticancer drug derived from an African shrub soon will be tested at the National Cancer Institute in humans suffering from advanced forms of the disease.

The naturally occurring compound, called maytansine, has been effective in animal tests against leukemia, cancer of the bone marrow and some types of solid tumors.

Dr. Richard Adamson, chief of the NCI Laboratory of Chemical Pharmacology, said in an interview Tuesday the Food and Drug Administration has cleared the drug for clinical trials and he said internal NCI approval is expected shortly.

He said some NCI patients whose cancers have not responded to usual forms of treatment should start receiving maytansine within a week or two.

"We're fairly excited about it," Adamson said. "We think it's a good agent. We anticipate that it will be very good in the clinic."

Maytansine is very toxic in large doses, but Adamson said small doses have been effective in inhibiting tumor growth in rats. The compound is 10 times more potent in rat tests than two proven anticancer drugs, vincristine and vinblastine, which also are derived from plants. Adamson said maytansine has much less neurological toxicity than vincristine, which is widely used in treating leukemia in children.

The clinical tests will begin with very small doses every three weeks. If all goes well, the dosage will be increased slowly while doctors watch for harmful side effects as well as effectiveness against the cancer.

Some highlights:

- Monthly charge for service goes up 34¢ for residence, 57¢ for flat rate business, and $1.04 for message rate business.
- No timing of one message unit calls.
- Message units cheaper between 9PM-9AM weekdays, all day on weekends and 5 major holidays in New York and Buffalo Metropolitan Areas.
- Overtime charging on all multi-message unit calls starts after 3 minutes.
- Instate long distance rates up; new 2-minute rate for long distance calls you dial yourself.
- Surcharges for person-to-person and operator-handled local and long distance calls increase.
- 10¢ pay phone calls stay at a dime.
- Minimum service connection charges up: to $18.50 for residence, to $44 for business.
- Residence extensions increase 34¢.
- Business extensions and supplemental services increase.

New rates for telephone service, designed to produce $297.9 million in added revenues annually, have been filed, subject to Public Service Commission approval.

The filing follows a Commission order of October 22, after 11 months of hearings and review, granting a telephone rate increase in that amount.

The increase is to help us meet rising taxes, wages, cost of modernization and replacement of facilities, and other costs of providing telephone service.

Following are some of the changes in more detail (rates quoted do not include taxes):

Basic service rates

The monthly charge for service increases 34¢ for residence customers, 57¢ for flat rate business customers, and $1.04 for message rate business customers. PBX trunk rates remain unchanged.

For some customers in the Mid-Hudson and Niagara Regions, Buffalo Suburbs, Utica, Esperance, Galway, Sackets Harbor, Silver Creek, Attica, Varysburg and Westerlo, the increase in basic rates is offset by changes in the basis for establishing monthly charges. In almost all cases, this results in net decreases ranging from 9¢ to $1.37 a month, depending on location.

Flat rate customers in 11 communities—Montauk Point, Kings Park, Bayport, Shoreham, Pleasantville, Brewster, Tarrytown, Ossining, New City, Ellenville and Saugerties—are receiving additional increases due to reclassification to higher rate groups. Customers affected are being notified by mail.

Message units

The one message unit call remains untimed—no additional message units apply for one unit calls lasting longer than 5 minutes.

The regular price of a message unit remains at 82¢, except as indicated below.

In New York City, Long Island, southern Westchester (including Ossining, Pleasantville and Armonk) and the Buffalo Metropolitan Area, a Message Unit Discount Plan drops the message unit price to 6¢ between 9PM and 9AM on weekdays, and all day on Saturdays, Sundays and 5 major holidays. That's a saving of 27% for message rate customers, and for Basic Budget and flat rate customers who make message unit calls. (For message rate customers, the saving applies after the monthly allowance of 50 message units is used.)

Overtime charging on calls of two or more message units begins after 3 minutes—instead of 5 or 4—in New York City, southern Westchester, Nassau, Cold Spring Harbor, Farmingdale and Amityville. And most overtime charges are up

If your initial message unit charge is 2 units for 3 minutes, the overtime charge is 1 unit for each additional 2 minutes. For 3, 4 or 5 message units, it's 1 unit for each additional minute. And for 6 or 7 units, overtime is 2 message units for each additional minute.

The Message Unit Discount Plan applies to multi-message unit calls as well as to one unit calls.

Your business office representative can help with any questions you may have about any message unit usage shown on your bill. For customers who would like a photostatic copy of their Message Unit Details, where available, it can be furnished at a cost of $1.50 for each request for residence; $1.50 plus 25¢ a page for business customers.

Basic Budget Service

Where available, Basic Budget Service for residence customers increases from $4.03 to $4.37 per month. As before, there is no message unit allowance, all local calls are charged at 82¢ (or 6¢ after 9PM weekdays, and all day on weekends and 5 holidays in the New York and Buffalo metropolitan areas).

Long distance

Overtime on direct dialed non-coin calls within the state between 8AM and 11PM begins after 2 minutes instead of 3. Calls of 2 minutes or less can cost up to 20% less.

Long distance rates are increased 17% overall. However, this increase is not applied evenly.

- Direct dialed non-coin calls placed during "Day" hours (8AM to 5PM weekdays) decrease up to 14% under 2 minutes, and increase up to 35% under 3 minutes. The percentage increase for calls up to 186 miles is slightly higher than that for calls of longer distance.

- The "Evening" discount (after 5PM weekdays and all day weekends) ranges from 20% to 48% below the new daytime rates. While evening calls of less than 2 minutes are as much as 20% less than in the past, calls of more than 2 minutes are up to 34% more. Generally, the percent increase is greater for calls of greater distance.

- Lowest one-minute "Night" rates (11PM-8AM all days) are 50% to 60% lower than new daytime rates for calls of the same duration. Short distance "Night" calls decrease up to 27% below present rates, and longer-distance calls increase up to 28%.

Surcharges on operator-handled long distance calls within the state increase from 30¢ to 60¢, except for person-to-person. On person-to-person, the surcharges increase from 50¢, 60¢ or 70¢ to $1, $1.20 or $1.40, depending on the distance called. Operator-handled long distance calls continue to have a 3-minute initial period. The surcharges are to be added to the direct distance dialed rate for 3 minutes.

Surcharges for operator-handled non-coin local calls increase to 60¢ except for person-to-person. On person-to-person, the surcharge is $1 for local calls. On coin calls, surcharges range from 40¢ to 60¢ for operator-handled calls, except for person-to-person, which range from 80¢ to $1.00.

Surcharge calls—both local and long distance—include those placed by the operator at customer request, and collect, credit card, third number, time and charges, special billing number calls, and person-to-person. A surcharge does not apply on normally dialed calls if you encounter trouble and ask the operator for help. Nor does it apply for handicapped persons requiring operator assistance on a call that is regularly dialed. Surcharges do apply for handicapped persons, however, on all collect, credit card, third number, time and charges and person-to-person calls.

There are no changes in rates for out-of-state long distance calls.

Coin telephones

The 10¢ local coin telephone call remains unchanged. However, other local coin calls to more distant points generally increase in amounts ranging from 5¢ to 20¢ for the initial period. In addition, the initial period becomes 3 minutes instead of 5, and some overtime rates increase. Long distance calls made during the day and evening from coin phones increase 3¢ to 27¢ above direct-dialed long distance rates from non-coin phones for the 3-minute initial period. The rates for long distance operator-handled and person-to-person coin calls are the same as for comparable non-coin calls. Night coin rates are the same as evening coin rates.

Service connection charges

The minimum connection charge increases from $15 to $18.50 for residence and from $30 to $44 for business. Separate charges of $3.50 for residence and $22 for business apply to each additional non-key telephone connected—higher charges for key telephones.

Similar charges apply to moves, changes or rearranging of phones, and to changes in classification of service, a lower charge applies when changes do not require a visit to the premises. And there is no charge when a customer changes to a less expensive classification of service within 60 days of a rate increase.

These new charges cover the expenses involved in issuing the order for service, performing central office line work, and for work done on a customer's premises. The amount of the charge depends on whether one or more of the above work operations is required.

Residence extensions and premium items

The price for residence extension phones increases from $1.34 a month to $1.68.

Touch-Tone® Service to increase from $2.54 a month to $3.05 for residence customers, $3.68 to $4.42 for business.

Trimline® phones to increase from $1.95 to $2.34 a month. Single Payment Option charge from $101.30 to $121.56.

Princess® phones to go from $1.38 to $1.66 a month. Single Payment Option charge from $50.65 to $60.78.

Major business service increases

Extensions—flat rate goes up 57¢ to $2.95, a month message rate goes up $1.04 to $2.85 a month.

Centrex—line rate increases range from 17.5% to 25%.

Data and Teletype transfer rates—20% to 25%.

PBX systems—minimum increases range from 20% to 25% depending on the type of equipment involved. A flat increase up to 45%.

Private toll-free services—about 25%.

Others—increases range from 10% to 20%.

Protective connecting arrangements for customer-owned equipment—charges range from a reduction of $5.02 to an increase of $2.07, depending on the type of equipment involved.

Instate NATS services—the average customer's bill will increase approximately 17%.

Your business office representative is available for further explanation of the rates filed.

Citibank Again Cuts Prime Rate

NEW YORK (UPI) — First National City Bank today cut its prime lending rate for the second consecutive week, lowering it to 7 1/2 per cent from 7 3/4 per cent in response to the easier credit policy of the Federal Reserve.

The new rate is effective Monday.

Other major banks across the nation were expected to make similar reductions. First National Bank of St. Louis actually beat Citibank to the punch, lowering its prime to 7 1/2 per cent Thursday.

The new round of cuts in the prime is a result of lower interest rates on short-term loans by the Federal Reserve system itself and by commercial dealers who buy and sell notes.

Banks base their prime on how much it costs them to borrow money and when their costs go down the prime normally declines, provided loan demand is soft, as it is today.

Figures released Thursday by the Federal Reserve confirmed the lower short-term rates, along with a modest decline in loan demand.

The prime is the minimum lending rate for a bank's most creditworthy corporate customers. It is a benchmark from which other rates are scaled upwards. Consumers pay much higher interest for personal or auto loans, for example.

Gamblers Lost More Than Ever

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Gamblers lost a record $1 billion in Nevada's casinos last fiscal year, showing that the nation's weak economy doesn't deter the dice throwers, onearmed bandit pullers and card players.

The casinos' take was an increase of 13.5 per cent over the figure for the previous year, the state Gaming Control Board reported Thursday.

"The industry continues to demonstrate remarkable resilience to a generally soft economy," said Edward Bowers, executive secretary of the board.

From the casino winnings the state collected $82.5 million in taxes, a gain of 11 per cent.

Suspended Jurist Refuses to Resign

NEWBURGH, (UPI) — Suspended Newburgh City Court Judge Albert S. McDowell says he will not resign his post.

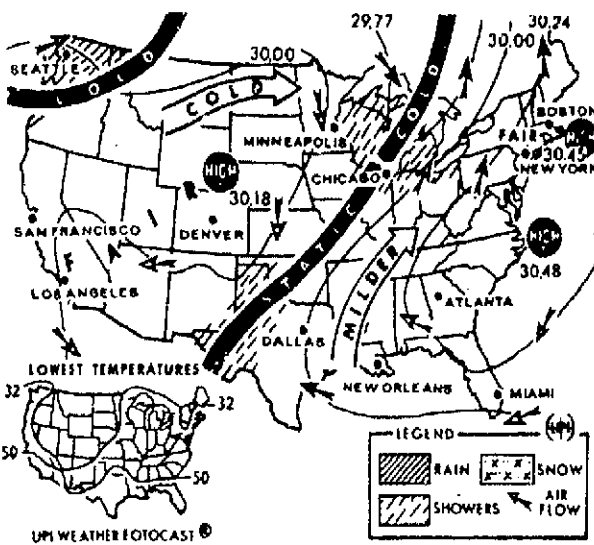

The jurist and the local bar association have been squabbling over his alleged reluctance to allow plea-bargaining in cases before him and Presiding Justice Frank A. Gullota of the State Supreme Court Appellate Division relieved McDowell of his court duties as of Wednesday evening, pending a hearing. A date has not been set.

Earlier this year the Appellate Division's Judiciary Relations Committee looked into complaints from the bar associations of Newburgh and Orange County. The attorneys were critical of McDowell's refusal to plea bargain and for what they said was his apparent disdain for conferences outside the courtroom.

The lawyers also complained of undecided motions, improper sentencing, failure to bring civil cases to trial, and alleged harassment of attorneys.

McDowell, a Conservative elected in 1972, is halfway through a six-year term, and has said he will not resign his post.

Hits 'Fictitious' Flyer

TOWN OF OLIVE

Terence G. Carle, Town of Olive assessor chairman and a candidate for re-election, has condemned the "distorted and fictitious information" in a recent flyer distributed by his opponent.

"It is clearly an attempt to confuse the residents of Olive with a smokescreen of falsehood and innuendo intended to divert attention from the accomplishments I have made while in office," Carle said. "It also hides the reckless and dangerous proposals previously made by my opponent, which could destroy Olive's protective tax base."

"My opponent's flyer is almost totally constructed from inaccuracies and distorted facts. Here are just a few:

• "Despite his contention to the contrary, the state has set no arbitrary equalization rate penalty for towns that do not immediately reassess themselves.

• "The equalization rate does not 'insure that similar houses in different towns pay the same tax.' Olive residents would not want to pay Woodstock-type rates for 'similar houses."

• "The blame for increased school tax bills rests primarily with the $750,000 budget increase enacted by the Onteora school board, not with your local assessors."

• "The state has mandated review of all taxable properties by 1979. To this end, a data file system has to be set up for assessed parcels. Virtually every town in Ulster County has hired data collectors. No town completed their property record cards from data previously on file."

Blames Board for Suit

WALLKILL — "Once again, the fumbling and procrastination of Shawangunk's Republican town board has resulted in a lawsuit being filed against the town," noted Shawangunk Democratic Committee Chairman Marc B. Fried.

"Last time it was a suit over conditions at the town dump. This time it concerns the endless delays to which the proposed sewage plant has been subjected."

"Are we in for another vicious cycle of delay, lawsuit, court order and more delay? Will we again have a sudden 'emergency' situation, with the taxpayers picking up the tab for the last-minute blunders of Mr. Garrison and company? Will the Shawangunk sewage plant be planned and built in haste with the same ineptness and incompetence with which the three expensive and unusable testing wells were drilled at the new dump site?"

"These are the questions which the Republican administration will have to answer under the pressure of a lawsuit, and these are some of the questions which Shawangunk's voters will be pondering in the countdown to Election Day."

Stedge Response To Vogt on Probe

TOWN OF ULSTER

Robert Stedge, Conservative candidate for Town of Ulster supervisor, has suggested that a "no bill" handed up by an Ulster County grand jury following its investigation into an alleged irregularities on the part of incumbent Republican Supervisor Carmine Sabino "does not necessarily mean that no crime was committed."

Stedge's comment was in response to a statement by District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, who said the Sabino matter should be considered a "dead issue" because the grand jury found no cause for action.

"The District Attorney can correct me if I'm wrong," Stedge responded, "but a person's case does not go to the grand jury unless it is reasonable to believe a crime has been committed and it's reasonable to believe that that person had a part in that crime . . . There are many cases when a person could take some highly unethical actions, use poor judgement, etc., that would not constitute a crime . . ."

Stedge also offered an apology to Vogt for stating in a previous release that the District Attorney's office was currently investigating other complaints against Sabino. Vogt denied that his office is "investigating" complaints lodged against Sabino by Stedge; his office, he said, is simply looking into the matter.

"The fact that the D.A. has written the town engineer regarding the information indicates he is making inquiry into the matter even though it's not an investigation, for which I am thankful," said Stedge.

The Conservative candidate has suggested that there might be improprieties involved in a $27,600 claim filed by the Sabino family against the town for damages incurred during the installation of sewer lines on Sabino family property.

Opposing Charter

KINGSTON

"At the last regular monthly meeting of Local 441, Kingston Professional Fire Fighters Association, it was voted by the membership to oppose the proposed new city charter," said Ernest C. Renn Jr., association president.

"There were several areas of disagreement, the main one being that the membership feels that, as written, the proposed charter would not enhance a smooth-running operation for the Kingston Fire Department."

A Bicentennial Declaration of Independence From High Electric Rates

This Country was born fighting tyranny. Our forefathers fought against the tyranny of unfair taxes they would not pay. Today we are fighting against the tyranny of unfair electric rates we cannot pay.

We hold this truth to be self-evident, that electricity is so basic to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness that it must be available and affordable for all people.

That to make this so, town governments, with the consent and control of the governed, can establish municipal public power systems to supply electricity at rates at least 1/3 lower than those of private utilities.

That this savings is possible because municipal utilities can purchase from the Power Authority of the State of New York cheap electricity which can be sold cheaply because public power systems do not have to pay such things as dividends to investors or corporate salaries.

That the exact costs and needs of a municipal electric utility shall be determined by a feasibility study to be done by professional engineers and planners.

That all of the financial needs of the public power system will be met by issuing municipal bonds which are tax-free and paid off through the rate structure.

That public power can be brought to town residents over existing power lines and through existing electrical substations which by law the private utility must sell to the municipal utility.

That the municipal utility will be able to set its own rates, maintain its own electric facilities with town crew and staff, and respond to customer concerns by means of an elected local electric power supervisory board.

That a municipal electric utility provide benefits to the town in many ways. It lowers electric rates; it attracts business because of lower rates; and returns to the town substantial profits which are used to build public roads and buildings. In many cases, this return, according to the Federal Power Commission, is equal to or greater than property taxes paid by private utilities.

We, therefore, as consumers united in our concern about unnecessarily high and ever-increasing electric rates, do publish and declare that we ought to be free of the tyranny of the private utility; that we ought to join the more than 2,500 municipal electric utilities in the United States (47 in New York State) which have had commercially successful public power since the 1890's; and that as a municipal electric utility supplying and enjoying our own electricity and its benefits, we will have the power to determine future energy needs and the safe sources to meet those needs.

Mrs. Tipp Tours Jail

KINGSTON Alice Tipp, a candidate for Ulster County legislator from Saugerties, recently toured the Ulster County Jail and complimented Sheriff Thomas Mayone on the facility.

Mrs. Tipp, formerly president of the We've Had It Taxpayers Association (WHITA) and currently a member of the Board of Directors of the Voice of Taxpayers Inc., had previously made an evaluation study visit in January. Mrs. Tipp said she was pleased with the decision of the New York State Department of Corrections to place the alleged kidnaper of millionaire whisky heir Samuel Bronfman in the Ulster County Jail "because of their complete confidence in the new management of the jail."

Mayone, commenting on the evaluation study, said: "The concern shown by Alice Tipp is another important indication of her continuing efforts on behalf of area taxpayers."

Mrs. Tipp is running as a Republican and has also received Conservative endorsement. A former vice president of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club, she has been a outspoken advocate of tax reform.

Mrs. Tipp resides with her husband and two children in the Town of Saugerties.

Warns Against Socialism

ROSENDALE Town of Rosendale GOP Chairman William P. Curran has called upon responsible traditional Democrats and independents in the town to join with the Republican Party in rejecting "the attempted takeover of the town government by the liberal intellectuals, specifically Supervisor Glazer and council candidate Stormer."

"Perhaps the average person has not been following the statements and reading into the literature and following the actions of these two candidates as closely as we all should have," Curran said. "I only realized their liberal socialistic alien philosophies of local government following the October town board meeting, when Glazer and Stormer gave their support to an outmoded socialistic concept of municipal ownership of public utilities, the program and presentation being recognized and supported by the chairman of the meeting, Supervisor Glazer."

"My first impression was that it was merely political talk when Stormer published his brochure that he was for cheaper electricity. We are all for that. However, a tipoff was when he published that 'now is the right time to investigate the formation of an electric utility.'

"However, at the town board meeting, when Glazer recognized Peter Ford, an advocate of town and government ownership of basic industries, especially utility companies, and other basic industries, especially utility companies, supported from the floor by Stormer, then I realized that these two were serious, especially when Glazer states in his brochure that he has 'different philosophies with the Republican members of the town board.'"

Action By Rosendale Taxpayers

ROSENDALE The newly formed Rosendale Taxpayers' Association got off the ground last week by naming its officers and endorsing town candidates at its first meeting.

After listening to candidates for town assessor speak, the association elected Bert Darrow, president; David Andrews, vice president; Knut Bakke, treasurer; and Kathy Laverly, secretary.

Endorsed were: Pat Hollman for the two-year term and Norman Tierney for the four-year term.

Says Remarks 'Hogwash'

KINGSTON "Recent critical remarks by Emily Johnson, Republican candidate for alderman-at-large, demonstrate her lack of knowledge of our recreation program," according to Ronald F. Woods, Kingston recreation commissioner.

"I realize that this is the time of year when candidates are groping for something to say and that most of Mrs. Johnson's comments are political hogwash. However, the record must be set straight as the public should be made aware of the real truth."

"Mrs. Johnson comments that the summer youth program in our parks have not kept pace with the youngsters' interests and she indicates that our city recreation program lacks interest and originality. I wonder how much Mrs. Johnson really knows about our city recreation program?"

"Does she realize we operate a softball league of 65 men's teams, a women's softball league, and a park league for the kids? Does she realize our summer program includes an eight-week youth tennis clinic rated excellent by the U.S.

Tennis Association? Does she realize that our Children's Day Parade in July ranks as one of the best in the state? Does she realize that within the last few years the city has constructed a Rondout Service Center as a center of activities in that area?"

"In addition, we sponsor men's and women's team tennis, swimming lessons at the beach, ice skating in four locations, skiing at Hasbrouck Park, a well-maintained zoo, night tennis, girls' volleyball, basketball lessons for youngsters, biddy basketball, over-30 basketball, and many others?"

"Finances, manpower and time limit the activities we can run. Instead of stating untruths (such as Lawton Park being lost during the present administration, when in fact it was during Mayor Garraghan's administration) why doesn't she mention some of the excellent programs we have developed?"

"The Kingston Recreation Commission will sit down at any time with Mrs. Johnson or anyone else to discuss what can be done to better our recreation program."

Mini-Busses For Kingston

The transportation needs of our City residents have been a major concern of the Koenig Administration.

So in case you have not noticed, bids will be opened shortly for 3 new air-conditioned mini-busses to serve our Senior Citizens, shoppers, workers and general public in need of such transportation.

The Federal government will pay 80% of the cost — 15% by New York State — and 5% local share.

'Beware of Late Charges'

SAUGERTIES Charles J. Scala Jr., Republican-Conservative candidate for re-election to the Ulster County Legislature from Saugerties, says that the main issue of this campaign has been opponents' attacks on the legislature's Republican majority.

"This has already been refuted by showing the differences between the words of the Democratic candidates and the deeds of incumbent Democratic legislators," Scala said.

"At this late date the charges which might be raised will have to go unanswered because of the closeness of election day. It is important for the public to evaluate any late charges and wonder why they are being raised now.

"The main problems of the people are a concern about the country's economy and the growth of government at all levels. The high rate of unemployment and ever-increasing rate of inflation hurts people in all walks of life and it's time for every elected official to sit up and take action before the country becomes one great big New York City. A growing government all too often gives the people what it thinks they should have instead of giving them what they want because it has lost touch with the people."

Scala calls for the following items: evaluation of all existing county programs to insure they are being efficiently operated; adoption of a long-range plan to insure that the county is prepared for the future in all areas — people, buildings, and equipment; and careful scrutiny of all new county programs to determine their need.

Politics Determine Taxes?

HURLEY Andrea Moran, Democratic candidate for the Ulster County Legislature from the towns of Ulster, Hurley and Olive, charged today that the county tax rate "seesaws up and down depending on whether we are in an election year or not."

"The Republican legislators in my district put out a brochure bragging that their leadership has caused taxes to decrease on several occasions," Mrs. Moran said. "But if you look at the figures it is equally obvious that their actions have caused taxes to increase on the same number of occasions that they have decreased."

"Our tax rate goes down in election year and then goes up again the next year, which is a non-election year.

"We have all heard talk about the tax surplus. Bailing out the Republican Party during election year is the purpose of that surplus. In other words, people were overtaxed several years ago and that extra money has created the surplus which is used to 'lower' taxes in the election year.

"That is not leadership. It is not government. It's just plain politics. It's buying votes. Ulster County is not better off because our county tax rates seesaw," she said.

Messina Response

SAUGERTIES Responding to a release from a Republican legislator, Mary Messina, Democratic candidate from the new District 3, says that she is "neither inept, ignorant of the true facts, and certainly not deceitful."

Referring to the legislative proceedings of 1975 she described recently, Mrs. Messina reaffirmed her position on the year-end balance. "A Republican legislator mistakenly uses the cash on hand entry of $5.02 million to represent the year-end balance," she said.

"Sound business practice demands that monies, the receipt of which is assured, be added to cash on hand. The $7.26 million is the total year-end balance after reserves for encumbrances and uncollectable taxes have been accounted for.

"Further, the $3.5 million representing our welfare commitment is a total of which Ulster County is responsible for about $900,000, not the $3.5 million we were led to believe."

Says 'Smear' Tried on Miller

SAUGERTIES Michael Selinger, campaign coordinator for Town of Saugerties Democrats, charges that the statements by contractor Earl Baker in an ad in area newspapers was an "obvious attempt to smear Democratic supervisor candidate Paul Miller."

"Mr. Baker suggests that Miller libeled him by saying that certain of his actions had been under investigation by the district attorney's office," Selinger said. "Apparently he did not read the Aug. 12 and 13 issues of the Daily Freeman, both of which contained references to matters under investigation in connection with him and Jose Camallonga."

Selinger quoted the Freeman article as saying that there was an allegation that fraud and collusion were involved in the acquisition of two pieces of equipment, formerly property of the county highway department, that were traded in on new equipment in late 1973, and that Baker said that considering the repairs that had to be made he did not feel that he made anything on the sale of the loader.

"I cannot believe Baker would have made so easily disproved a charge against Miller unless he had been put up to it by certain politicians who were simply trying to use him in order to get at Miller," Selinger said. "It certainly backfired."

Selinger asked why Supervisor A. Michael Schovel had never replied to Miller's charges against him concerning his part in the Bluestone Park subdivision planning board hearing, at which Baker and Camallonga appeared.

"Three weeks have passed and Schovel has failed to answer Miller's challenge," Selinger said. "I now find it hard to believe that Schovel has an explanation available that will stand public examination."

"I think he owes Miller an apology," Selinger said. "If not, why won't he tell us why he thought it was good for the town and for Bluestone Park residents to let Camallonga and Baker put in sub-standard pipe. The record will show that Mr. Schovel was asked this question early in the campaign and that he has evaded the question whenever it is brought up."

"He had a chance to answer at the League of Women Voters Candidates Night recently but protested against the question when it was proposed from the floor."

Blue Collar Salaries Down

ALBANY Starting salaries for blue collar municipal workers in Kingston are at the bottom of two of the three categories reported on by the State Public Employment Relations Board (PERB).

The PERB study compares salaries in Kingston with those in Poughkeepsie, Port Jervis, Newburgh and Middletown, but cautions that job duties and classifications vary from city to city in the mid-Hudson area and weren't intended for comparison, although admitting that many parties in negotiations have requested such information to help resolve disputes.

Starting salary in Kingston for a laborer is $7,004, lowest of the five cities studied. Port Jervis pays $7,176, Newburgh $7,225, Middletown $8,195, and Poughkeepsie, which led in all three categories, pays $11,300.

Starting pay for auto mechanics in Kingston is also low on the scale at $8,195. Other figures are $8,657 for Newburgh $9,131 for Port Jervis, and $13,300 for Poughkeepsie. Figures were not available for Middletown in this category.

Starting pay for a sewage plant operator in Kingston are in the middle of the range at $11,796. Others are Newburgh, $10,069, Port Jervis, $10,130, Middletown $12,800, and Poughkeepsie $13,900.

PERB released salary schedules for selected clerical jobs in the Orange County cities of Middletown, Newburgh, and Port Jervis, but did not include Poughkeepsie or Kingston figures.

Passenger Train On The Climb

A passenger train climbs the Mountain Division on the Hudson Valley Lines, quarter-inch scale model railroad system of the Kingston Model Railroad Club. The annual exhibition will be open to the public on Fridays and Saturdays, Nov. 7 and 8, 14 and 15, evenings from 7 to 9 p.m., and Sundays, Nov. 9 and 16, from 2:30 to 9 p.m. The exhibition is located at the foot of Susan street, off Pine Grove Avenue, with plenty of parking available. This is the 38th annual show of the local club.

Board Appropriates Funds

PHOENICIA The Shandaken Town Board has appropriated $5,000 to carry out plans of the Shandaken Bicentennial Committee.

The committee at a recent meeting voted to sell souvenir plates and raise funds from other sources to supplement the fund.

A portfolio prepared by Ida Tollenger was narrated by Richard Knight and will be used to present the Bicentennial plans to the town board. It has been shown to several area organizations by Knight already.

A representative of a commercial firm showed plates which have been used in other areas to raise funds. The contest for a design for a plate and possibly for a town flag has been extended to Nov. 15 in response to requests for various contenters for more time.

The next meeting, which would conflict with the Thanksgiving holiday, will be rescheduled at a time to be announced later.

Building at Paltz State Named for Late President

NEW PALTZ The State University of New York Board of Trustees has approved the naming of administration Building at State University College at New Paltz for the late William J. Haggerty.

Dr. Haggerty, president at New Paltz from 1944 to 1966, died last June at the age of 66.

The trustees acted on the recommendation of President Stanley Coffman Jr., and the New Paltz College Council. A special council committee, headed by Bertha Connelly of Kingston, was appointed to determine how the college would memorialize the former president who presided over the years of greatest growth at New Paltz.

"We selected the Administration Building," Mrs. Connelly said, "because he was the chief administrative officer during the planning stages and during some of the construction program which made the campus what it is today."

The William J. Haggerty Administration Building will be formally dedicated at 2 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 30. Details of the dedication ceremony are still being arranged.

A second memorial to the well-known educator is a scholarship fund established jointly by the New Paltz Alumni Association and by a group of Dr. Haggerty's former colleagues and friends. The goal is to raise enough money to provide an annual scholarship for a student in one of the College's international programs, one of the late president's principal interests.

It's Time For a Change!

AND HERE ARE JUST A FEW REASONS WHY . . .

- 1. THE OLD CITY HALL---The mayor has allowed this magnificent Structure to fall to wrack & ruin. BILL DARLING PROPOSES TO FIND A PROPER USE WITHOUT ASKING THE TAXPAYERS FOR A BLANK CHECK FOR EXPENDITURES OF APPROX. $1,000,000!
 - 2. DOWNTOWN URBAN RENEWAL---"City Hall Plaza", "Grand Union" all just promises---still no developers! BILL DARLING HAS PRIVATELY BROUGHT BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY INTO THE CITY AND WILL BE RESPONSIBLE FOR OVER 120 NEW JOBS. BILL DARLING CAN DO THE SAME FOR SAHARA LAND!
 - 3. THE CITY BUDGET --- has risen from approximately $2,500,000 to a little over $8,064,000 BILL DARLING PROPOSES SOUND FISCAL PLANNING. WITH OVER 30 SUCCESSFUL YEARS IN BANKING AND PRIVATE BUSINESS, BILL DARLING KNOWS ABOUT BUDGETS AND SOUND FINANCIAL PLANNING.
 - 4. THE LANDFILL SITE?---Where is the 'DUMP' finally going to go. The mayor had many years for this decision! BILL DARLING OBJECTED TO THE CHAPEL STREET SITE. BILL DARLING CALLED UPON THE MAYOR TO REVEAL HIS PLANS BEFORE ELECTION. BILL DARLING PROMISES LONG TERM PLANNING SO THAT WE ARE NOT BOUNCED FROM CRISIS TO CRISIS!
 - 5. THE FIREMEN'S CONTROVERSY---You must remember this problem--the mayor is the first in our city's history to have problems between the Paid and Volunteer firemen. He has had this problem for a few years now! BILL DARLING HAS TAKEN STRONG EXCEPTION TO THE MAYOR'S HANDLING BY STRONG ARM TACTICS THIS PUBLIC SAFETY ISSUE. BILL DARLING HAS PROMISED TO NOT PHASE OUT AND OR ELIMINATE THE VOLUNTEER FIREMEN. BILL DARLING SUPPORTS THE LAW TO MAKE THE ENTIRE COMMON COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR ABOLISHMENT OF THE VOLUNTEERS--NOT A HAND PICKED GROUP OF FOUR FIRE COMMISSIONERS SELECTED BY THE MAYOR!
 - 6. DECREASE IN CITY POPULATION---We have lost over 4,000 persons from this city recently. BILL DARLING PROPOSES TO ACTIVELY ENCOURAGE NEW RESIDENTS AND BUSINESS TO LIVE AND WORK IN OUR CITY.
 - 7. INCREASE IN CRIME---There has been an increase in crime, especially violent crime in our city! BILL DARLING PROPOSES AN IN DEPTH REVIEW OF OUR POLICE DEPARTMENT WITH THE HELP OF CONCERNED AND QUALIFIED PRIVATE CITIZENS.
 - 8. BUSINESS LEAVING OUR CITY---We have literally lost hundreds of businesses since our mayor has been in office. The mayor boasts of filling a few stores uptown---how about the hundreds from all over town that left? BILL DARLING BELIEVES THAT KINGSTON CONSISTS OF MORE THAN JUST AN 'UPTOWN' BILL DARLING PROPOSES TO HELP ALL AREAS OF THE CITY IN REVITALIZING ITSELF.
 - 9. LACK OF CENTRAL PURCHASING---The mayor runs the city with other people's money much like the movie theatre he invested in --- (OUT OF TOWN) Ask him how his theatre business is doing? BILL DARLING PROPOSES TO RUN THE CITY LIKE A BUSINESS WHICH MUST BE SUCCESSFUL IN ORDER TO CONTINUE! THE MAYOR DOES NOT THINK WE COULD BE ANOTHER NEW YORK CITY!
 - 10. DOUBLING OF CITY EMPLOYEES---When our businesses are leaving and over 4,000 persons moved out of Kingston---The mayor can boast of more than doubling our city employees. Sound like a political machine? BILL DARLING IS AS MUCH IN FAVOR OF WORK FOR PEOPLE AS IS THE NEXT GUY---BUT TWICE THE NUMBER OF CITY EMPLOYEES---WHO IS THE MAYOR KIDDING? Only the taxpayer!
 - 11. CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT AND DOWNTOWN---What has the mayor done in these areas? BILL DARLING PROPOSES TO SHOW AS MUCH CONCERN FOR UPTOWN AS DOWNTOWN AND ALL AROUND THE TOWN! IT IS TIME FOR A MAYOR WHO LOVES OUR WHOLE CITY NOT A PART OF IT!
 - 12. CITY WATER & SEWAGE SYSTEMS---When the mayor took office over six years ago he had these problems! BILL DARLING, OVER SIX YEARS LATER PLANS TO DO SOMETHING TO UPGRADE OUR OUT-DATED WATER AND SEWAGE SYSTEMS. HOW? BY A COMPREHENSIVE PLAN TO START TACKLING THE PROBLEM NOW---NOT SIX YEARS FROM NOW!
 - 13. TRANSPORTATION FOR SENIOR CITIZENS---So we finally may have a couple of mini-buses---We needed them and much more over six years ago. Maybe will get them just before election! BILL DARLING FEELS THAT THE SENIOR CITIZEN HAS BEEN SHORT CHANGED AND LIED TO! DARLING HAS OUTLINED PROGRAMS TO HIRE AND HELP OUR SENIOR CITIZENS. We need him now!
 - 14. HISTORIC RESTORATION---Ask the mayor for the real story on Tremper House and the Hoffman House! BILL DARLING DOES NOT THINK THAT REPAIRING THE ROOF OF THE SENATE HOUSE IN OCTOBER IS INDICATIVE OF MAYOR KOENIG'S BEST INTENTIONS TO SHOW HIS CONCERN FOR ALL OF OUR FINE HISTORIC BUILDINGS.
 - 15. DEITZ STADIUM SWIMMING POOL---We have only waited for 3 years and now we have a HOLE in the ground! BILL DARLING FINDS THIS ONE HARD TO BELIEVE! NOT ONLY THE THREE YEARS IN THE MAKING---BUT FOR A COST OF $208,000---SEEM A LITTLE HIGH FOR A SWIMMING POOL?
 - 16. DROP IN CITY'S EQUALIZATION RATE---Ask the mayor about this one, but be sure it's before Election! BILL DARLING HAS SPELLED OUT IN SEVERAL NEWS RELEASES, HIS PLANS TO CORRECT THIS PROBLEM!
 - 17. RECREATION & CITY PARKS---Notice how the mayor attempted to clean-up some of the parks in the last few weeks. Does he really think that none of us notice the flurry of activity, every two years, just around election time? BILL DARLING'S RUNNING MATE---EMILY JOHNSON HAS ISSUED DETAILED PLANS ON RECREATION AND OUR PARKS. LET'S GIVE EMILY A CHANCE TO GET IN THERE AND FIGHT FOR YOU!
- FELLOW TAXPAYERS AND FRIENDS. . . THE LIST GOES ON AND ON. . . YEAR AFTER YEAR. . . THE SAME OLD PROBLEMS. . . THE SAME OLD PROMISES. . . THIS YEAR VOTE ROW B FOR DARLING & JOHNSON!

Seaver, Palmer On Top Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles and Tom Seaver of the New York Mets, who struggled through injury-plagued seasons a year ago, have been named Comeback Players of the Year in their respective leagues by United Press International.

The two right-handers, both former Cy Young Award winners, rebounded from the worst seasons of their professional careers to top their respective leagues in victories in 1975. Both were runaway winners in a balloting of 20 baseball correspondents from each league.

Palmer, who bounced back from a 7-12 season last year to post a 23-11 record, received 11½ points to easily outdistance Cleveland's Boog Powell in the American League voting. Powell received four and a half points (one writer split his vote between Palmer and Powell) with Boston's Rick Wise receiving two votes and New York's Chris Chambliss and Kansas City's John Mayberry one each.

Seaver, who went 22-9 this season after going just 11-11 last year, was named on 12½ ballots to beat out San Diego's Randy Jones in the National League voting. Jones received three and a half votes while New York's Dave Kingman, Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski, Cincinnati's Gary Nolan and Los Angeles' Burt Hooton each got one vote.

The careers of Palmer and Seaver have moved along strangely parallel lines. Both are the same age (30), both raised in the same state (California), both were Cy Young Award winners in 1973 (Seaver also won in 1969), each has won 20 or more games in a season at least four times, each had his worst season in the same year and each is considered the premier right-handed pitcher in his respective league.

Disabled for seven weeks by arm trouble in 1974, Palmer enjoyed the best season of his pro career in 1975. He tied Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the Yankees for most victories in the majors and also led the majors in shutouts (10). In addition, he topped the AL in earned run average (2.09), was second in complete games (25) and innings pitched (323) and fourth in strikeouts (193).

Seaver, bothered by sciatic problems in 1974, led the NL in victories and posted a 2.38 earned run average with five shutouts and 280 innings pitched. He also led the league in strikeouts with 243 while establishing a major league record for most consecutive seasons with 200 or more strikeouts (8).

Powell, who batted just .265 with 12 homers last season, was the Indians' top run producer this year with a .297 batting average, 28 homers and 86 runs batted in.

Jones, a 22-game loser last season, finished second to Seaver in victories with a 20-12 record and led the National League in era with 2.24.

OAKLAND (UPI) — Oakland A's captain Sal Bando has resumed his feud with team owner Charlie Finley by accusing him of making a mistake when he fired manager Alvin Dark.

Bando said Thursday that Finley should not have fired Dark and that internal problems with the A's make it necessary to win in Oakland because losing makes the team's problems more severe.

He added that he hoped he would be traded to another club, "preferably a contender."

He told a sports luncheon that "I think it was a big mistake to fire Dark. You know, we're not the team we were two or three years ago, and to change managers again, after reaching this point where this one manager knew exactly how we play, I think will cost us severely."

He said Dark, not Boston's Darrell Johnson, should have been named Manager of the Year because it was Dark's skill that brought Oakland a fourth straight division title.

Pittsburgh Fans Yell After Pirates Drop 'Voice'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A "broken-hearted" Bob Prince, fired after more than two decades as chief play-by-play announcer for the Pittsburgh Pirates, today looked for a baseball announcing job in another major league city.

Three other major league towns had broadcasting jobs open — Atlanta, Philadelphia and St. Louis — and Prince said he planned to look into them.

The firing of Prince, popular "Voice of the Pirates" since 1952, and of his chief sidekick, former Pirates pitcher Nellie King, was announced jointly Thursday by the baseball club, radio station KDKA, and the rights owners — Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. and the Pittsburgh Brewing Co.

The announcement lit up telephone boards at the radio station and the Pirates' office in Three Rivers Stadium with calls from fans demanding to know if the news were true.

Prince said the firing stunned him and left him "broken-hearted." He said, "I can't get over it. I'm not bitter, just disappointed."

Edward Wallis, Westinghouse Broadcasting area vice president, said, "The decision was unanimous, and I don't feel that something more should be added."

However, Pittsburgh Brewing, minority rights holder, said it had wanted to renew the Prince-King contracts but was overruled by the others.

It was reported the new announcing team for the 1976 season would be Dick Stockton, former KDKA-TV sportscaster now with a Westinghouse station in Boston, and ex-Pirates pitcher Steve Blass, but Wallis said, "That's mere speculation."

It also was reported that Nilo Hamilton, a long-time baseball announcer for the Atlanta Braves who himself was fired, had applied for Prince's job.

Prince had more continuous service for the same baseball club than any other active announcer. He joined the Pirates in 1948 with the late Rosey Rowsell and became the No. 1 announcer in 1952.

King became a member of the Pirates broadcasting team in 1967.

Blues for Mr. Sanderson

Derek Sanderson (R), newly acquired member of the St. Louis Blues, is knocked to ice by Boston's Dallas Smith during first period of Thursday night's 3-2 Bruins' victory. Sanderson, traded by Rangers earlier in the day, scored a short-handed goal for St. Louis. (UPI)

A Typical Sanderson Debut

BOSTON (UPI) — It was a typical Derek Sanderson debut — a short-handed goal while everyone was still interested.

As Thursday dawned over New York, pro hockey's kookiest center was a lonely Ranger, moaning again about lack of ice time. A few hours later, he was a St. Louis Blue and by nightfall Sanderson was back in Boston, where he had won the Calder Cup in 1968 as Rookie of the Year with the Boston Bruins.

After a couple of short news conferences — during which he claimed to be a victim of Ranger politics — Sanderson stepped into his new blue and yellow road uniform with the Blues note emblazoned on the front and scored his first goal of the season before the game was 10 minutes old.

"I didn't think I did bad for not having been on skates for four days," said Sanderson, 29, who dragged himself around the ice on a bruised ankle. "But I nearly died out there. I threw up my guts something awful in the first period."

"Of course that comes from smoking two packs of cigarettes a day," he added, lighting up a cigarette.

Sanderson, pointless in eight games with the Rangers this season, got the goal on a pass from Garry Unger, who was a penalty killing partner throughout the Blues' 3-2 loss to the Bruins. "I played an awful lot tonight but (Red) Berenson was hurt so maybe when he comes back things might be changed around."

The newest Blue then looked around the quiet lockerroom, and spied teammate Bob MacMillan and started on another tangent:

"They (Rangers) got rid of him and he's better than a lot of the guys they kept. He's a good wing. Then they went out and got that kid from the WHA (center Wayne Dillon from the Toronto Toros) and he knocked me and Stemmer (Pete Stelmowski) out of the box."

"I could have scored 50 goals last year and still have sat on the bench. That's the politics — the pillars that make up the Ranger society can't be moved. He (General Manager Emile Francis) doesn't shake up anybody who's been there a few years" by benching them.

Earlier in the day the former "Dead End kid" from Niagara Falls, Ont., had been summoned into the Francis' office and Sanderson was quicker than the Cat when the words started flying.

"Before he said anything, I said, 'I know why you called me in here. I'm going to St. Louis.' He said, 'You made a good guess' and I said, 'It was no guess; it was a process of elimination.' You see I've known for a couple of weeks I was going to be traded."

The trade to the Blues, for a first round draft choice the Rangers had traded earlier, was the fourth transaction involving Sanderson over a 10-year career. He played five seasons for the Bruins, eight games with Philadelphia of the WHA, another 11 seasons with Boston and a year-plus with the Rangers.

"I went to New York with illusions of grandeur and ran into clouds of despair," said Sanderson. "Now I'm going to St. Louis and I'll like it there. They have a good stadium and the fans know hockey. They've always hated me there but they'll be all right."

Bucyk Joins Hockey's '500 Club'

By UPI

Slimmed down John Bucyk is grateful to be the latest member of the National Hockey League's 500-goal club, but as far as going after Gordie Howe's all-time mark, forget it.

"It was a great relief to get it," Bucyk said after scoring No. 500 at 12:52 of the first period in the Bruins' 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Blues Thursday night. "There's always a lot of pressure when you're looking for an important goal. You're pressing, pushing, fighting the puck."

Bucyk's goal, which tied the game at 1-1, made him only the seventh player in NHL history to achieve 500 goals. Howe, of course, is the all-time NHL goal leader with 786, followed by Bobby Hull (604), Maurice Richard (544), Frank Mahovlich (533), Phil Esposito (531) and Jean Beliveau (507).

Some of those legendary names can still be caught by the 40-year-old Bucyk, but not Howe.

"I don't think I could ever catch Howe," Bucyk said. "To tell you the truth, I'm just looking for 501."

Bucyk credits his fast start (five goals in seven games) to a loss of nearly 15 pounds from last year.

"I'm playing at 208-210 pounds this year," he said. "Normally I've been at 220-224."

Terry O'Reilly assisted on Wayne Cashman's tying goal in the second period and then scored the game-winner himself 30 seconds later in the same stanza. Bucyk's goal, which nullified the Blues' initial tally by ex-Bruin Derek Sanderson, was started at the St. Louis end of the ice. Bucyk knocked down the Blues' Brian Ogilvie, passed up to Ken Hodge, took a pass back and fired home a 20-footer.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Buffalo and Vancouver tied 4-4, Washington beat Kansas City 6-2, Philadelphia trounced Toronto 6-2 and Los Angeles blanked Pittsburgh 4-0.

In the World Hockey Association, Calgary beat Indianapolis 7-5, Phoenix nipped Denver 3-2, Winnipeg blanked Cincinnati 4-0 and Houston downed San Diego 4-2.

Sabres 4, Canucks 4
Gil Perreault scored his second goal of the game with only 11 seconds left to pull out a tie for Buffalo. Perreault's goal came after the Sabres pulled goalie Gerry Desjardins to add an extra attacker. Perreault's goal save his linemate Rick Martin from being the game's "goat." Martin lost the goal in front of his own net midway through the third period, allowing Vancouver's Don Lever to score what looked to be the gamewinning goal.

Flyers 6, Maple Leafs 2
Rookie Mel Bridgeman scored two goals as Philadelphia won its seventh game in eight starts despite a 15-minute brawl in the final period. Toronto's Ian Turnbull and Jack Milharge were ejected from the game and seven players were penalized in the wild brawl. The Flyers scored their first four goals off Wayne Thomas, who was pulled by Leafs at 10:53 of the second period.

Capitals 6, Scouts 2
Goalie Bernie Wolfe, making his NHL debut, helped Washington to only their second win of the year by stopping 30 Kansas City shots. Tommy Williams scored a pair of goals for the Caps, now 2-9.

Kings 4, Penguins 0
Rogie Vachon recorded his second straight shutout and Marcel Dionne and Mike Murphy each had a goal and two assists as Los Angeles blanked Pittsburgh to take over first place in the Norris Division. Vachon ran his shutout string to 176 minutes with his 30th career shutout.

WHA
Danny Lawson scored a three-goal hat trick to lead Calgary over Indianapolis despite another hat trick by the Racers' Randy Wyzorub. Goalie Joe Daley stopped 27 shots to post his fourth shutout in eight games while leading Winnipeg to its win over Cincinnati. Michel Cormier scored one goal and assisted on another within a 10-second span of the first period to lead Phoenix to victory over Denver and Ron Grahame's stand-out goaltending and a three-goal burst in the second period helped Houston beat San Diego.

Nicklaus Down by Two

Jack Nicklaus follows drive during Australian Open at Sydney today. Big Jack trails Australian Billy Dunk by two shots after two rounds. Dunk fired a two-under-par 70 today for a 36 hole score of 135, despite taking a horrible double bogey on the 17th hole. Nicklaus, who also had a 70 today, is tied with American John Toepel at 137. (UPI)

Haywood Makes Presence Felt

NEW YORK (UPI) — Even the official scorer at Madison Square Garden apparently cannot believe the New York Knicks finally have a big forward or a center who can rebound.

Spencer Haywood had just finished playing his best game since coming to New York from Seattle last week, scoring 26 points, hitting the boards and making his presence felt on defense to lead the Knicks to a 117-113 triumph.

"I felt good about what I was doing," said the powerful 6-foot-9 forward. "I had confidence. I felt it before I walked on the court. I can't complain about 26 points and a victory."

"Here's something you might be concerned about," said a reporter, showing Haywood the rebounding totals on the official scorecard.

"Three rebounds?" Haywood shouted. "That can't be right. Yeah, I'm concerned about that."

Everybody knew the sheet must be wrong, if not for Haywood, for Bill Bradley's total of 11 rebounds. No one could remember Bradley getting 11 rebounds since his Princeton days.

The sheet was wrong. Haywood had 11, Bradley one. It was also noticed that Earl Monroe had been credited with nine rebounds while Neal Walk had just two. It turned out Walk had the nine and Monroe had one.

Haywood and Walk controlled the boards and the flow of the game for the Knicks. When Haywood was in, the Knicks moved, running on an 11-0 burst early in the third period to turn a three point deficit into a 67-59 lead. Haywood, with four fouls, then went to the bench for the next nine minutes and the Kings outscored the Knicks 30-24. He returned and the Knicks held their slim lead the rest of the way.

Walt Frazier paced the Knicks with 32 points to virtually negate the 35 points of Kansas City's Nate Archibald.

"Spencer was doing his own thing out there for the first time since he's been with us," Knick Coach Red Holzman said. "You can't do everything that's written down. You've got to free lance a little and he was doing that."

Holzman said Bradley, who met Haywood formerly as a fellow player representative, has been working closely with Spencer on and off the court to help him adjust. Haywood makes life easier on the court for Bradley, not a particularly quick or big player but one who uses picks, reads defenses and passes well enough to remain a starter even with a broken finger on his shooting hand. And Bradley is trying to make life off the court as easy as possible for Haywood.

"Bill has been helping the most of anyone so far," Haywood said. "He's been looking for an apartment for me, helping me learn the plays and get around the city."

The way Bradley figures it, one helping hand deserves another.

Jim Brewer scored 16 points, grabbed nine rebounds and blocked two shots as Cleveland posted its first victory. Brewer and Bobby Smith combined for 23 of the Cavs' 39 points in the third quarter. Smith, who hit on only 2-of-18 shots in the Cavs' season opener against Golden State, tossed in 10-of-14 to top all scorers with 22 points. Dick Snyder added 17 and Jummy Clemons had 16 for Cleveland while Bob Love paced Chicago with 17.

In the only ABA game, James Silas pumped in 30 points as Larry Kenon hit a 15 footer with 22 seconds left to stop a rally and lead the San Antonio Spurs to a 102-100 victory over the San Diego Sails. Dwight Lamar hit 24 of his 26 points in the second half to pace a Sails comeback that gave them a 94-91 lead with 5:02 left. The game was tied three times after that until Kenon hit his jumper for the winning basket. George Gervin had 23 points for the Spurs and Kenon added 20.

NCAA Denies Report Of UK Investigation

LEXINGTON, Ky (UPI) — Officials of the National Collegiate Athletic Association have denied reports they are planning an investigation of the University of Kentucky regarding illegal point shaving.

Dr. Art Reynolds, chairman of the NCAA Infractions Committee, said he had not received any information about Kentucky from the NCAA staff. And, Warren Brown, assistant executive director of the NCAA, said Reynolds would have been made aware of any investigation in general terms because his committee must judge on what facts are turned in by an NCAA investigating team.

On Tuesday, a Lexington radio station said it had learned the NCAA was preparing to investigate the Southeastern Conference school for alleged point shaving by the Wildcat football team this season.

The report drew immediate denials by both university Athletic director Cliff Hagan and head football coach Fran Curci. Players interviewed also denied the report, which Hagan had labeled as being started by some "irresponsible radio announcer."

Hagan also said had the NCAA planned any investigation of the school on any matter, he would likely have been contacted by now and no word had reached him of any investigation. Curci, who generally ignored the reports, did not take any special satisfaction from the NCAA's denial of a planned investigation. Curci, whose team is 1-5-1 this year after posting its first winning season in nine years last season, continued workouts through the week for Saturday's non-conference game at home against Tulane.

Nither Hagan or Curci could predict if the rumors surrounding the team would have any effect on the Wildcats' performance in their final four games. Despite only one victory, the university has outgained most opponents statistically, boasts the third leading rusher in the nation in Sonny Collins and enters Saturday's contest as a solid nine-point favorite.

"It seems like things like this would happen to winning teams before they would with a team with a losing record," Curci said. "We've won only one game this year."

Kingston and Highland: The Hoople Specials

Major Amos B. Hoople

HOOPLE MANOR
Egad, friends, here, quick as at proverbial wink, we are to the last few weeks of the gskin season. And, I might id, the month that separates the genuine contenders from the pretenders.

The schedule is replete with each traditional engagements
a Kingston-Saugerties, oudout-Highland, Army-Air orce, and Oklahoma-Oklasho-ia State.

So without any further ado,
's on to this week's forecast:

KINGSTON 20

SAUGERTIES 6

Going strictly by the book ere. Kingston has the only two wins between these two eams this season and could ave won one or two others.
Saugerties, on the other hand,
ust hasn't cut the mustard.
And then there's a strange actor: in the three previous meetings between these local ivals, the home team has lost each time. Saugerties is the

If the field is dry Highland will regain first place. I must admit, Gander Groupies, your Roundout team is better than
've been willing to concede.
But a championship club? Not this year, har-rumph!

PINE BUSH 22

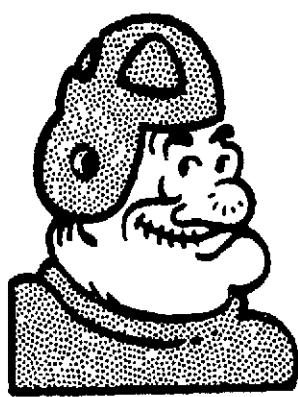

NEW PALTZ 16

The Bushmen outscore the Huguenots in a game for point-lovers. Pine Bush is playing the best ball in the UCAL right now and with Roundout next on its schedule, the Bushmen want to keep the momentum going.

LIBERTY 13

Walkill's season, so bright only several weeks ago, could

go down the tube with another loss Saturday. The Panthers have a tough job to do: halt a skid and at the same time halt an explosive Liberty. I think

A stingy Red Hook defense will prevent Onteora from getting too cocky after its surprise victory over Walkill. If the Raiders beat Onteora and Highland, they just might reap as UCAL champions.
That should provide them with the proper motivation this week.

ELLENVILLE 6

The season is agonizingly long for Ellenville.

In college football, a crowd pleaser which is short on tradition but long on desire brings the Air Force and the Army together to settle the unofficial Service Academy championship. Having whipped the Navy Middies earlier this season, the Falcons will claim the title by trouncing Army, 31-12.

The Hoople System confidently predicts a 26-7 win for the Southern California Trojans over the California Bruins at Berkeley. In the big Southeastern Conference doubleheader at Jackson,

Miss., we see Alabama rolling over Mississippi State, 34-14, in the daylight contest, and Mississippi taking a 28-13 victory over the LSU Fighting Tigers under the mazdas.

Also in the Southeastern, Florida's Gators will triumph over Auburn's Tigers, 28-7.
'Tis a sad season for retiring Shug Jordan, completing his 25th year as boss of the Tigers.

The Big One of the day brings together the Oklahoma Sooners and Oklahoma State on the Cowboys' home grounds. This is the best Cowboy entry in years but, alas, they will not be able to withstand the darting runs of Joe Washington and the relentless drive of the Sooners.
In a high scoring affair, Oklahoma will win, 37-27. Another Big 8 beauty matches Kansas and Kansas State at Lawrence. Make it Jayhawks 29, the visiting State Wildcats 20
-- kaff-kaff.

In the tough Southwestern Conference, the Texas Longhorns will stampede the SMU Mustangs, 49-14, in their 55th meeting. And Texas Tech will cook Rice, 46-13 -- beh-heh.

The Hoople Three-Star Special is Maryland to prevail over Penn State, 17-10. The Terps have only managed to beat Penn State once in 21 previous meetings but this will be their day -- har-rumph!

In other games it will be:
Missouri 23, Nebraska 21;
Notre Dame 21, Navy 17; Ohio
State 49, Indiana 7; Harvard 24, Penn 13; Princeton 15,
Brown 12; Pitt 22, Syracuse
14; UCLA 27, Washington 13;
Boston College 24, Miami of Florida 21; Cornell 24, Columbia 15;

Appalachian State 39,
Citadel 12; Colgate 20, Lehigh 18; and Yale 32, Dartmouth 7, bool-boola!

BOICEVILLE

Onteora High closed out its regular girls field hockey season with a come-from-behind
3-1 victory over Spackenkill
High of the DCSL. Coach Pat Okoren's squad compiled an overall record of 9-1-1 and was 6-1-1 in the Ulster County Athletic League to earn a berth in next week's sectional tournament.

After a scoreless first half, Spackenkill got on the scoreboard first midway through the second half on a goal by Chary Simbner. Onteora then rallied to score three goals in the last 12 minutes of play.

Colleen Duffy accounted for two of them and Dawn Ot-bort got the other.

"Our offense worked well," said Coach Okoren. "We had a 21-13 edge in shots on goal, 9-2 in corners and 10-8 in goalie saves."

"Anne McAllister, the Spackenkill goalie was particularly outstanding in the first half with a couple of specutacular saves."

Coach Okoren praised the defensive work of sophomore Gail Duffy. Also outstanding for the Onteora team were Colleen Duffy, Meg Proper,
Sue Schlegel and Oathout.

Debbie Cease returned to the goalie corner after a two weeks absence because of an injury and had seven saves in the first half.

Firestone Hosts World

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) —

Firestone Country Club will host the revamped 1976 World Series of Golf.

The announcement was made Thursday by Firestone officials, PGA Tour Commissioner Deane Beman and Mark Cox, executive director of the PGA.

opens and the PGA with a purse of $77,500.

The new format with the expanded field will include the original four qualifiers, but also the winner of the Tournament Players championship, the Canadian and Western opens, U.S. and British amateurs and the individual winner of the World Cup.

The World Series, with its expanded field, will be held Sept. 2-6, on Firestone's South Course, a week after the American Golf Classic is held on the adjoining North Course, Aug.
26-29.

The purse for the event, which takes the place of the four-man World Series which Firestone has hosted for 14 years, will be $300,000, with $100,000 going to the winner.
The previous 14 Series

Lions Sign Farmer

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) —
The Detroit Lions, badly in need of wide receivers, have signed 27-year-old George Farmer, released earlier this season by the Chicago Bears.
Farmer suffered a torn achilles tendon and was placed on the injured reserve list after undergoing surgery earlier this week.

Smith Leads Match Play

KINGSTON

The hottest bowler in town isn't giving any signs of letting up these days.

Bob (Tall) Smith fired an 8-game total of 1681 to lead the qualifying round of the 1975 City Match Game Championship at Ferraro's Bowlerama. Runnerup was Jack Ferraro with 1630, with Chris Schick third at 1611.

Other qualifiers included Steve Ferraro 1599, Bob Shelghtner 1594, Ernie Cizza 1575, Norm Good 1528, Charlie Inglesby 1516.

Art Schnall and John Finch tied with 1507 for the alternate's spot.

The finals are scheduled Sunday at 2 p.m., with each bowler again rolling eight games to be scored by the Petersen Point System.

A handicap city match game championship for men will start with qualifying rounds on Nov. 8 and Nov. 9 at 2 p.m.

Ketcham Tops KHS, 2-0

KINGSTON

Ketcham High topped Kingston High 2-0 in a DCSL girls volleyball thriller at the field house. Kingston won the Juvvay contest, 2-1.

Ketcham won the varsity event by scores of 15-8 and 16-14. The second game was a rarity as time ran out with the score 13-13 and Ketcham finally pulled it out in overtime.
The varsity record of 4-6 is hard to believe. The Tigers have played fine volleyball and been beaten by just a few points in their losses. The only bad loss was to Saugerties, said Coach Pat Burke. "In all of the others we've been close."

Diana Baker and Lori Eaton were solid players for Kingston. The Juvvay record is now

Competition

Kingston and area board members of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic met recently to discuss further plans for the HVP's Virtuoso-in-Progress competition open to any high school student in Ulster County. Checking details are Sylvia Horsey (L), Mary Barnett and Jane Tonnesen. Competition will take place Dec. 14 at a place to be announced, with a deadline for applications of Dec. 3. The winning student will have the opportunity to perform with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic in a V.I.P. concert scheduled Feb. 20, 1976, at the Saugerties High School. (Freeman photo).

Human Rights Chairman to Speak to BPW Club

KINGSTON Canada's Chairman on Human Rights, Hilda Cryderman, will be guest speaker at an open meeting and dinner of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday, Nov. 11 at 7 p.m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The dynamic speaker will address herself to the topic: International Women's Year — A Pathway to the Future.

The announcement of the Canadian guest's appearance in Ulster County was made jointly by Collette Sonnenberg, club president, and Dorothy A. Narel, chairman of the Ulster County BPW International Women's Year Committee.

Miss Cryderman is a native of British Columbia. She received her BA degree from the University of British Columbia and was appointed a Federal government representative to the Public Staff Relations Board by British Columbia.

A well known speaker throughout Canada, she is knowledgeable on such topics as education, politics, social services and the arts. An accomplished musician, she was also a Liberal candidate in three Federal elections.

Miss Cryderman is past director of the Canadian Teachers Federation, Provincial President of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of British Columbia, and is currently traveling throughout Canada and the United States as lecturer on Human Rights.

Dinner reservations may be made with Marilyn Osterhoudt, RD 7, Sheryl Street, Kingston, N.Y.

The meeting portion of the program is open to those who are unable to be at the dinner segment.

Second Annual Holiday Boutique

KINGSTON Workshops are being conducted in the cafeteria of the Benedictine Hospital every Monday evening. The workers, Benedictine members and their friends, are busy making handmade articles to be sold at the second annual Christmas Boutique sponsored by the Auxiliary. This event will take place in the auditorium of the Benedictine Senior Residence on Thursday, Nov. 20. Hours will be from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. "Something for everyone and items for every room in the home" is the slogan for this boutique. In addition to wreaths, candles and other Christmas items, there will be arts and crafts, closet items, jewelry, linens, plants, afghans and stuffed animals and handmade dolls. The baked goods booth will be supplied with many homemade goodies which will help the homemaker prepare appetizing meals.

Mrs. J. Collins Troy and Mrs. Richard Larsen are co-chairpersons of the event. Other committee members are Mrs. Francis X. Tucker, Mrs. William Cranston, Mrs. Jay O'Neil, Mrs. Bernard Farrell, Mrs. Augustus Brinnier, Mrs. John Sanglyn, Mrs. William Ryan, Mrs. Paul Owens, Mrs. William J. Carr and Mrs. Frank Nadspal.

The proceeds from this event will help the auxiliary pay its $200,000 pledge to the building fund of the hospital. The public is invited to visit the boutique during its hours of operation.

Voter Education of ERA

KINGSTON A major effort in voter education of the Equal Rights Amendment will be taken on Saturday, Nov. 1, by the various Business and Professional Women's Clubs of New York State, Inc.

Announcement of this campaign was made in Kingston by Mrs. Albert O. Sonnenberg, president of the Ulster County BPW.

Mrs. Sonnenberg noted that action for the Saturday voter education project was taken at the recent board meeting at Niagara Falls, designating

Nov. 1 as the day when more than 7,500 BPW members will cover shopping centers across the state, passing out more than 150,000 pieces of literature on ERA.

Passage of the ERA is the number one priority of the BPW, Mrs. Sonnenberg said and added "both state and national federations voted to support promotion with one quarter million dollars annually until passed."

HURLEY

A Bicentennial theme will highlight the annual card party sponsored by the Auxiliary of Kingston Hospital on Wednesday, Nov. 12 at Hurley Reformed Church on old Route 209. The event will begin at 11:30 a.m. with a light lunch, dessert and coffee. There will be a babysitting service provided at a nominal fee.

Attractive table favors, incorporating the theme, will be given and awards will be presented. Mrs. Wilbur Peters, chairperson, and Mrs. Louis Salzman, co-chairperson, invites all members of the community to the event.

Reservations are requested and may be made by contacting Mrs. Ralph Biche at Kingston Hospital. Mrs. Peters or Mrs. John Larkin of Kingston, or Mrs. Lawrence Brown of Woodstock.

Junior Stars' Initiation Ceremony

KINGSTON Miss Susan Yochmann, the Exalted Star of Light and Love of Alice M. Scardefield Constellation Junior Stars 25, presided over the recent ceremony of initiation.

The novitiates were Miss Yochmann's sister, Linda Yochmann, and Miss Jilda Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson, 3 Laine Lane, Kingston. Susan and Linda Yochmann are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yochmann of 72 Robin Lane, Kingston.

Past Grand Star of Guidance of the Grand Constellation of Junior Stars of the State of New York, Miss Cathy Cornish, escorted the novitiates West of the Altar where they were presented to the Presiding Officer.

The Novitiates were informed of the aims and purposes of this fraternal sorority. Miss Thompson and Miss Yochmann were escorted to the Altar where they took the pledge of membership into the Order. The Officers of the Alice M. Scardefield Constellation No. 25 proceeded to exemplify the degrees of the Order upon their two new novitiates. Present and participating in this ceremony was Miss Irene Boyle, member of the Grand Advisory Board of the Grand Constellation of the State of New York. Miss Boyle was presented and introduced from the East by the Presiding Officer.

Many members of both Clinton Chapter and Kingston Chapter Order of the Eastern Star were present for the initiation as were members of Kingston Lodge 10 F. & F.M. Present after a long absence due to illness was Mrs. Grace E. Smith, Past District Deputy of the Order of the Eastern Star of the State of New York and founder of the Alice M. Scardefield Constellation of Junior Stars No. 25. The honors of the East were accorded this honored guest. Mrs. Smith thanked all the girls for their sunshine visits to her while she was hospitalized and for all the cards of cheer. She complimented the girls on their ritualistic work and expressed her happiness that she had again been able to be with them at their meetings.

At the completion of the Ceremony of Initiation Miss Yochmann presented each novitiate with a gift as a memento of this important occasion. Henry Yochmann, president of the Council of Sponsors of the Constellation, presented the new members with a Constellation Tee Shirt and welcomed them on behalf of all the members of the Council and encourage them to be active in the order.

A business meeting followed the ceremony at which time Star of Mercy, Miss Laurie Mine announced that earlier this month their Presiding Officer, Miss Susan Yochmann, was installed as DeMolay Sweetheart of Colonial Chapter Order of DeMolay by the Master Councilor David Rowe. A delegation of Constellation Members will accompany the DeMolay Sweetheart when she attends the Four Rivers Region Conclave for DeMolay at Saratoga Springs in November.

A social hour of friendship followed the meeting downstairs where refreshments were served and Halloween festivities were in order.

Enjoying Creative Play

Youngsters at the Christopher Robin's House in Shokan enjoy creative play in their morning's nursery program. These children are part of Olive's new nursery school which meets at the Shokan Reformed Church in Shokan. The program stresses creative activities and parent involvement—preparing them for higher levels of education. There are a limited number of openings for the fall semester, according to a school spokesperson. Information is available by contacting Donna Bream, Acorn Hill Road, Olivebridge. (Freeman photo)

Preparing for Dinner and Fair

The Port Ewen Parent-Teacher Organization will hold a spaghetti dinner and craft fair Nov. 14 at 6 p.m. and these youngsters Kim Sheridan (L), Abbie Farrell and Tracy Larson, although not preparing the meal, have been busy as far as publicity for the dinner is concerned. Anyone interested in donating crafts or obtaining tickets may call the Port Ewen School. Tickets are also available at the Port Ewen Sub-Shop. There will be special reduced tickets for children and senior citizens.

'Women in Politics' Program

State Senator Carol Bellamy, seated right, was the keynote speaker at the recent "Women in Politics" program held at Ulster County Community College. Senator Bellamy traced the Women's Suffrage movement and told of her experiences as a female legislator and how she came to be involved in electoral politics. Seated with Sen. Bellamy is Mrs. George F. Bushnell, chairperson of the UCCC Board of Trustees. Standing in the usual order are Dr. Erna Moss, head of the International Women's Year Committee at the college; Peggy De Stefano, instructor of criminal justice and Affirmative Action officer and coordinator of Title IX at the college and Robert T. Brown, president of the college.

Norwegian Language Course

Reidar Nielsen, Norwegian Heritage language instructor, explains course to American Field Service exchange student Turid Jorgensen of Halden, Norway. She recently visited the language class, a program started by Hudson Valley Lodge, 432, this month on Norwegian-American Day, as proclaimed by President Ford. The day also marked the 150th anniversary of the first Norwegian immigration to the U. S. Classes are held at the home of Marie Buckley (L), Lake Katrine. Others in the photo are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tomlinson. Many sesquicentennial celebrations are being held during the 25-day visit to the U. S. by King Olav of Norway. Hudson Valley Lodge will celebrate its 30th anniversary on May 10, 1976.

Official Visit and Homecoming

New York, made her official visit and homecoming to Beekman Chapter, 496, at the Rhinebeck Masonic Temple, recently. Accompanying Mrs. O'Hara was Lesley F.

WOODSTOCK Performing Arts of Woodstock has gathered together five outstanding choreographers—Judith Bachrack, Brenda Bufalino, Sara Cook, Livia Drapkin, and Julie Hutchins —to form an intensive choreographer's and dancer's workshop.

The workshop will meet in the auditorium of the Woodstock Elementary School Nov. 6, 13, 14, 18, 20 and 25 between 7 and 10 each evening. Each choreographer will create a short dance piece to a single musical composition. On the sixth evening, Nov. 25, the five dances will be performed as a whole.

To make the workshop challenging and finally an artistic success for everyone it is important to have advanced dancers, dancers of at least two years of dance training minimum. If you are a good dancer and are interested and able to devote six evenings of intensive creative work with five talented choreographers you may register now by either phoning or writing to Performing Arts of Woodstock c/o Edith LeFever, Box 321 Clover Street, West Hurley, N.Y. 12491. You also may register in person before the first class Nov. 6.

There is no fee for the workshop; however, a small contribution to defray the expenses in setting up the workshop will be appreciated.

CA Harvest Festival

KINGSTON

The annual Harvest Festival sponsored by the United Methodist Women of the Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church will be held Wednesday, Nov. 12, in the assembly room of the church.

Doors will open at noon and free coffee will be served from that hour until 3 p.m.

A family style roast beef dinner will be another highlight of the day's activities, served by Mr. and Mrs. Burton Giles. Mrs. Oscar V. Newark is in charge of the dining room and Mrs. Thomas Miller is handling tickets. Serving will be at 6:30 and 6:30 but at this time only tickets for the 6:30 serving are available. A nursery will be available during the dining hours.

Many individuals and groups have been involved in this year's Harvest Festival including the following:

Willing Workers, food booth, Gem Society, homemade candy Mrs. Alfred Motter, Mrs. Hilary Schultz, Mrs. Norman Schwabkopf, fancy work booth Mrs. Howard Bernthall, Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. Gertrude Kittle, Mrs. Ferns Williams, Christmas booth, Mrs. Edward Langton, potted plants, Mrs. William Lanier and Mrs. Guy Baker, Grandma's Attic.

No Goblins

These youngsters may look as though they're getting ready for trick or treat activities but actually they're demonstrating their knowledge of the human body. The children, sixth grade students of Wayne Harris and Mrs. Joanne Worrell at the Port Ewen School, recently completed a review of the interrelationship of all body systems. The students include (l) Clark Mains, Kathy Hoppe, Sherry Justus, Linda Bradley, Stacey Zinger, Ken Moore with teacher Joanne Worrell. The activity is part of the Model Health program being conducted in Grades 5-7 throughout the Kingston City Schools. The sixth graders are beginning an in-depth study of the functioning of the heart and blood vessels. (Freeman photo)

'76 Bicentennial-Mendelssohn Program

Point Glee Club to Sing at Kingston Event

The West Point Glee Club will appear in Kingston next April to participate in a special Bicentennial program. It was announced jointly by Edward Levine, chairman of the Kingston Bicentennial Commission, and William Lanier, president of the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston.

The cadet vocal group of the more than 50 voices will share the Kingston High School auditorium stage on Saturday, April 10, 1976, with a 200-voice Mendelssohn Club Bicentennial Mixed Choir now being recruited.

Arrangements for the appearance of the West Point Glee Club in Kingston during its heavily-booked Bicentennial Year were made by local Mendelssohn and Bicentennial officials with Lt. Col. John H. Bradley, director of Bicentennial activities at the Military Academy, and Capt. Louis Csoka, officer in charge of the Glee Club.

The cadet unit will be under the direction of William Cosby. It was last in Kingston in 1968 when, under Mendelssohn Club sponsorship, it performed a standing room only crowd at the high school.

Barbara Genthner is chairman of membership for the Mendelssohn Club's enlarged choir, which will consist of 150 voices from the community at large plus 50 students from area high schools and Ulster County Community College.

The April concert will feature works inspired by the Revolutionary War and the Civil War. Included will be a cantata, "A Cry for Freedom" based on the music of John Billings, and a musical narration of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

For the finale, the cadets and the Mendelssohn Choir will join for a massed choir performance of "Amazing Grace" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

10th Annual Dinner-Dance Of Ellenville Hospital

ELLENVILLE

Proceeds from the 10th annual Ellenville Community Hospital Dinner Dance to be held Nov. 23 will help the hospital acquire new X-ray equipment, it was announced by Arthur Chipp and Leo Rosick, dinner co-chairmen. The gala $100 a couple event will honor Florence and Irving Blickstein. "Our 'new' hospital will be 10 years old in March," noted the dinner chairmen. "A great many technological advances have taken place in the last decade. Approximately $100,000 is needed to bring our hospital's radiology equipment up-to-date and to expand its capacity to meet community needs. We hope that the dinner will provide a good share of the necessary funds."

The event, scheduled for the Sunday before Thanksgiving, will be held at the Homowack Lodge, Spring Glen. A cocktail party smorgasbord at 6:30 p.m. will start the festive evening. Dinner is scheduled at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available from any hospital director, from the hospital, or by writing "Hospital Dinner", P.O. Box 168, Ellenville, N.Y. 12428.

ERA Plaza Topic

The Plaza Heights Homemakers held their monthly meeting Oct. 16. Hostesses were Thelma Collette and Donna Flynn.

Guest speakers were Dierdra Fuller and Carol Kunz, representing the Saugerties League of Women Voters. The Equal Rights Amendment was the topic of conversation. Following the presentation by the speakers, a discussion of the pros and cons regarding the E.R.A. was held by the club members.

Needlepoint pillows were displayed at the Christmas Open House on Oct. 22 at The New York State Armory.

The next monthly meeting will be held Nov. 20. Members are invited to bring guests.

Wife Burns Up On Spouse, Fifi

DEAR ABBY: Ron and I have been married for five years and have a child who is 3-years-old.

Last week, we went to an amusement park and decided to take in the big attraction there. (It was Fifi La Belle and her star-studded revue.) We got a table at the front of the auditorium so we wouldn't miss a thing.

Fifi came out in a very revealing costume, and she spotted Ron immediately. (He's very good-looking.) She came over to our table and sat down on Ron's lap and ignored me as though I were invisible. She sang to Ron and made a big fuss over him. He claimed he didn't like it, but I noted he didn't push her off his lap. I laughed along with the rest of the audience, but while Fifi was on my husband's lap, I was burning up with jealousy.

She ruined my whole day. Should I have pushed her off Ron's lap? I know it wasn't his fault that she picked on him, but if he didn't like it, don't you think he should have pushed her off?

STILL BURNING

DEAR STILL: It's not unusual for a female entertainer to single out a man and make a fuss over him. It's part of the act and nothing personal. Forget it, dear. Next time, don't pick a ringside table, and you'll not be so vulnerable.

DEAR ABBY: How can I keep my sons, ages 6 and 8, from being jealous of each other?

I want them to grow up and love each other, and it hurts me so much to see the terrible jealousy between them. Please help me.

MOMMY

DEAR MOMMY: Jealousy is a natural (though unattractive) human emotion. Remember that, Mommy, and explain it to your children. It may not eliminate the jealousy, but it will help reduce their guilt feelings about it.

DEAR ABBY: My son is being married in a church at 2 p.m. I am advised by the bride's mother that it is improper to wear a long dress at a 2 p.m. church wedding, so I shall wear a short dress.

The reception begins at 5:30, followed by cocktails and dinner. I am told that a LONG dress is required for this.

The church is a great distance from my home—making it impossible to drive home after the wedding to change. So I'll have to take a long gown and matching accessories to the church to change into after the wedding.

My question: Is it absolutely necessary to have two different dresses for this wedding? I will if you say so, but it seems like a lot of trouble to me.

GROOM'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It's not necessary. The dress you wear to the wedding will do nicely for the reception.

DAR's Citizen Role

STONE RIDGE

Members of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, attended the recent Naturalization Court ceremonies held at Ulster County Community College.

Representing the DAR were the Mmes Conrad J. Gross committee chairman; Adam H. Porter, Charlotte A. Peck and Miss Inez W. Banks.

Each new citizen was presented with an American flag and DAR literature.

This work originated by the DAR many years ago and the DAR Manual for Citizenship has been given to each applicant for naturalization to study in order to help that would-be citizen pass the examination.

Upstate Teacher Levitates with Psychokinesis

SPENCER, N.Y. (UPI) — A teacher from this small Tioga County village has been baffling scientists, hypnotists, newsmen and magicians with an ability to make tables eerily rise off floors in a fashion many believe defies known physical laws.
Philip Jordan has repeatedly been able to make ordinary household furniture levitate by merely placing his hands lightly on top while two or three other people do the same.
Jordan, 25, a graduate of the State University at Brockport, has undergone testing at Kent State University's physics department for a number of "abilities" commonly referred to as "psychic" in origin.
Now traveling throughout the state, Jordan makes his living lecturing at colleges, appearing on radio shows, and presenting public demonstrations of what is purported to be extrasensory perception.
"I don't know what it is, but everyone who has seen his displays seems to think he possesses psychokinesis (an ability to mentally move objects)," said Michael H. Brown, a freelance writer from Niagara Falls who has extensively studied the phenomenon. "What he does is just not believable."
Brown, who accompanied Jordan for testing at Kent State and arranged for hypnotists and magicians to check him out, said he has seen Jordan perform the levitation about 20 times in many different situations.

"He has never failed to get a table up in the air, usually with three legs off the ground at weird angles, and there has been absolutely no indication of fraud," Brown said.
Usually it takes Jordan just a few minutes to get an ordinary wooden card table up off the floor, creating what witnesses have described as a rather strong resistance that pushes up from beneath.
"I was amazed the first time I saw it," said Gary Truce, a hypnotist who teaches at the State University at Binghamton. "It was incredible the way it moved, the way it felt."
Often the tables rise up on Jordan's side, seemingly ruling out the possibility that the Spencer "psychic" is using muscular force.
He has also levitated objects while his hands were wrapped in slippery plastic and placed on the surface's center. Not even slight muscular tension has been noted.

'Consuelo' at Home

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Elena Verdugo, nurse Consuelo Lopez in "Marcus Welby, M.D.," looks out of her San Fernando Valley apartment ruefully aware that her ancestors once owned everything in sight.
Elena is the descendant of the wealthy, aristocratic Verdugo family, the first to receive a California land grant from the king of Spain.
All 36,000 acres, long ago sold off, are within sight of her present home.
Home, incidentally, is a touchy subject with Elena. She has been living in a "temporary" apartment for more than two years.
She and her second husband, Dr. Charles Rosewall, sold her home a year after their marriage and moved to a fancy house in Brentwood. But it was too far from Universal Studios where the medical series is filmed.
Ergo, the temporary apartment. It has two basic appeals. First, it is close to the studio. Second, it permits tenants to keep pets.
Elena's pet is an enormous (20 pound) cat named Murray. The tabby eats her out of house and home and is responsible for her sneezing allergy. But after eight years of squandering her affection on Murray, she can't get rid of him.
She is also emotionally attached to Universal where she worked in Abbott and Costello movies when she was 19 years old.

Elena and Dr. Rosewall have been married almost four years. She has a son by a previous marriage, actor Richard Marion, who has made her a grandmother. Elena spoils granddaughter Jessie, 7 months, even more than she does Murray.
Although she is of Mexican descent, Elena speaks Spanish only haltingly.
Because she rarely had Mexican food as a child, she was forced to learn the preparation of those delectable dishes as an adult. She makes good enchiladas and stores tortillas in the freezer.
Her specialty is a chuck roast soaked in chili sauce and cooked for hours until it is tender enough to separate with a fork. Then she rolls the meat in tortillas.
The Rosewalls seldom entertain because there is no room for guests in their crowded two-bedroom, two-bath apartment. They have squeezed in enough furniture — mostly from Elena's former house — to furnish a half-dozen apartments. Yet they continue to buy unpainted furniture, finishing it and staining it themselves against the day when they buy a house.
Because both members of the family work long days, they've split the chores. Elena does the cooking and the dishes.

Upstate Teacher Levitates with Psychokinesis

Jordan said he first tested his abilities at age 13 when a dream had come true to him.
In August, Jordan made news across the country when he found a 5-year-old boy in a wooded area by drawing a "psychic map" for police. The county sheriff's department has talked about hiring him as an investigative consultant.

Your Astrograph

For Saturday, Nov. 1, 1975
ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's to your advantage to make compromises today when conditions call for them. Be the first to show willingness to cooperate.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't be nice to a friend today just because you expect something in return. If you're insincere, your pal will be aware of it.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

At a social gathering today someone may tell you of a glowing opportunity you can get in on. Chances are it's grossly exaggerated.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to be overly protective of those in your charge today. It's best to let them stand on their own feet.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take pains to be realistic in your evaluations today, or your optimism will lead you down the garden path.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're still not out of the woods financially. Count your pennies carefully again today.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be too easily influenced today. Just because someone has bigger ideas, it doesn't necessarily follow that they are better.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It will take more than just a material gesture to help one you're concerned about. He needs a compassionate listener as well.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're planning something special this evening, stay away from the spots that draw large crowds. Go somewhere cozy and intimate.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's a good time to reassess your values to determine whether goals you're seeking are worth all steps required to achieve them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will be far more appealing today if you tone your deeds down a bit rather than boast about them.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be doubly sure those you're involved with businesswise today are as ethical about everything as you are. Don't be afraid to ask questions.

Your Birthday

Nov. 1, 1975

Be extra alert for opportunities this coming year. They could come from the least suspected sources. Don't sit on your ideas. Discuss them with persons who know how to put them on the market.

Safety Play Loses Overtrick

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Fourth-suit forcing is a modern invention. We hope it will never replace horse and buggy bidding.

North's two-diamond call is an example. He didn't know what to bid so he tried two diamonds to see what might happen.

This caused South to bid two and three notrump and North had to decide what to do. Finally, he passed in the hope that South could handle the diamond suit by himself. It turned out that South could.

East won the first trick with the ace of diamonds and returned the suit. South won and led the queen of spades covered by West's king and dummy's ace. At this point South decided to take an unusual safety play. He led a low heart from dummy and played the eight spot from his own hand.

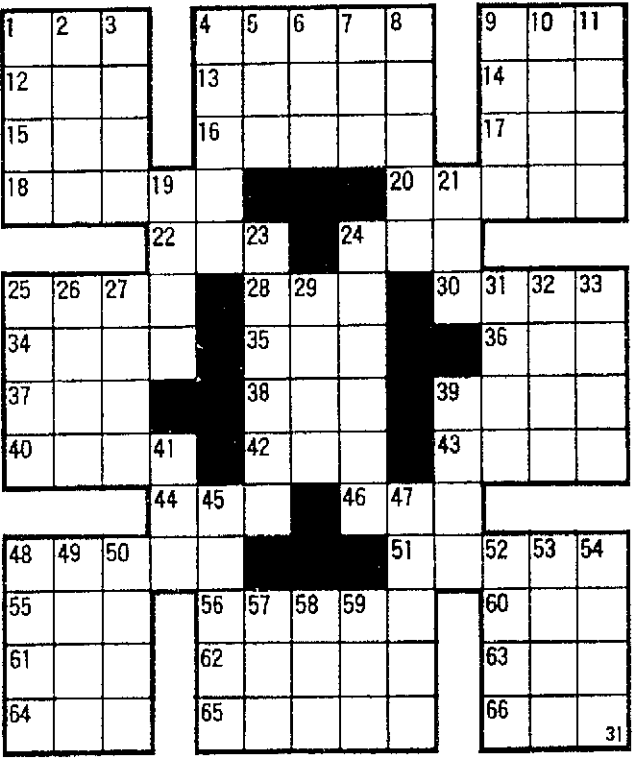

This safety play cost him an overtrick, but South did not care. The game was rubber bridge and he was interested in being as sure of his contract as possible.

Police Beat

Truck Crash

A tractor-trailer headed for New York City with a load of meat was involved in a spectacular crash on the New York State Thruway south of Catskill early today.

Thruway State Police said a rear wheel on the tractor blew out and the driver, Felix Loverro Jr., 22, of Utica, lost control of the vehicle.

The truck ran through a ditch and slammed into a rock ledge, ejecting Loverro.

"It couldn't have been any more totalled if you tried," one officer said of the tractor.

Loverro somehow escaped serious injury, and was reported treated and released at Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Authorities said the operator

Minor damage was reported to the trailer. Loverro was ticketed for having unsafe tires. Troopers said the super-highway was not blocked in the crash.

Vols Respond

Volunteer firemen responded to 10 brush and leaf fires in various parts of the county on Thursday. None were reported to be of a serious nature.

Man Charged

Kingston Police charged a young Tillson man, Wayne Debrosky, 24, with driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident following a three-car crash on Fair Street Thursday night.

Authorities said the operator of one of the vehicles involved, the rear and then struck a Mortimer Downer, 81, of 55 parked car as Debrosky al-Fair Street, told them he was legedly attempted to leave the going south on Fair Street at scene. Downer and a passenger about 10:45 p.m. when in his car reportedly suffered Debrosky's auto struck his in minor injuries.

Tribunal Censures Beck

KINGSTON
A five-judge tribunal of the State Court of Appeals has censured Kingston Attorney George A. Beck after he admitted to five charges of professional misconduct, following complaints investigated by the New York State Bar Association.

Complete details on Beck's alleged misconduct were not revealed, although in two cases it dealt with conversion of clients' share of settlement proceeds for which Beck said he had made complete restitution). Neither did the decision detail Beck's defense to any extent, other than his making restitution and citing personal problems.

The judge concluded by stating, "Although we cannot condone (Beck's) professional misconduct, upon consideration of the mitigating circumstances as well as (Beck's) good reputation and his otherwise unblemished record as a member of the bar for 19 years, we have determined that the ends of justice would be adequately served by a censure" (an official criticism).

Beck is also special city court judge. The action taken against him by the State Bar Association had nothing to do with his judicial conduct.

NEW PALTZ

State police are seeking a masked gunman who entered a State University College at New Paltz dormitory room early today, forced the three occupants to crawl under a bed, and fled with nearly $300 in cash after ransacking the room.

According to New Paltz Security Director Edward P. Shannon, the 12:20 a.m. armed robbery occurred in a third floor room in Deyo Hall. Authorities said three male students were in the room when the lone gunman, wearing a ski mask, entered through the unlocked door and, brandishing what appeared to be a .45-caliber automatic, ordered the trio to crawl under a bed. The gunman then ransacked the room, coming up with some $270 in cash and several checks.

Authorities said the gunman was a white male, about 5-feet 6, with brown hair and brown eyes.

The robbery was the tenth reported at the college since Jan. 1, according to Shannon.

Crime at Home

Meanwhile, in other area police matters: Kingston Police Department Detective Thomas Scarey found crime practically on his doorstep as he left his home for police headquarters early today.

Heading out of his home for his car shortly before 6 a.m., Scarey found someone already in the vehicle, going through his glove compartment.

Scarey arrested William Joseph Brandt, 21, of 119 Hunter Street, on a charge of petit larceny.

Brooklyn Man Sentenced

KINGSTON
A young Brooklyn man previously found guilty after trial of having a derringer in his possession during a June, 1974 incident in Woodstock was sentenced to a prison term of two to four years in Ulster County Court Thursday.

Explaining that the sentence was the minimum which could be handed out due to a prior felony conviction of the defendant, County Judge Raymond J. Mino ordered Edward Samarati, 27, sent to Clinton Correctional Facility in Dannemora.

Samarati was found guilty of possession of a loaded firearm following a September trial. The jury found him innocent of reckless endangerment. Samarati was arrested after allegedly brandishing the handgun during an argument at the Cafe Espresso in Woodstock. Samarati was represented by attorney William Mullany.

In other sentencings in county court Thursday:

- Robert Manke, 32, of Chicago, Ill. was sentenced to one year in the county jail on a charge of attempted burglary in the third degree. Since Manke had already been in the county jail since Sept. 5, 1974, he did not have to serve any more jail time. However, Judge Mino additionally ordered that Manke be turned over to the Prison Reform Task Force under terms of the sentence. Manke was represented by Alfred Manetti.
- Michael Adams of 33 Van Buren Street, Kingston was sentenced to five years probation on a charge of third degree burglary. The charge stemmed from incidents in Kingston last October. Attorney Alfred Manetti represented Adams.

- Ronald Gedney (age and address not available) who previously pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of criminal facilitation in connection with two 1973 burglaries was given a conditional discharge sentence, the condition being that he make restitution in the amount of $100. He was represented by attorney Francis Martucci.

Darling Endorses Friends Action

KINGSTON
William K. Darling, Republican candidate for Mayor, today endorsed Friends of Historic Kingston and its efforts to preserve the old city hall, but he voiced "reservations" about the $1 million advisory proposition that will be decided by city voters on Tuesday.

"I cannot, in good conscience, ask the city residents for a blank check for the renovation of old city hall," said Darling, "I believe the building should be saved and, of course, renovated, but first, we must establish for what purpose and use the so-called $1 million is necessary."

Starkman Responds

TOWN OF ULSTER
Calling charges leveled by Supervisor Carmine Sabino Thursday "blatant falsehoods," Democratic candidate George Starkman today emphatically denied that he filed false financial statements in a bankruptcy proceeding 16 years ago.

A statement released today said that Starkman "never issued any false statements at anytime to anybody... never transferred any assets to any members of his family, 16 years ago or 16 days ago. Those are blatant falsehoods."

Sabino, the incumbent Republican said that he has "fully documented" proof—in the form of court records—that Starkman admitted that he filed false financial statements in a bankruptcy proceeding before United States District Court in 1956.

In a statement apparently prepared for Starkman, it was noted, "His integrity is without question. Never on trial to face any charges. He never faced a grand jury. Starkman's membership in the CPA (Certified Public Accountant) Society and his CPA certificate has been in full force and effect up to today. Never cancelled, suspended or revoked."

The Democratic candidate did warn the voters to "be on the alert for false charges made in the few days before Election Day," and added that "Sabino is notoriously inaccurate in a great many of his statements. And why bring these stories out now? Why not last week? or last month?"

Pointing out that estimates for renovation of the building have been more closely put at $700,000, the Republican candidate commented, "Due to the inept handling of this situation by the mayor (Francis R. Koenig), it is incorrectly stipulated on the ballot as a request for $1 million... it is not fair to ask for support for spending $1 million with no prior usage established and no details on the application of this amount."

Commenting on yet another city building—the Municipal Auditorium—Darling suggested that Koenig has used "scare tactics" in warning that Ulster County could take possession of the building if the city does not spend the planned $350,000 for its renovation.

"I never once questioned the fact that the building was not used," said Darling, "I did, however, and will continue to call upon the mayor to justify $350,000 for the renovation of this structure. Once again, without any architectural plans, proposed usage, or detailed study, Koenig is trying to fast this upon the electorate."

REBUTTAL

From: George Starkman
To: Carmine Sabino

With great interest, I read your statement of TRUE FACTS in the Monday, October 27 issue of The Daily Freeman.

FIRST:

- You only answer certain selected items— your SILENCE is deafening about the following TRUE FACTS — which I repeat —
- the FREE sewer line on Sabino land
- the seven FREE sewer hook-ups on Sabino land
- the failure to file a sub-division site-plan, as required by law

SECOND:

- who BOSSES — the Planning Board?
- who BOSSES — the building inspector?
- who BOSSES — the Town Board?

THIRD:

- you print a copy of the Town Board Resolution empowering Sabino to negotiate — in plain English — this is a BLANK check
 - you did not print a copy of the Town Board Resolution accepting the negotiated settlement.
- REASON — there is NONE

FOURTH:

- you compare the Horowitz settlement with the Boice settlement
- this is similar to comparing apples with pineapples
- the Horowitz property is commercial property on 9W and needs practically no sewer line. You really damaged their property.
- the Boice property is farm land suitable for site development; the sewer line there increased the value tremendously.

FIFTH:

- I am no lawyer, Mr. Sabino. I am only a CPA. BUT if I negotiated a deal the way you did I would at least include the following clause —
- “in the event this land is sold within five years for a price in excess of $250,000, then the present owner must refund to the Town of Ulster all easement money plus 8½% interest.
- the land was sold for $590,000.

REMEMBER: The Town of Ulster is also my home — I have lived here 23 years. Management and Efficiency is my business.

11 Women Hopefuls in County Race

KINGSTON

A field of 66 candidates from four major political parties will vie for 33 legislative posts on the Ulster County Legislature. Of that number 26 are incumbents. Seven legislators declined to seek reelection.

This year's legislative election is unique in that of the 66 candidates, 11 are women. It seems likely therefore that the traditional all-male board will find itself with at least one or more women among its ranks in 1976.

Voters will choose legislators in varying numbers according to the district in which they reside. City residents however will select six at-large candidates to represent them choosing from a field of 12 candidates including two women.

County voters will select anywhere from two to six legislators. For instance the new Dist. 2 which is comprised of Town of Kingston, Shandaken and Woodstock will have two legislators while the new Dist. 5 which includes Hurley, Olive and the Town of Ulster, will have five.

The present legislature operates under a 20 to 13 Republican majority. However, 22 votes are needed to pass a bond issue but 17 votes are all that is needed for a simple majority.

The candidates, their districts and the towns they wish to represent as well as the number of seats to be filled in a district are as follows:

Dist. 1 (Wawarsing), three legislators—incumbent Republican-Conservative, Robert H. Kuhlmann; incumbent Democrat-Liberal, George Barthel; incumbent Democrat-Liberal, Louis Resnick; Democrat-Liberal Pauline Venenzie; Republican-Conservative Frank R. Spada and Republican-Conservative John F. Geary.

Dist. 2 (Woodstock, Shandaken and Town of Kingston), two legislators—incumbent Republican-Conservative William R. West; Republican Raymond Dunn and Democrat-Conservative James Barton, Democrat Edward Ullmann.

Dist. 3 (Saugerties), four legislators—incumbent Republican-Conservative, Clifford W. Snyder; incumbent Republican-Conservative, Charles Scala Jr.; incumbent Republican-Conservative C. Freeman Lasher; incumbent Democrat Richard Thornton; Democrat Albert Conte, Democrat-Liberal Mary Messina, Democrat-Liberal David Menzies, Republican-Conservative Alice Tipp.

Dist. 4 (City of Kingston), six legislators—incumbent Democrat-Liberal, James Gilpatric; incumbent Democrat-Liberal, John Dwyer; incumbent Democrat-Liberal, Eugene Perry; incumbent Democrat-Conservative, Larry Kithcart; Republican-Conservative, John L. Machione; Republican-Conservative, Robert J. Matthews; Republican-Conservative, Melvin Mones; Republican-Conservative, Francis P. Stauble; Republican, Emma Aprea; Republican, Adam C. Geuss; Democrat-Liberal, Donald Gregory; Democrat-Conservative, Kathleen Quick.

Dist. 5 (Ulster, Hurley, Olive), Five legislators—incumbent Republican-Conservative Lewis Hall; incumbent Republican-Conservative, Ernest Gardner; incumbent Republican, Lester C. Elmen-dorf; incumbent Republican, Stephen Hyatt; incumbent Republican, Richard D. Nace; Democrat-Conservative, Louis Conti; Democrat-Liberal, James T. McCardle; Democrat-Janet Yallum; Democrat, Andrea Moran; Democrat, W. Jack Kahn.

Dist. 6 (Esopus, Rosendale), three legislators—incumbent Democrat, Louis Klein; Republican-Conservative, Vernon L. Frost; Republican, Frank W. Kelly; Democrat Barbara DeStefano; Democrat, Joseph Wolf; Conservative, Carl P. Grassi Sr.; Conservative, Attilio A. Con-tini.

Dist. 7 (Rochester, Marbletown), two legislators—incumbent Republican-Conservative Philip H. Davis; incumbent Republican, S. Robert Kelder; Democrat, Belle Sundeen, who is also on the United Consumer Party ballot; Democrat, Michael DiBenedetto.

Dist. 8 (Gardiner, New Paltz, Shawangunk), four legislators—incumbent Republican-Conservative, Thomas W. Roach; incumbent Republican-Conservative, Louis H. Bevier; incumbent Republican, Peter J. Savago, chairman of the board; Republican, Thomas A.S. Kienzie; Democrat, Valerie Eldridge; Democrat, Thomas Nyquist.

Dist. 9 (Lloyd, Plattekill, Marlboro), four legislators—incumbent Republican, George Sisti Jr.; incumbent Republican, James F. Palen; incumbent Democrat, Brian R. White; Republican Nelson I. Dina; Republican, Daniel L. Alfonso; Democrat-Liberal, James Canino; Democrat, Robert R. Mandia; Democrat John B. Haluska.

Three Seek Coroner's Post

KINGSTON

The last time Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser sought office three years ago, he was unopposed and captured 60 percent of the vote.

This year he is seeking his fifth consecutive term and he is being challenged by two opponents—Democrat Stephen Corcoran of Ellenville and Liberal Ellen Becker of Kingston. Keyser has the Republican and Conservative nominations.

While Keyser and Corcoran, both morticians, are campaigning for the post, Mrs. Becker is actually campaigning on a platform of abolishing the position of county coroner and replacing it with the medical examiner system.

Keyser, who is president of Keyser Funeral Service in Kingston and Port Ewen, is a former Second Ward alderman and former candidate for alderman-at-large.

Corcoran, who is employed in Middeltown, has been a mortician for 25 years, having once owned a funeral home in Granville.

Mrs. Becker is a life resident of Kingston and was educated at St. Joseph's School and Dutchess County Community College. She is a dental assistant.

Active in community affairs, Keyser was appointed a commissioner of the Kingston Housing Authority in 1962 by Mayor John J. Schwenk and served as chairman of the county's annual Heart Fund Drive for several years.

A native of Kingston and a veteran of World War II, he was awarded a scholarship to Admiral Farragut Academy, attended the universities of Syracuse and Illinois and graduated from Renouard School of Embalmers.

Corcoran, a native of Geneva, is also a veteran of World War II, having served with the U.S. Army Air Corps. He was a prisoner of war in Germany. He is a graduate of Simmons School of Embalming and Mortuary Sciences in Syracuse.

Reapportionment Could Balance Council

A3—The Daily Freeman, October 31, 1975

KINGSTON Reapportionment, generally considered an ally of those who do the reapportioning, could prove to be the great equalizer in the Common Council this year.

The Democrats, who authored the reapportionment plan under which 28 candidates are running for 13 aldermanic seats this year, currently enjoy a 12-1 margin.

First Ward: John F. Coffey will be seeking his third term. Coffey, a Democratic committeeman, before his election in 1971, won a squeaker that time (eight votes) but has breezed since. He faces former Cnty Legislator (Dubby) Raichle on the Republican ticket and Conservative Kathryn Cole. Mrs. Cole ran in 1973.

Second Ward: Incumbent Joseph McGrane, hobbled by a knee injury, is still considered the favorite after two convincing wins in 1971 and 1973. McGrane faces Republican Pamela Foehser of 32 Warren Street in her first attempt at political office. She has the Conservative nomination; he has the Liberal.

Third Ward: One of the key wards in this year's race with two newcomers waging a close battle. Joseph Markle carries the GOP banner in this heavily Republican Ward while Frank DiPietro has the Democrat/Liberal nomination. The Third is currently represented by the city's only elected Republican, Brian Smith, who was defeated for renomination in a ward caucus by Markle. Michael Hawkins is the Independent candidate.

Fourth Ward: Clarence Stoutenburg is another member of the Democratic "Class of 1971" that seems to have gotten stronger with age. Stoutenburg's health problems could make that race somewhat closer. He is opposed by Robert C. Fitzgerald in his first run for elective office. Fitzgerald also has the Conservative nomination while Stoutenburg retains the Liberal.

Fifth Ward: Perennial John E. Finch goes for his fifth term in the Fifth against a seasoned veteran, C. John Bechtold, the Republican candidate for mayor in 1967. Finch is one of the key members of the Common Council, chairman of its Finance, Ways and Means Committee.

Sixth Ward: It's a political year for the Donald E. Quick family with Quick seeking reelection to his fifth term as alderman and Kathleen Quick seeking her first term in the county legislature. Quick is another key member of the Council, chairman of its powerful Laws and Rules Committee. Taling on the formidable Quick is Barbara Burnett, active in civic affairs but making her first run for elective office. Quick has the Liberal nomination.

Seventh Ward: Republican Matthew P. Cahill sees the old city hall as an issue in his ward but incumbent James Howard won big the last time and figures to be as strong.

Eighth Ward: A somewhat confused political situation there caused by the Republicans who initially nominated someone, Lorraine Longendyke, who didn't live in the ward. They settled instead for the Conservative nominee, Thomas Joy, a veteran campaigner and candidate several years ago for alderman. The incumbent is Emilio A. Primo, who carried his ward by less than 50 votes in 1973. Primo has the Liberal nomination.

Ninth Ward: Another closely contested battle with James DiDonna, the Republican/Conservative trying to unseat Philip DeCicco, the two-term Democratic/Liberal incumbent.

Tenth Ward: The ward which experienced the most change due to reapportionment, picking up about 500 persons and moving across Broadway to do it. Incumbent Clifford G. Sinsabaugh usually run away with election in Ponckhockie but a combination of his own temporary illness (he's since recovered) and an expanded ward could make that race close. Sinsabaugh faces Charles Polacco Sr. of 79 Crane Street, the Republican. Sinsabaugh has the Liberal nod.

Eleventh Ward: The only ward in the city with a Democratic majority and a ward that traditionally goes heavily to the Dems. Daniel Smith holds sway in Wilbur and Republican challenger Thomas Hricisak will find it difficult to unseat him. The fact that the city (the Democrats) wanted to put a landfill in Wilbur could upset traditional voting patterns in the ward, however.

Twelfth Ward: Incumbent Democrat/Conservative Peter Mancuso will be reelected in this ward, the only question being by what margin. Mancuso's opponent, Gwen Wood, has already announced she will be unable to serve if elected since she is moving out of the ward in mid-November. She has been unable to get her name off the ballot.

Thirteenth Ward: Another tossup with the incumbent's natural advantage narrowed by the fact he's running against a former and recent incumbent. Henry Dreiser, the Democrat/Liberal, faces former alderman (1970-73) Titus Sims, the Republican. It is expected that fewer than 100 votes will separate these two when election night is over.

KIRSCHNER

Clerk Battle Controversial

KINGSTON
The only countywide race this fall to evoke any notable interest and controversy is the three-way battle for county clerk.

Republican Albert Spada stands challenged by Democrat Lewis C. Kirschner and Conservative William Hegeman.

And, a battle it is with Spada's and Kirschner's supporters zealously lodging charges and counter-charges and Hegeman claiming he has been "dumped" by the Conservative Party that nominated him.

Hegeman's nomination was challenged by Kirschner; however, the Appellate Division rejected the Democrat's petition.

Nevertheless Hegeman claims the court-caused delay used up many months in which he would have had campaign materials printed and that he was unable to plan a campaign not knowing whether he would be on the ticket.

"They (Kirschner and the Conservatives) wiped me out," he said.

Among a number of issues in the campaign is the manner in which the county clerk's office is being run with Spada maintaining that it is an efficient, smooth-running operation while Kirschner claims Spada is using his office as "a source of political patronage."

Kirschner also has accused Spada of attempting to "confuse the issue and avoid his responsibilities in regard to the theft of money from the Motor Vehicle Department last spring.

Spada in turn accused Kirschner of attempting to "damage the reputations of possibly innocent persons by calling for the release of the names of all suspects."

Kirschner also revealed that threatening letters have been received by his supporters. At the same time Spada "vigorously condemned and deplored such acts," adding that this sort of nonsense has no place in this or any other political campaign.

Spada is seeking his third consecutive three-year term. Republican county chairman, he was named Man of the Year in 1974 by the Ulster County Young Republican Club citing him for having brought the GOP party to dominance in Ulster County in recent years.

Born in Glasco, he has served as legislative assistant to the late Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and State Sen. Ogden Bush. Appointed a deputy clerk in 1962, Spada was elected to his present post in 1967. In 1974, he was appointed by former Gov. Malcolm Wilson to the New York State Sports Authority. He has been chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee since 1969 and has been active in many civic affairs.

Kirschner has been a county legislator since 1969 and has served as President of the Ulster County Legislators and Supervisors Association. The owner of Lew's Delicatessen in Kingston, he represents the towns of Esopus and Rosendale in the county legislature. Active in many youth groups including DeMolay, Big Sister and as a supporter of the Youth Bureau, he is a member of the legislature's Youth and Recreation Committee, Community College Committee, Elections Committee, Legislative and Rules Committee, and Social Services Committee.

Hegeman who resides in Ellenville is a deputy in the Ulster County Sheriff's Department. He said he wanted the job because he felt he "could do a good job and save the people a lot of money." Hegeman was a candidate for sheriff of Ulster County last year but withdrew in deference to now Sheriff Thomas Mayone.

Davis Faces Mullany Challenge

KINGSTON Republican Surrogate Court Judge Arthur A. Davis, who during the past 10 years has been assigned to many courts in many capacities, in Ulster, Albany and Sullivan, Columbia and Greene counties, is being challenged for his post Nov. 4 by veteran Democratic campaigner William C. Mullany. Judge Davis also has the Conservative nomination while Mullany, a Kingston lawyer, has been endorsed by the Liberal Party.

The $37,075-a-year post runs for a 10-year term. Surrogate's Court is a part of the state unified court system and under that system, a judge may be assigned to the supreme court, county court, family court or surrogate's court in another county.

During the past 10 years, Judge Davis has been assigned to hold trial and special terms of Supreme Court and county court in many counties.

Mullany who unsuccessfully sought a family court judgeship in 1973, is presently a member of the Appeals Board for the State Department of Motor Vehicles. He was appointed to that post in April of this year by State Commissioner James P. Melton.

Both Judge Davis and Mullany's campaigns have been of necessity, low key, inasmuch as those seeking the judiciary, by tradition stress their own qualifications rather than campaigning against each other.

Judge Davis is a native Kingstonian, served in the Armed Forces during World War II, is a past president of the Ulster County Bar Association and is presently a member of the county, state and national bar associations. He also serves on the executive committee of the Surrogate's Association of the State of New York. He received his law degree from University of Virginia.

He and his wife are the parents of six children and reside in the City of Kingston.

Mullany, a native of Queens, is married and has six children.

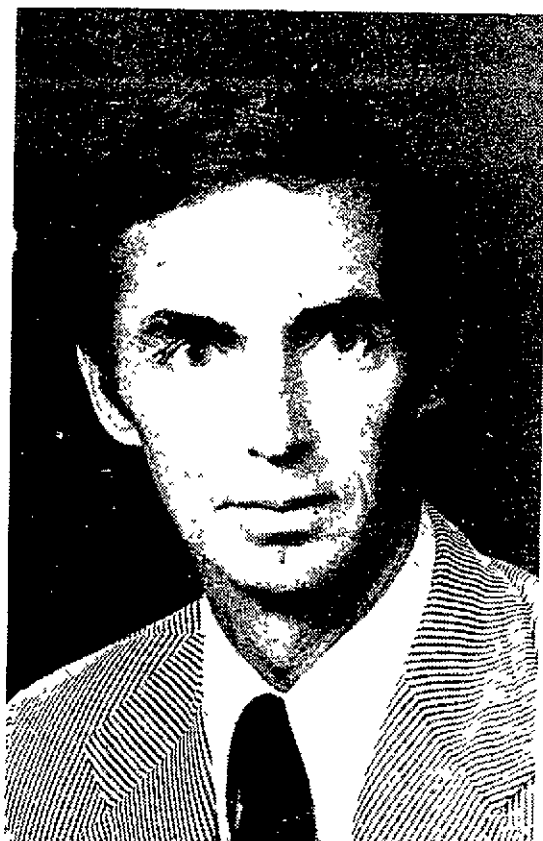

A resident of Elmendorf Heights, he is president of Kingston Area Library, a member of the board of directors of American Red Cross and Hurley Lions Club.

A graduate of St. John's Law School, Brooklyn, Mullany was previously associated with the Hartford Insurance Group, as estate tax attorney for Putnam County and casualty claims supervisor and hearing representative in Workmen's Compensation Claims, Indemnity Insurance Company, White Plains.

EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT — NEW YORK STATE

"Opponents of the legislation have conjured up a battery of unwarranted fears such as the notion that religious institutions would be affected by the amendment (they won't) or that women's protections under the rape laws will be limited by it (they won't) . . ."

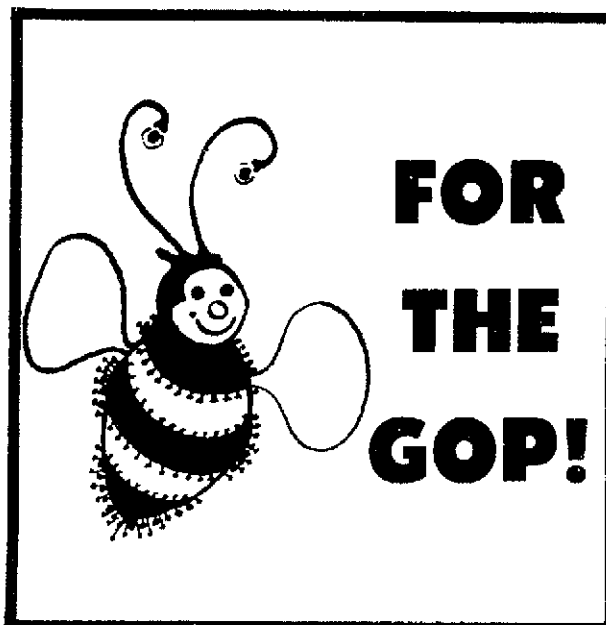

"None of those fears have materialized in states where such an amendment has been added to the constitution, nor could they have been expected to. But, more fundamentally, it is clear that all institutions, including marriage, and all societies, including that of the State of New York, can be but strengthened when the people participating in them are provided with greater equality and with more dignity. There is little to fear and much to be gained from New York's E.R.A." New York Times Editorial, Oct. 24, 1975

Amendment One: ERA

An unprecedented seven constitutional amendments will be on the ballot Election Day, but none has evoked more controversy or confusion than the one that would establish equal rights for both sexes Amendment N. 1 — the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA)—states simply that equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the State of New York or any of its subdivisions (cities, counties, towns, villages, etc.) on account of sex.

There are few people who have expressed opposition to the broad philosophical principle that women should be given the same opportunities for advancement and prosperity as men. But the concern that women may lose many of the rights and privileges with passage of ERA has prompted considerable opposition to the amendment.

Supporters of the amendment, however, insist that women will not be adversely affected by the Equal Rights Amendment; they say that women will still be guaranteed certain protections because of the unique biological differences between males and females, and that the amendment would simply establish that women are to be accorded equal respect and consideration under the law.

Fifteen states have already approved their own Equal Rights Amendment (Wyoming was the first—in 1890) and 34 states have ratified an Equal Rights Amendment to the federal constitution.

If four more do so within the next three years, the amendment will become the law of the land.

In the meantime, New York State residents will have the opportunity on Nov. 4 to decide whether a state ERA is necessary or desirable.

Amendment Two: Judicial Conduct

KINGSTON

Amendment No. 2: "Shall the proposed amendment to Article VI of the Constitution, adding a new Section 36-c thereto and amending Section 22 thereof, in relation to the powers of and reconstituting the Court on the Judiciary and creating a commission on judicial conduct, be approved?"

The most significant impact of this proposed Constitutional Amendment would be the creation of a permanent Commission on Judicial Conduct, which would be empowered to receive or investigate complaints about judicial misconduct or disability.

Specifically, the amendment stipulates that any judge or justice in the state court system "may be censured, suspended or removed for cause, including, but not limited to, misconduct in office, persistent failure to perform his duties, habitual intemperance and conduct, on or off the bench, prejudicial to the administration of justice, or retired for mental or physical disability preventing the proper performance of his judicial duties after due notice and hearing . . ." by the Commission on Judicial Conduct.

The Commission on Judicial Conduct would be empowered to investigate the fitness, qualification or conduct of any of the state's judges and could determine, on its own, whether a judge is to be censured, suspended or retired. If unwilling to make such a determination, the commission could refer the case to the reconstituted Court on the Judiciary, which would also be empowered to take appropriate disciplinary action. If the commission were to take disciplinary action on its own, the judge could ask the Court on the Judiciary to hear the matter.

Opponents of the amendment say the whole system would be too complicated and cumbersome; that there would be too few judges on the commission (the maximum number could be three) to provide an understanding of judicial pressures and realities, and that the commission could be overwhelmed by superficial public complaints.

Supporters say that approval of the amendment would give the public someplace to go to complain about the conduct of the state's judges, and would provide a workable system for removing or disciplining judges who have violated the public trust. They say that similar systems have worked in other states.

Amendment Three: Office of Courts

KINGSTON
Amendment No. 3: "Shall the proposed amendments to Article VI and VII of the Constitution, in relation to the administration and financing of the Unified Court System of the State, be approved?"

proved by the voters in November, would create the office of chief administrator of the courts, and would provide for centralized administration of the state's court system.

Specifically, the chief administrator would be given the authority to:

- Temporarily assign judges and justices among to the courts.

- Certify to the Governor the need for and additional justices for the Appellate Division.

- Transfer any pending appeals to another Appellate Division when a particular justice is unable to dispose of the appeal within a reasonable period of time.

- Prepare itemized estimates of the annual financial needs of the courts.

- Regulate practices and procedures within the courts, subject to the authorization and control of the legislature.

The amendment also stipulates that the cost of operating and maintaining the state court system shall be paid by the state, with local municipalities reimbursing the state for a portion of those costs.

Those in favor of the amendment say that a centralized administration and a unified budget would enhance the efficiency of the courts and would establish a more uniform system of justice throughout the state.

Supporters also point out that court delays would be reduced by more efficient distribution of court personnel and court-room space and by improved record keeping. In addition, they note that court administration would be less subject to patronage and local party control.

Opponents of this amendment say it would eliminate local control of the courts and that regional differences and particular local characteristics would not be taken into consideration in the distribution of cases and judges. They further point out that required Senate confirmation of the chief administrator would threaten the traditional independence of the Judiciary, and they add that the amendment still does not settle the question of whether the state or the localities should pay the cost of the court system.

A7—The Daily Freeman, October 31, 1975

Proposition One: Bond

KINGSTON
Proposition No.1 "Shall Chapter 554 of the laws of 1975 entitled 'an act authorizing the creation of an additional state debt in the aggregate amount of two hundred fifty million dollars for low rent housing purposes' . . . be approved?"

The only proposition that New York State residents will vote on in November is a proposed $250 million bond issue to finance the construction of housing for elderly residents with limited incomes.

The money would be lent to private businesses — at an annual interest rate not to exceed one percent—which would, in turn, construct the additional housing. It is estimated that approximately 8,000 new units would be constructed with the state loan monies, with low income rents set at approximate $45 per room per month.

Supporters of the proposition point out that there already exists desperate need for decent low income housing for the state's elderly residents, and that private industry, in recent years, has not been able to provide an adequate number of reasonably priced units. Approval of the proposition, they claim, would not only stimulate new construction by private industry, but would also provide additional jobs for the construction trades.

With construction of new housing for senior citizens, the supporters add, existing low income housing would be freed for occupation by young or middle aged low income families. They also point out that the $250 million would not have a noticeable impact on the state debt, and that the loans would be repaid in time anyway.

But opponents point out that the state's debt is already too high, and that the recent problems encountered by the Urban Development Corporation (UDC) indicate that the state is already hard-pressed to handle its existing debt. Further, they contend that even a slight increase in the state debt could lead to higher interest rates, which would affect not only the state, but local municipalities as well.

As an alternative, opponents suggest that available funds should be used to maintain and repair existing buildings, and that any new housing should be earmarked to meet the more pressing demands of low and moderate income housing for younger families.

★ A Personal Message From BOB MITCHELL Democratic Candidate for Superintendent of Highways in the

TOWN VOTERS

First, I would like to thank all the residents of the town for their gracious acceptance on my door to door campaign. To those of you that I missed, I am truly sorry but I tried my best but found it impossible to reach each and every one of you in the time allotted.

Second, as Election Day approaches I would like you, the voter, to take a moment and examine all the candidates, make up your mind and exercise your choice. After you have considered the individual's qualifications, direct your attention to the decades of the present Republican Regime!

A Regime that has openly defied the taxpayers wishes! A Regime that by their constant re-election has taken you for granted! A Regime that has pacified the vociferous to maintain their absolute control over you and I without upsetting their so called Political Apple Cart! THINK ABOUT IT!! If elected as Superintendent of Highways, you, the taxpayers, will get priority. I will seek your personal input. I will do what has to be done where it is legally and economically possible.

Remember, November 4, 1975 is your day to make a change for the better so, regardless of your political affiliation, please vote—for Robert Mitchell, Superintendent of Highways, Row "A".

Thank You,
Robert (Bob) Mitchell

Amendment Four: Special Session

KINGSTON
Amendment No. 4:
"Shall the proposed amendment to Article III of the Constitution inserting a new section 18 therein in relation to the convening of extraordinary sessions of the legislature upon petition of the members of the legislature, and the proposed amendment to Article IV, Section 3 of the Constitution in relation to extraordinary sessions of the legislature convened by the Governor, be approved?"

At present, only the Governor may call the state legislature into a special session. This amendment, if approved in November, would give the Legislature itself the power to convene a special session.

In order for the legislature to call a special session, two-thirds of the members of both the Assembly and Senate would have to sign a petition requesting the special session. The topic to be discussed if the session is held.

The state legislators, themselves, are among the staunchest supports of this proposed amendment. They note that the legislature should be able to convene in order to act on bills which have been vetoed by the Governor after adjournment of the regular session.

They also insist that the legislature should have more power to deal with emergency situations than it now has, because only the Governor can decide now whether the need for a special session exists.

But supporters point out that special sessions cost money, and that the legislature should discipline itself to conduct all of its business during the regular session, and that quick passage of important bills would leave adequate time to override a veto by the Governor. The amendment, they say, would simply give the legislature another excuse to drag its feet during the regular session, and then rush to pass a flurry of bills in the waning moments before adjournment.

Amendment Five: Sell Bonds

KINGSTON
Amendment No. 5: Shall municipalities have the authority to sell bonds in order to finance the construction of storm water sewer systems?

At present, municipalities have the authority to sell bonds for the "conveyance, treatment and disposal of sewage," but the state constitution is unclear as to whether that right extends to storm drainage and surface water disposal systems. The amendment would, in effect, give municipalities the authority to sell bonds for the construction of storm drainage systems.

Those opposed to the amendment, however, point out that such authority would further add to the indebtedness of local communities, and they suggest that such projects be undertaken with the help of state and federal funds.

Supporters, however, counter with the argument that it is a locality's own right to establish its bonded indebtedness.

ATTENTION VOTERS OF ROSENDALE

Did you know the Democratic Assessors raised the assessments thirty per cent and in return only received a ten per cent raise in equalization rate? This Democratic failure has unnecessarily caused Rosendale Taxpayers to pay an average twenty per cent to the school districts and the county. The Democratic Assessors, with approval and encouragement of the Democratic Supervisor, failed to follow the instructions and guideline laid down by the state.
This cost Rosendale taxpayers
$120,046.00 for fiscal 1975-76.

Amendment Six: Raising Tax Limits

Ag—The Daily Freeman, October 31, 1975

KINGSTON
Amendment No. 6: Should cities (except New York City) and city school districts be authorized to levy taxes to cover the cost of employee retirement programs over and above the property tax limits imposed on them by the State Constitution?

At present, cities and city school districts must abide by a constitutionally imposed debt limit; they cannot, by law, exceed that debt limit. The amendment would allow cities and city school districts to tax its residents beyond the debt limit to pay for employee retirement and pension programs.

The issue is a controversial one. Supporters say that cities and city school districts have no control over retirement costs; that such costs take an ever-increasing share of budget appropriations. With retirement costs fixed and expenses in other areas constantly increasing, supporters fear that cities and city school districts may reach the point where they cannot implement new programs and services because of inadequate debt limitations. One solution, they say, would be to remove retirement costs from the total debt of the government entity.

Opponents, however, charge that passage of the amendment could set a dangerous precedent; there could come a time in the future when other costs are eliminated from consideration of debt limits. They note that constitutionally imposed debt limits provide a valuable protection to the taxpayers by guarding against reckless and unwarranted expenditures.

In addition, opponents say that approval of the amendment would reduce the incentive to oppose union demands for better pensions and improved retirement benefits.

The provisions of the amendment have been allowed since 1969, but the courts have ruled the practice unconstitutional. Approval of the amendment would establish the constitutionality of the practice.

Amendment Seven: Games

KINGSTON
Amendment No. 7: "Shall the proposed amendment to Article I . . . of the Constitution in relation to authorizing the limited conduct of certain games of chance by religious, charitable or non-profit organizations of veterans, volunteer firemen and similar non-profit organizations, be approved?"

This amendment—sponsored by Assemblyman Emeel C. Betros (R-99) and State Sen. Jay P. Rolison (R-39)—would allow religious, charitable and non-profit organizations to operate games of chance to raise funds. At present, only bingo and "lotto" (a form of bingo) are permitted under state law.

The games of chance that would be authorized with approval of Amendment No. 7 would feature prizes awarded on the basis of a winning number or numbers, color or colors, or symbol or symbols determined by chance (drawing, spinning wheel, etc.).

New games of chance would, however, have to be approved by a public referendum in each locality, and any games of chance that are approved would have to be managed by members of the sponsoring organization, without pay. The maximum prize amount could be $1,000.

Opponents say that the state should not encourage gambling, and that there is always the chance that professional gamblers or organized crime could infiltrate games of chance.

Supporters say many non-profit organizations need the amendment to raise adequate funds to continue their community services, and that adequate safeguards have been taken to exclude the criminal element.

and since politics abhors a vacuum (to mix a metaphor) the campaigning has been sustained and loud.

Upon board resolution, the town council will henceforth be composed of four councilmen and supervisor. The two justices will be removed from voting capacity and discharge solely judicial functions. This means two more elective jobs, and the scramble is on.

But not only between majority Republicans and minority Democrats; the Conservative Party has fielded two candidates of its own for supervisor and town clerk, and has endorsed four Republicans and one Democrat.

Thus, the impact of Conservative voting at a time when it appears to be the vogue among politicians to out-serve each other makes it hazardous to guess whether the Carmine Sabino-led Republicans or George Starkman-led Democrats will be more severely impacted.

Sabino survived a toughly-fought Republican primary to win the nomination after six years in office. He is a farmer. Starkman (D) is a retired Certified Public Accountant. Conservative Robert Stedge is an insurance salesman.

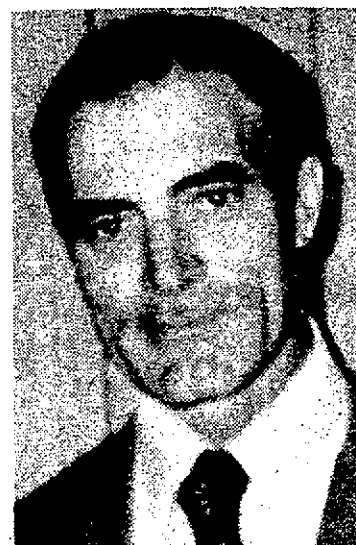

For town clerk, incumbent Robert Morehouse (R) has three years on the job; Rita Swift (D) of Ruby has family business experience; and Shirley Ulrich (C) was defeated at the Republican caucus by Morehouse.

Attorney Sherwood Davis (R-C) seeks to retain his town justice job after eight years as Peter Tiano (D), IBM employee, challenges Harold T. Atkins (R-C) brings six years of collecting taxes to the fore with Allan Duane (D) of the Ulster Community College faculty offering the alternative.

The races appear to be wide open when it comes to the election of councilmen. Running at large for the two four-year posts are: Kenneth Dargs (D), a sales representative for DuPont; Daniel Houser Sr., (D-C), a retired Naval Chief Warrant Officer with other business and labor affiliations; Frank Sottile (R-C), an IBM employee; and Frederick Wdnola (R), an administrative employee of the Kingston City School District Consolidated.

Seeking the two-year slot vacated by Councilman Anthony Cicoria Jan. 1 are John R. Montague (D), an IBM employee; and Charles Rider (R-C), a banker for 20 years.

CARMINE SABINO

The highway superintendent job, vacated June 30 under pressure by Edgar Elliott, pits Robert Mitchell (D), a self employed builder against Ralph Hayner (R), with 25 years in the contracting business. Anthony Natoli, currently acting superintendent, is not seeking office.

There is one Democrat, Councilman Ed Crosby, on the town board. There has reportedly been no Democratic control since the Franklin D. Roosevelt era.

'Independent Interest' in Lloyd

-The Daily Freeman, October 31, 1975

TOWN OF LLOYD
The interesting feature of political development in the Town of Lloyd has been the organization of an independent group critical of both the Republican and Democratic parties' past performances.

In fact, the Independent Party has split its endorsements down the middle on six candidates, three GOP and three Democrats; the Conservative Party has also endorsed four Democrats, none with Independent endorsement.

The gripes come from several directions, notably inequity in zoning enforcement and allegations of unequal treatment in tax assessments. Lack of internal stability has led to many resignations from town positions, according to Independents, although Supervisor Jon P. Decker (D-C), seeking reelection, has denied any interconnecting basis for resignations.

The Town of Lloyd has one gargantuan problem that effectively dwarfs internecine bickering, and there has been significant solidarity in opposition to the construction of a nuclear power plant in the town.

Decker, seeking his second term, is proprietor of D&D Auto Supply, Inc. of Highland and New Paltz. Candidates for supervisor are Don T. Hooton (R), employed by IBM in Poughkeepsie; and Joseph Costantino (I), a self-employed contractor.

Dominick M. Palladino (D-

C), appointed one year ago to replace retiring Vincent Gafney, seeks a full term as town clerk, opposed by Harold C. Berean Jr. (R-I), who operates a printing business in Highland.

John A. Vona, with two years in office as superintendent of highways, had resigned in April citing "internal pressure" as the reason, but reentered the Democratic fold for a try at a full term in office. Joseph Gruner (R-I), a self-employed contractor, also seeks the office.

Gary Palmer (D-C), attorney with a law firm in Poughkeepsie, was appointed town justice in September to fill the vacancy created when Justice Linn Baker died last April. Palmer is opposed by Louis DiPrima (R), a salesman with Montgomery Ward; and Joseph R. Trapani (I), law clerk for an attorney in Milton.

Five men are candidates for two openings as councilman. Frank M. Canino (D-C), a teacher in Poughkeepsie; John W. Mazzetti (R-I), of Dutchess Bank and Trust, Poughkeepsie, a former candidate for town supervisor; Harry L. Brand (R), an IBM employee in Poughkeepsie; and Cos A. Trapani (I), a Highland Central School District employee

'Job Swapping' in Shandaken

TOWN OF SHANDAKEN
An unusual election development in the Town of Shandaken sees two Republican officeholders attempting to swap jobs this year.

George A. Kirk, now representing District 4 in the Ulster County Legislature, is running for Shandaken supervisor. Raymond J. Dunn, supervisor since 1969, is running for Kirk's job in the legislature.

Kirk, a Mt. Tremper resident, is retired from the U.S. Navy and now employed by Bankers Trust Company in Kingston. He was a town justice and a member of the town board for nine years, and is a past president of the Shandaken Republican Club.

Opposing him will be Lindsay Hoyt of Mt. Pleasant, a former town councilman and owner of a lumber business, the Democratic nominee.

Four candidates are vying in a free-for-all that will see the two top vote-getters win four-year terms as councilmen. Democrats have nominated two political newcomers, real estate broker Ruth "Peggy" Gale of Phoenicia, and John J. Staiger of Phoenicia, a watershed inspector for the City of New York, currently the town Democratic chairman.

Republicans went with experience in nominating Marion Umhey, who has been a councilman since 1958, when she was named to fill a vacancy. Mrs. Umhey is publisher and editor of the Ulster Townsman in Woodstock.

Her running mate is Jack Schlegel of Mt. Tremper, a former constable-in-charge of the town constabulary, who is making his first try for elective office.

Republicans also went for experience in nominating Archie Aley of Big Indian to be highway superintendent. Aley will be after his fourth two-year term and is virtually certain of winning, since Democrats did not name anyone to oppose him.

Incumbent town clerk Paul Herdman of Big Indian, a Democrat, is seeking another two-year term. Herdman, a self-employed carpenter, is opposed by Republican William Caton of Chichester, an accountant. Caton is presently head of the town's Bicentennial commission.

Brian Grant of Chichester will attempt to unseat incumbent assessor Richard Ricciardella of Phoenicia for a four-year term on the assessment board. Grant, a Democrat, is employed by the state at the Woodland Valley campsite. Ricciardella, a Republican, is associated with his father in a Phoenicia restaurant and hotel. He has been an assessor for two years.

Another incumbent Republican assessor, Daniel Kiernan of Phoenicia, seeks another two years in the post he has held for four years. He is opposed by Democrat Beverly "Duffy" Dutcher of Shandaken, a carpenter.

Incumbent Town Justice Edwin France, a Republican, is another candidate virtually certain of election to another four-year term in the post, since Democrats did not name anyone to oppose him.

Both Conservatives and Liberals failed to nominate any candidates, but have endorsed candidates of both major parties. Conservatives endorsed Democrats Hoyt for supervisor, Gale for councilman, Herdman for town clerk, Dutcher for assessor and Chauncey for tax collector. Republicans getting the Conservative nod were Schlegel for councilman, Aley for highway superintendent, and Ricciardella for assessor.

The campaign has been relatively quiet, with Democrats issuing a joint statement accusing the all-Republican town board of failing to appoint an attorney for advice and consultation, lack of prudence regarding a town landfill site, failure to immediately replace or reconstruct the Silver Hollow Bridge, delinquency in reaching a decision on the proposed zoning ordinance because the board wasn't familiar with its contents, and a negative reaction to salary increases requested by the former constabulary.

Freer Looking to Win Number Five

A13—The Daily Freeman, October 31, 1975

TOWN OF ESOPUS
Incumbent George Freer, who has managed to win four terms as Town of Esopus supervisor despite a heavy Republican majority, will lead the Democratic ticket again in November in an attempt to make it five.

Freer, construction supervisor for the New York Telephone Company territory between Nyack and Albany, will be opposed by Joseph E. Sills Jr., an IBM employee who has been active in community affairs. Sills, currently president of the Town of Esopus Republican Club, was nominated without opposition at the Republican caucus.

An unusual development in this year's campaign sees Emily Card, after 19 consecutive years as town clerk, running for one of the two four-year councilmen's seats on the Republican ticket. The other GOP nominee is incumbent Frank Bell, who seeks a four-year term after winning a two-year seat in 1973 when the town replaced town justices on the board with councilmen. Republican John Bowman, whose term expires this year, did not run for reelection.

Democrat Marilyn Coffey, who had the thankless task of opposing Miss Card for town clerk two years ago, may have it easier this time. She faces

Amy Sturrock, the Republican candidate, in a race for a two-year term as town clerk. Mrs. Coffey has been the town bookkeeper for the past four years and is familiar with town business. Her opponent, Mrs. Sturrock, is also familiar with town affairs, having been sworn in recently as deputy town clerk.

Democrats nominated Robert A. Wenzel and Thomas Sentar for the four-year council seats. Wenzel, secretary-treasurer of a vending machine firm, is a University of Bridgeport graduate with a major in accounting. Sentar, formerly an engineer with Hercules Powder, currently is president of Granada Builders, a Port Ewen firm which earlier this year received approval for a $1.5 million shopping plaza in Kingston's Broadway East area. Both are making their first runs for public office.

Incumbent Joseph H. Clark, who has been highway superintendent for the past five years, seeks another two-year term on the Republican ticket. Clark, who formerly owned his own contracting business, will be opposed by William Yesse Jr., who has operated his own trucking and contracting firm for the past 18 years. Yesse is running on the Democratic ticket after losing the nomination to Clark by a 184-33 margin at the Republican caucus.

Incumbent Robert Jordan, a former member of the town board as a town justice, seeks another two-year term as town justice on the Republican ticket. His Democratic opponent, Justin Ausanio, is vice president of a school busing firm in the Kingston district, and is making his first run for political office.

Incumbent Democrat Helen

Dargie will be trying for her third term as tax collector, running against Republican John Steigerwald.

The Esopus Conservative Party, which has been a decisive factor in several past elections, has split its ticket this year. Conservatives, who did not name any candidates of their own, have endorsed Republicans Sills for supervisor, Jordan for town justice, Bell for councilman and Clark for highway superintendent. Democrats receiving Conservative endorsement were Mrs. Coffey for town clerk, Wenzel for councilman, and Mrs. Dargie for tax collector.

Three-Way Affair In Saugerties

TOWN OF SAUGERTIES
The race for supervisor in the Town of Saugerties will be a three-way affair again this year.

Incumbent A. Michael Schovel will seek his fifth two-year term as an independent again. He did the same thing successfully two years ago after failing to win the nod from his Democratic party.

Opposing him will be Democrat Paul Miller, who finished second to Schovel in 1973, and Republican Frank Greco.

Saugerties Republicans nominated Jerome Daley and Jennifer Peetoom to run for the two two-year councilmen's seats. They will be opposed by Democrats Frank Sinnott and John "Bud" Smith, an incumbent.

Margaret "Peggy" Dachenhausen, who was named town clerk to replace the late Marian Newkirk, will seek another term in office. She faces formidable opposition in Jane Chodaba, the town Democratic chairman.

Incumbent Alphonse "Al" Ferrara will seek another two-year term as highway superintendent against Republican hopeful Joseph T. Mayone, and Republican incumbent Timothy Murphy faces Democratic nominee David Goble in a bid for another two years as town justice.

The flamboyant Schovel has run what is for him a low-key campaign to date. Most of the fireworks so far has come from Miller, who also conducted an active campaign against Schovel and Republican Charles Goertz two years ago.

Miller has prepared, with Ferrara's aid, a road improvement plan that would include an unpaid advisory road commission to assist the highway superintendent. Miller, along with Smith and Sinnott, has pledged to call a special meeting of the town board within one month of taking office to set up the machinery for organizing a task force to improve the long-term economic condition of Saugerties.

Miller has concentrated "not one who operates government by crisis, by telephone from his home and from other places."

A Republican committeeman for many years, Greco cites his experience with the Selective Service Board, the Ulster County Civil Service Commission, and with numerous business enterprises in the town as qualifications for the supervisor's post.

Mayone maintains that the highway department has "gotten bogged down in too much red tape and wastes time and money." Involved in construction for the past 20 years, he says that once a priority list has been established for town road construction it must be done using proper construction principles "with the expectation of a minimum of future maintenance and repairs."

most of his fire on Schovel to date, accusing him of "gross misuse of his office by speaking out in behalf of special interests in the town and against the interests of the ordinary taxpayer."

Saying that Schovel is still selling shale from the town landfill operation at "only a nickle a yard over 1960 prices" and maintaining that he failed to get a more favorable franchise from the cable television company, Miller says that "Two more years of Schovel in these precarious times would be a luxury the taxpayer can ill afford."

Greco, in an obvious reference to Schovel, says the town needs a full-time supervisor,

Daley has served as a trustee for the Village of Saugerties and was appointed by the board of assessors, the post he now holds. He is general manager of the Fallsburg Bottling Works of Kingston, where he has worked for the past 25 years.

Mrs. Peetoom is a district committeewoman and secretary of the Town of Saugerties Republican Committee and also serves on its Executive Committee. She was coordinator of the 1973 Republican town campaign and Ulster County coordinator for Rep. Hamilton Fish's successful 1974 campaign.

Campaign 'Intense' In Woodstock

Alb.—The Daily Freeman, October 31, 1975

TOWN OF WOODSTOCK

There are substantive issues voiced in Woodstock political races these days, but with the exception of the new welfare wrinkle (who's going to distribute the checks, the town or county?) they have all received much previous verbal homage.

The perennial issue of sewerage for the hamlet of Woodstock (rejected as too costly only last year) will not go away. While alternatives to central sewerage have been alluded to, nothing practical has surfaced. The timing of installing sidewalks in the business district is in question, although candidates feel there is a definite need for sidewalks. The value of a recently completed 100 percent real property tax reassessment is being upheld by Republicans, denigrated by Democrats.

The uncertainty and intensity of the campaign are reflective of the fact that two new council seats become available as the two justices take leave of their legislative powers; and the fact that veteran Supervisor Verner May is stepping down, leaving Councilman Valerie Cadden (R) to seek the top elected down position.

"Val," as she is known locally, has served two years of a four-year term as Councilman and it is this created vacancy that brings forth more candidates. She is opposed by William Kronenberg (D), an Onteora High School teacher.

For the two-year council spot, Myron M. Kutcher (D), an IBM employee and Lester R. Shultis (R), a self employed contractor, are opposed.

Four candidates for the two four-year council jobs are: Jane Van DeBogart (D), the town's only elected Democrat, a former school teacher; Edgar C. Leaycraft (D), an IBM employee; Grover C. Dodd Jr. (R), recently appointed the town's deputy commissioner of welfare; and Richard C. Hilton (R), an IBM employee.

If Val Cadden is successful in her bid for supervisor, then another council post would automatically become vacant, necessitating an appointment. This also raises the stakes.

Rudolf C. Baumgarten (R) is seeking his fifth consecutive term as town justice. The service station operator is being opposed by Sidney Slayton (D), employed by the New York City Water Commission at the Ashokan Reservoir.

Arthur R. Van Valkenburgh (R) completes his second term as highway superintendent and looks for another, challenged by Francis G. Williams (D), a Woodstock Businessman who has had experience as a highway superintendent in the neighboring Town of Catskill.

Scorecard Needed in New Paltz

NEW PALTZ
With all of the recent appointments to elective positions in the Town of New Paltz, you've needed a scorecard to tell whether who's on first or what's on second. This is the way it shapes up for November's election, with contests for every Republican held post that is expiring. This despite the contention by Democratic candidate for supervisor William A. Yeaple that a Democrat has not been elected in New Paltz in 28 years. Yeaple operates the Army-Navy store on Main Street, and has received the Conservative Party endorsement.

Alfred H. Schreiber, a building contractor, heads the Republican ticket. He is the incumbent supervisor, having been appointed to that post Oct. 1 as Republican Supervisor Theodore E. Lasher resigned effective that date for "personal" reasons. (Lasher himself was originally appointed supervisor when Anthony Moriello resigned from office, and Lasher was subsequently elected to a term.)

Jane E. West (R) will defend her job as town clerk, held for three years after an appointment and after seven years as deputy town clerk, against Maria A. Michel (D), merchandise manager for a Poughkeepsie business.

There are two contestants to fill a councilman vacancy created when Anita Taylor (R) resigned last spring. Walter J. Luczai (R-C) is the incumbent, appointed to replace Taylor. He owns the Hasbrouck Flower Shop. Opposition is David C. Caccamo (D), a teacher in the Poughkeepsie school system.

Two full-term (four-year) councilman spots will be filled, with the only incumbent Walter A. Paradies, construction firm president, appointed to the job about a year ago to fill the unexpired term of Dominick Sfregola. Paradies' running mate is William F. Schmalkuche (R-C), a building contractor.

Democrats running for the two at-large councilman seats are Joseph P. Foley (D-C), retired from IBM Corp. and former school board member for 12 years; and George T. Schneider (D), an employee of IBM in Fishkill.

For highway superintendent, incumbent LeRoy Brown (R-C) was elected two years ago after 10 months as an appointed temporary superintendent. He has seven years experience with the town. Democrat candidate is Frank H. Donahue, a car salesman who formerly operated a service station in New Paltz.

Perhaps the most interesting choice will be between Dorothy M. Grigsby (D) and incumbent S. Parks Glenn (R-C) for town justice. Glenn, who runs a taxi service and bus terminal, has 16 years logged as justice. Ms. Grigsby, director of the medical social services department at Benedictine Hospital, has a background as a correction officer in North Carolina, New York City, and Ulster County; is on an advisory council at Ulster County Community College; and belongs to the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

Glazer Vs. Bowers In Rosendale

A17—The Daily Freeman, October 31, 1975

TOWN OF ROSENDALE
Incumbents Hugh Simpson and Joan Every are fairly certain of election in the Town of Rosendale this year.

Simpson, the highway superintendent, and Mrs. Every, the tax collector, have been endorsed by both major parties and are running without opposition. If she needs it, Mrs. Every also has the Conservative endorsement.

Several other candidates probably wish they had it so good. Democratic Supervisor Richard Glazer, who upset incumbent Gerard Defelicio in a close race two years ago, is the incumbent this time, challenged by Republican Harold Bowers.

Glazer, a Tillson resident, is chairman of the Division of Biological and Health Sciences at Ulster County Community College. Bowers, who lives in Bloomington, is a World War II veteran who served 11 years in the Kingston Police Department, three years as chief of the Town of Rosendale Constabulary, seven years in the Ulster County Sheriff's Department as an investigator, and two years as Chief of Police in the village of New Paltz. Bowers has also received the Conservative endorsement for the position of supervisor.

Also endorsed by Conservatives is the incumbent town justice, Albert Morelli, who seeks another four year term in that post. Morelli, a Republican, has been involved in the securities and insurance business for 30 years, the past 18 in the Kingston area.

His opponent is Wilfred Doolittle, a Rosendale village justice for the past 26 years. Doolittle, an insurance agent, is a charter member of the Ulster County Magistrates Association and the only one in the county still holding a justice's office.

Marie Alio, a Republican, faces the task of unseating long-time Town Clerk Catherine O'Leary, the Democratic incumbent. Mrs. Alio, a Tillson resident for the past 10 years, has experience as a statistical clerk and account clerk. She was named by the Committee on Vacancies to oppose Mrs. O'Leary, replacing Joan Weir, who withdrew after winning the Republican nomination.

Mrs. O'Leary, a Rosendale resident for 49 years, has been the town clerk for the past 15 years. She is president of the Rosendale Senior Citizens.

Hugh "Bud" Halligan of Tillson is the GOP nominee for the four year term as councilman for the seat now held by Karl Strobel, who declined to run again. A college graduate with a degree in business administration, he is employed by IBM. Halligan was one of four Republicans endorsed by Conservatives.

His opponent, Benjamin Stormer, is a Tillson resident making his first try for public office. Stormer holds a Ph.D. Degree in chemistry and is an assistant professor of chemistry at Ulster County Community College.

Incumbent Democrat George Mollenhauer is running for a four-year term as assessor. A town resident for 40 years, he formerly served as supervisor and has been on the Board of Assessors for two years. A retired dairy farmer, he is chairman of the Rosendale Library trustees.

Norman Tierney is the Republican choice to oppose Mollenhauer. Tierney, associated with a home building firm as a regional manager, has lived in Bloomington for 15 years. Active in civic and community affairs, he is a former member of the zoning commission, served four years on the Zoning Board of Appeals, two years as building inspector, and for one year on the Assessment Board of Review.

John Delora Jr., a lifelong Tillson resident, has devoted his life to residential construction, valuation and marketing and appraisal work in the Town of Rosendale. His bid for a two year term on the Board of Assessors is being opposed by Democrat Patricia Hoffman of Maple Hill. She is a four-year resident of the town making her first run for office, and is a licensed real estate agent.

Simpson, a Cobleskill graduate, was a partner in a family dairy business for many years, and has had extensive experience in general construction and equipment usage and maintenance. Mrs. Every, a town resident for 13 years, has been the tax collector for eight years. She is a former social worker and teacher's aide.

Olive: Crawford Faces Barringer

TOWN OF OLIVE
The supervisor's race in the Town of Olive features two familiar faces. Incumbent Republican Oliver Crawford will be seeking to repeat his 1973 victory over Democrat Vincent Barringer and win another two year term.

Crawford is no stranger to town affairs, having served as town clerk for 10 years prior to becoming supervisor. He is a former Republican committeeman and an Olivebridge resident.

Barringer is no stranger to town business either, having served four years as a councilman, two of them as deputy supervisor. A Samsonville resident, he also served four years as a town justice.

Both parties selected an incumbent and a newcomer in the race for two councilmen's seats. Democratic incumbent Donald Beesmer, an IBM employe, seeks a second term on the board. His running mate is Richard Cooper, a teacher in the Onteora school district. A West Shokan resident, he holds a master's degree in education and is treasurer of the Olive Democratic Party.

Opposing them in a contest that sees the two top vote getters win four year terms on the board are the Republican incumbent, Everett Cook of Olivebridge, a Rotron Inc. product planner who seeks his fifth term on the board, and Robert Adsit of Shokan, owner of a liquid propane gas service and the present building inspector. Incumbent Highway Superintendent Marcel Maier will be seeking his 10th consecutive two-year term. The West Shokan Republican will be opposed by Democrat Robert Bruckner, manager of Bruckner Racing Enterprises and a town highway department employe for 10 years.

Incumbent tax collector Margaret Kunkle, a Democrat, is another veteran town employe, having served 12 years in the post. Her bid for another two-year term will be contested by Republican Mildred Carlsen of Shokan, who brings a background in bookkeeping and secretarial work to her first try for office.

Incumbent Republican E. Lee Denman, who became town clerk when Crawford moved up to supervisor, seeks his second two year term. Denman, an Ashokan resident, operates his own insurance agency and has had a total of 14 years in various town posts. He faces Democratic challenger Carol Olsen Lamonda of Boiceville, a relative newcomer to the town.

Arthur Gibbons of Boiceville, an IBM employe and president of the Olive Athletic Association, is the Democratic nominee for a four year term as town justice to replace Nancy Riseley, who did not run for reelection. The Republican hopeful is Robert J. Wilkins of Shokan, a town resident for 29 years and operator of a bus contracting service.

Incumbent assessor Terence Carle of Shokan, assessment board chairman for the past two years, seeks a four year term this time. He is a title researcher and insurance and real estate salesman. Opposing him is William Potts of Brown's Station, vice president of the Olive Homeowner's Association.

Running for a two year term as assessor is John T. Molloy of West Shokan, with experience in real estate and urban renewal condemnation proceedings. Molloy, a Republican, is opposed by Democrat Robert Jaeger of Shokan, a teacher in the Kingston school system and president of the Olive Homeowner's Association.

TOWN OF HARDENBURGH
Incumbent Republican Supervisor Bowman H. Owen will be seeking his sixth term of office as he heads his ticket in the upcoming elections in the Town of Hardenburgh.

Owen, who is opposed by Democrat Lester T. Bourke, first took office in 1966, and has held the supervisor post since then.

In other races in Ulster County's least populated township (population 239, according to 1970 census):

Incumbent Town Clerk Millicent Buerge, running on the GOP ticket, is opposed by Democrat Douglas A. Todd.

Incumbent Tax Collector Elizabeth E. Baker is running unopposed for re-election with Democrat and Republican endorsement.

The contest for superintendent of highways shows Democrat Allison Fairbairn opposed by Republican Bernard Fairbairn.

Incumbent Republican Town Justice Marks Buerge is seeking re-election, opposed by Democrat Robert H. Schroeder, Jr.

Smith In Try For 4th Term

TOWN OF MARBLETOWN

Republicans went with experience in choosing a slate for Marbletown town offices in the November election.

Incumbent Supervisor Kenneth Smith of Lyonsville heads the ticket in a try for his fourth two-year term in office. Town Clerk Lillian Quick, running for her fourth two-year term of office, seems like one of November's more predictable winners, having received the Democratic endorsement as well.

Another incumbent, Milford "Red" VanDemark of Kripplush, will be shooting for his third two-year term as highway superintendent.

Town residents voted to eliminate the two town justices from the town five-member board and replace them with councilmen, opening up contests for three positions. Running on the GOP ticket for four year terms will be William Coler of Stone Ridge, now a member of the board, as a town justice, and Ray Van Kleeck of Lomontville, making his first try for office.

The nominee for the two-year councilman's seat is Arnold Fedde of The Vly, also making his first run for office.

Donald LaFera of High Falls is the Republican nominee for a four year term as assessor. LaFera is now an interim appointee on the assessment board, having been named to replace the late Benjamin Van Wagenen. Mrs. Edith Korwan of The Vly, a political newcomer, will run for the two-year term as assessor.

Donald Paulson of Stone Ridge, recently retired from the New York State Police, will run for the four year term as town justice.

The Democratic slate is headed by Mrs. Elsie Weglarz of Stone Ridge, a regular at board meetings. She served as Marbletown coordinator for Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey in his successful run last year and currently serves as a volunteer in his Kingston office.

Incumbent Councilman Alfred "Twiggy" Terwilliger is seeking a four year term on the board and is joined by James Hasenflue of Lomontville, who will run for the other four year post.

A rare father-and-son combination is on the Democratic ticket this year, with Alfred Terwilliger's son John seeking the two-year post. A lifelong Marbletown resident, the younger Terwilliger has been active in the Democratic Club and has served as chairman of fund raising activities.

Charles Orr of Stone Ridge, after losing the Republican nomination contest to VanDemark, won the Democratic nomination and will oppose him again in November.

Charles Williams, an incumbent assessor, will seek a two year term on the board and Teri DiBenedetto will run for the two year term assessor's post.

Frank Wuchte of Marbletown is the Democratic nominee to oppose Paulson in the contest for the four year term as town justice.

Marbletown Conservatives nominated only two candidates of their own, selecting Joseph D. Fitts of Lyonsville to oppose Mrs. Weglarz and Smith for supervisor and naming R. Douglas Taylor of Cottekill to run for the two year councilman's post against Fedde and John Terwilliger. All other endorsements with the exception of town clerk went to Democratic candidates, including Mrs. Weglarz, Orr, Hasenflue, Alfred and John Terwilliger, Teri DiBenedetto, Williams and Wuchte.

Koenig in Second Three-Way Race

KINGSTON
Mayor Francis R. Koenig, seeking his fourth straight term in office, faces a spirited challenge from not one but two opponents, Republican William K. Darling and Conservative Bernard Singer.

It is Koenig's second three-way race: he ran against Singer and Republican James J. Tyrrell for his first term in 1969, easily defeating both of them.

Historically, no mayor has been elected to four consecutive terms—two tried and failed—but one mayor, Morris Block, for whom Block Park is named, was elected to four terms. Block served two terms at the turn of the century and came back for two more 20 years later. He died in office.

This campaign has been a lively affair, with no shortage of oratory. Even Mayor Koenig, known for his tight-lipped campaigning in the past, has responded to some of his opponents' barbs.

In general terms, the mayor is running on his record and his opponents are running against it.

Both Singer and Darling cite their business background—Singer has operated one of the area's largest tire stores for the past 20 years while Darling runs one of the area's major automotive parts stores—in arguing that the city should be run in a more "business-like" manner.

Koenig, an office holder for six years prior to his election as mayor, cites that experience and the progress the city has experienced during his terms as mayor. Koenig points with particular pride to the construction that has taken place in Kingston during his tenure, both private and public.

The mayor has been criticized for increases in city budgets and personnel but he points to the improved services being rendered. Both police and fire departments were understaffed when Koenig took office, says Koenig. They are now near full recommended strength.

Koenig can also point to major updating of equipment for the city's three major departments: public works, police and fire. He cites to the near completion of the city's two urban renewal projects with construction of some $15 million therein.

Community Development is only in its first year, but Koenig sees it as the wave of the future. He pledges a continuing effort towards getting the city all the federal and state support it has coming.

Darling, unlike Koenig and Singer, has never been involved in a political campaign, a fact he makes clear to the public with his often repeated expression "I'm no politician."

Darling's attack on the Koenig Administration has been broadbased, ranging from the landfill, to the continuing disputes between the volunteer and paid firemen, to non-development of more than 20 acres of urban renewal land, to the decline of the Central Broadway business district, old city hall, recreation, the swimming pool.

He has attacked what he sees as secrecy at city hall and a closed administration, suggesting he will make frequent use of citizen committees to work on specific problems.

The most recurrent theme of Darling's campaign is "time for a change," reflecting the fact that Democrats have had control of city hall for 10 years.

Singer treats the issues in fashion similar to Darling. "Think people, not politics," is Singer's campaign slogan. Singer advocates an "open door policy" at city hall, agreeing with Darling that a change is needed.

Singer sees little difference between his two opponents, suggesting that only by voting "Conservative" can the populace expect a real change at city hall. He charges there's a "machine" at city hall.

All three candidates are natives of Kingston. Koenig, the youngest at 41, runs an insurance agency in private life. Darling will mark his 55th birthday on Sunday. Singer is the same age.

The job pays $20,000 a year; it is a two-year term.

KOENIG (L), DARLING, SINGER

Charter a Simple Matter

KINGSTON
"Question No. 2" on the ballot is deceptively simple, asking the electorate only if Kingston should have a new city charter.

Specifically, that question is "Shall the new city charter proposed by the City Charter Revision Commission be adopted?"

Behind that question lies months of continuous work by Mayor Francis R. Koenig's Charter Revision Commission—appointed in March, it completed its work in early September—and six weeks of public debate which only a charter revision seems able to generate.

Opposition to the charter's treatment of the water department has gotten most of the headlines for the past six weeks, but charter advocates point out that there's a good deal more to the document than the removal of autonomy from a heretofore independent department.

"We tried to open up government," said Bernard Matthews, the charter commission member who ultimately became the commission's greatest defender. "The issue to us was accountability. This is what the people indicated they wanted and that is what we tried to give them."

"Accountability" as defined by the charter commission takes several forms from opening up meetings of city boards to the public to requiring the mayor to submit a budget 30 days prior to the end of the fiscal year rather than a week, to setting up a chain of command where authority and responsibility will be readily identifiable and responsible.

The charter also advocates central purchasing along with central maintenance, the latter, which caused severe criticisms from water department advocates who felt the Board of Public Works was not capable of maintaining all the city's equipment. Spokesmen for the DPW agree.

The charter creates uniformity among the city's various boards, setting them up as five-member boards with the mayor as president. The idea was to give the mayor overall control of the agencies directly responsible for the day-to-day operation of city government.

The mayor's appointments to city boards would be subject to Common Council review but not his department head appointments.

Opposition has come mainly from those who feel the water department is doing an outstanding job and should remain independent and that injecting "politics" (Common Council review of water rates and budgets) would decrease the efficiency of the department.

The mayor has also raised questions on whether the charter can be implemented since, according to the mayor, a new administrative code would have to be adopted. This has been disputed by some charter advocates.

Finally, there are those, noting that the charter can only be changed by referendum, who are suggesting the whole thing be put off until next year for further study. Five members of the 13-member commission have advocated exactly that.

A simple majority on election day will decide the fate of the charter.

Alderman-at-large . . . 'Team Effort'

A21—The Daily Freeman, October 31, 1975

KINGSTON
This year's race for alderman-at-large has become something of a team effort with the candidates basing their campaigns more on the fact of association with their running mates for mayor than the office itself.

Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo is back again on the Democratic ticket, seeking his fifth two-year term in office.

He is pitted against two women who have never sought political office, Emily Johnson on the Republican ticket and Roberta Kolts on the Conservative.

Gallo brings to his office more than a dozen years of legislative experience, serving first as alderman from the old ninth Ward for two terms and then moving up as alderman-at-large with his election to that office in 1967. He has been reelected ever since with pluralities averaging 3,100 votes.

Mrs. Johnson's community involvement has been on the civic and school level. She has been an activist leader in most of the organizations she has served which include the Kingston Area Library, the YWCA and the Brigham School PTA. She was also a member of the 1964 Charter Revision Commission.

Mrs. Kolts, the youngest of the candidates at 27, is a relative newcomer to politics but has been active for the past few years in causes espoused by the Conservative Party of which she is its secretary. She has worked on committees against pornography, is active with Ulster County Right to Life and is an outspoken opponent of the ERA amendment.

Elections for aldermen-at-large tend to be low-keyed affairs despite the fact the office carries with it a great deal of responsibility and influence.

The alderman-at-large serves as president of the Common Council and is its presiding officer. He appoints all council committees and serves as an ex-officio member of all committees. The Council president is also by charter, the deputy mayor, and serves in that capacity when the mayor is unable to fulfill his duties either due to illness or absence.

The three-way contest between Gallo, Johnson and Kolts has for the most part been a six-way affair with the positions taken by the mayoral candidates being debated in tandem.

Gallo has run as a member of the "Koenig-Gallo Team" for four elections and that is the issue his opponents have chosen to attack.

Mrs. Johnson, for one, has raised the issue of separation of powers, suggesting that the legislative branch should be a balance rather than a partner to the executive.

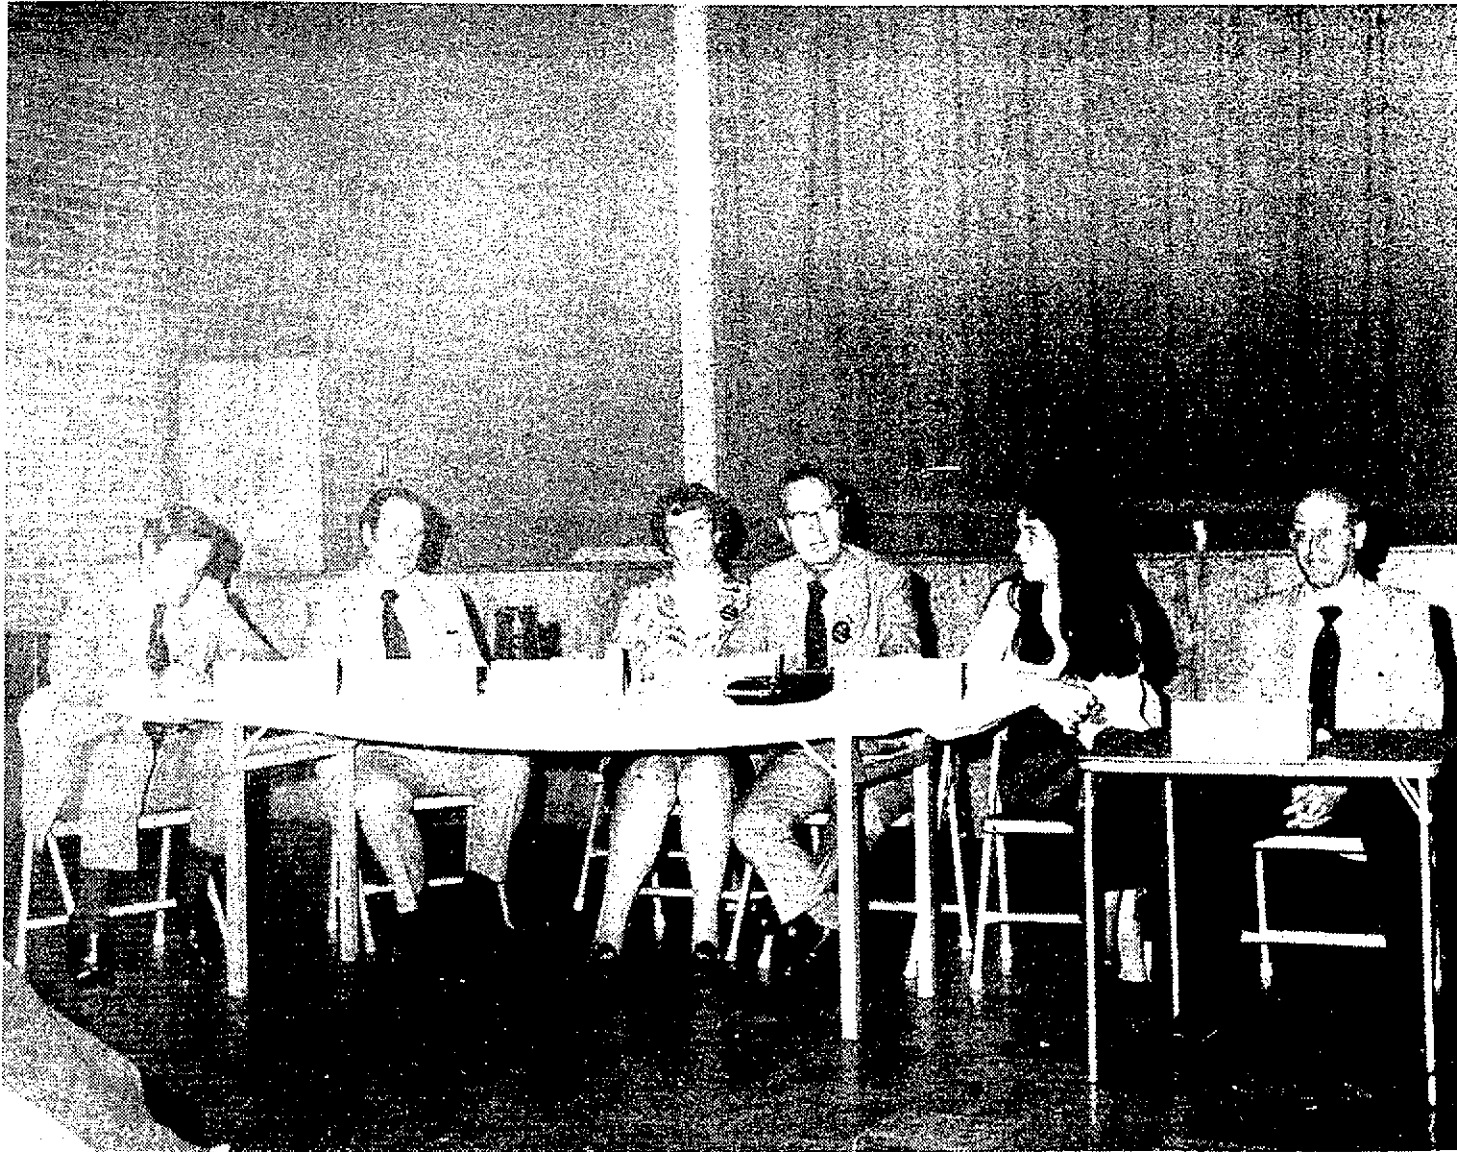

Mrs. Kolts seems not at all impressed with the office, suggesting that the alderman-at-large is overpaid for what he does. In fact, she has said the entire Council is overpaid and should serve on a voluntary basis as does the Board of Education.

Gallo has cited the openness of Common Council meetings to the general public, declaring that no one has ever been denied the right to speak.

Mrs. Johnson has said they should be even more open, by holding more Council meetings and by having committee reports available to the public five days previous to a meeting.

For the most part though, it's been a team effort with the candidates for aldermen-at-large joining with their running mates for mayor for discussion of the issues.

Despite that, city residents are voting for individual offices in the case of alderman-at-large/mayor, and unlike president/vice president, can't cast their votes for candidates of different parties if they so choose.

THE RESPECTIVE TEAMS SQUARE OFF

City Hall . . . Advisory Vote

KINGSTON
"Question No. 1" on the ballot this year was designed to perhaps end what has become years of controversy on the old city hall by getting public opinion on spending up to $1.5 million for its restoration.

Rather than end the controversy, the question itself has become a subject of intense controversy with historical groups in favor of spending the money on one hand but opposed to the issue being put to a public decision on the other.

There's another aspect to the controversy which has raised questions in its own right: the vote is purely advisory. City government is not bound by it dictates. "It is a special question that amounts to a feeling out of the electorate," says Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein. "I think the city would be morally bound by its results, but it will not be legally bound. What is being asked is the help of the people to determine which route should be taken."

The question itself reads thusly: "Shall the city of Kingston, New York expend the sum of approximately $1,000,000 together with the state matching grant in the amount of $500,000 to renovate the old city hall building including adequate parking, as a landmarks preservation site?"

City officials who sponsored the question, including the mayor and the Common Council, argue that a decision to spend up to $1.5 million on the renovation of the old city hall should be left to the public. The city has spent less than $2,500 on the building since it was abandoned more than three years ago.

Historical interests argue the issue from a number of viewpoints.

They suggest that it is the responsibility of elected officials to make the decision, not the public at-large. They buttress that argument by recalling that the same officials who advocate a public decision refused to allow the public to vote on the construction of a new city hall in 1970, built at a cost of almost $1 million.

Any argument about the question inevitably leads back to the question itself, in this case, it's wording. Historical groups in perhaps something of a paradox, are opposed to restricting the use of the building to a "landmarks preservation site." They feel the building has broad possibilities but that labeling it a "landmark" could restrict potential use and, with it, its chances of renovation.

And finally, the idea of asking the public for a million dollars in the midst of the worst depression since the 1930's smacks of a "stacked deck" against the old building, argue some historical interests, which can result only in justification by its defeat of the city's position that the public didn't want to spend money to save the building in the first place.

A Realistic Program for Saugerties

presented by

Paul Miller, John 'Bud' Smith, Frank Sinnott & Al Ferrara

Jobs for Saugerties

1. Set up a task force, recruited from among the business and industrial community, to improve the long-term economic situation in Saugerties. They would sit down with the Town Planning Board and provide input for a long range economic improvement program. The Town would cooperate closely with the business community through the consideration of capital improvement projects to attract business and light industry into the area.

Sewer project

2. Demand a watchdog committee on the sewerage project be established and given continuous access to all minutes, transactions, and correspondence of the Town Board or its agents in connection with the project. There can be no further secrecy about the reasons for the costly delays in this undertaking.

Tax assessment

3. Inequitable tax assessment practices in Saugerties are a near-scandal. The time has come to abolish the wrongs NOW rather than at some remote future date.

Town Board Meetings

4. We would encourage greater citizen participation in town government by varying location of Town Board meetings and providing adequate seating so that those attending are not forced to stand outside in the hallway. We condemn the present Board for not having taken action on this heretofore.

Administrative Reform

5. We would streamline the Town Board meeting procedure, publicizing the minutes and providing the public more information on matters before the Board.
6. In reassigning responsibilities to Town Board members we would seek a more equitable distribution of the work load. We would also give one councilman the responsibility for seeing to it that the public is adequately informed of official business through frequent communications with the news media.

Road Improvement

7. We offer a realistic, comprehensive, money-saving plan for road maintenance and improvement.

Recreation

8. We support continued improvement of recreational facilities; we also urge a feasibility study for a community center to benefit not only senior citizens but also youth and adult groups.

Town Clerk's office hours

9. We would extend the Town Clerk's hours to include evenings and Saturdays for the convenience of the working man and woman. This could be done without additional cost, by staggering office hours.

Cable T.V.

10. We would negotiate with the Cable T.V. Company for extended coverage in the Township, improvements in service, and the creation of a local access channel for the presentation of local programs, inclusive of public service broadcasts of meetings concerned with town affairs.

Zoning

11. We urge that the Town come to grips with the zoning problem and work out an equitable solution that will give full consideration to the will of the people.

Nuclear reactor plant

12. We have insisted that public safety come before all else. We do not wish to see public debate cut off until full assurances can be given.

Shawangunk 'Leash Law' Test Slated

SHAWANGUNK

As any elected town official will tell you, the largest single category for complaints from residents is usually concerned with "man's best friend," the dog.

The pro-leash and anti-leash factions will have it out in Town of Shawangunk elections as the "leash law" becomes the province of the people. It is the only purely local issue up for referendum in Ulster County.

Shawangunk is also one of the few towns that has cross-endorsed candidates. Two incumbents run unopposed, town clerk and highway superintendent, something that is fast becoming a rarity even in towns of lesser population.

They are Superintendent Clarence Decker (D-R) and Clerk Margaret Y. Tremper (D-R), who was appointed July 1 and is seeking a full term of office. The clerk is traditionally appointed tax collector in Shawangunk. The two positions are also the only full-time elected jobs in the town.

Supervisor Francis V. Garrison (R), farmer and proprietor of a feed and farm supply business, is running for his third term, opposed by Charles E. Flynn (D), an employee of the New York State Corrections Department.

Two councilmen will be elected from a field of four: Robert M. Elliott, who runs a sporting goods store in Walden, and Vincent R. Knoll, a self-employed accountant, both Democrats; E. Lester Mack, incumbent and retired fruit farmer, and Allen R. Warner, a Pine Bush school teacher, both Republicans.

Seeking the town justice spot, being vacated by Fred Earl because of the new state ruling prohibiting police from occupying judgeships, are Arthur L. Erickson (D), retired from the military; and Eugene O. Corey (R), operator of Corey's Greenhouse and currently the town's chief constable, a position he must resign if elected justice.

There are two vacancies on the three-man board of assessors. Seeking the long term (four years) are Raymond G. Sturm (R), retired from New York Telephone and present short-term assessor; and William H. Powell (D), reportedly a horse-trainer.

Contestants for the two-year assessor job being vacated by Sturm are Fred Washburn (D), retired from the New York State Conservation Department with a private contracting business; and William Kobelt Jr. (R), real estate appraiser and operator of the Kobelt Airport.

PEOPLE OF THE FIRST WARD:

For the past five weeks I have tried to call at your home or apartment to ask if you had any questions, introduce myself and ask for your vote. If elected, I promise not to do what I think is best for the Ward, but what YOU consider necessary. I plan to contact people in each district of the First Ward to find out what problems you have and try to work out a solution. I plan to represent you, the people, not myself, in the Common Council. Complications Are Very Few

TOWN OF ROCHESTER

The complications are few in Town of Rochester political choices this year, with Republican facing Democrat in all seven races and one Conservative thrown in.

Incumbent Supervisor Wilfred Neff (D) seeks his second term on a predominantly Democratic board. He is an insurance salesman. Facing him to contest that spot is Vincent Dunn (R), self-employed with a fuel company.

There is but one councilman seat open, as Sam Waruch vacates Dec. 31, and three candidates: Alfred B. Lawrence (D), a correction officer at Napanoch who has been forced to resign as town justice because of a new conflict of interest law; Edwin R. Lamon (R), a former employee of DeLaval Separator Company who has reportedly been laid off from his job; and Arthur J. Putnam (C), an American Telephone and Telegraph employee.

Two political newcomers are after the justice position vacated by Lawrence: Carl Spiegel (D), retired from manufacturing and presently a service station attendant; and Guy Finkbeiner (R), employed by the VAW aluminum factory in Ellenville.

Incumbent C. David Clark (D) looks for his second term as highway superintendent, opposed by Wallace Baker (R), an employee of the town highway department.

William Mitchell Jr. (D), a short-term assessor, is a candidate for the long-term assessor post vacated by Bruce Schoonmaker. He is a correction officer at Napanoch, with opposition from Vincent J. Salfi (R), employed by Rondout Valley Central School.

And the two men running for the short term (two-year) assessor job are Roland Smith (D), also a Napanoch correction officer, and Allen L. Chamberlain (R), who operates a real estate business.

Eileen Baker (R) is the only incumbent Republican elected official seeking re-election and she brings a record of seven consecutive terms as town clerk to the polls. Olive Wynkoop (D), bookkeeper and secretary for an Ellenville trucking outfit, provides the opposition.

Lone Democrat

MARLBOROUGH

One incumbent Democrat—the supervisor—and six incumbent Republicans are seeking re-election to public office in this year's elections in the Town of Marlborough.

The lone Democratic incumbent is Supervisor Michael J. Canosa, who also has Conservative endorsement. He is opposed by Republican Michael A. Vanacore.

In the race for town clerk, incumbent Patsy J. Mannese, with Republican and Conservative endorsement, is opposed by Democrat Norma R. Appler.

Incumbent Highway Superintendent Albert G. Trautman, running on the Republican ticket, is opposed by Rocco N. Carofano, who has Democratic and Conservative endorsement.

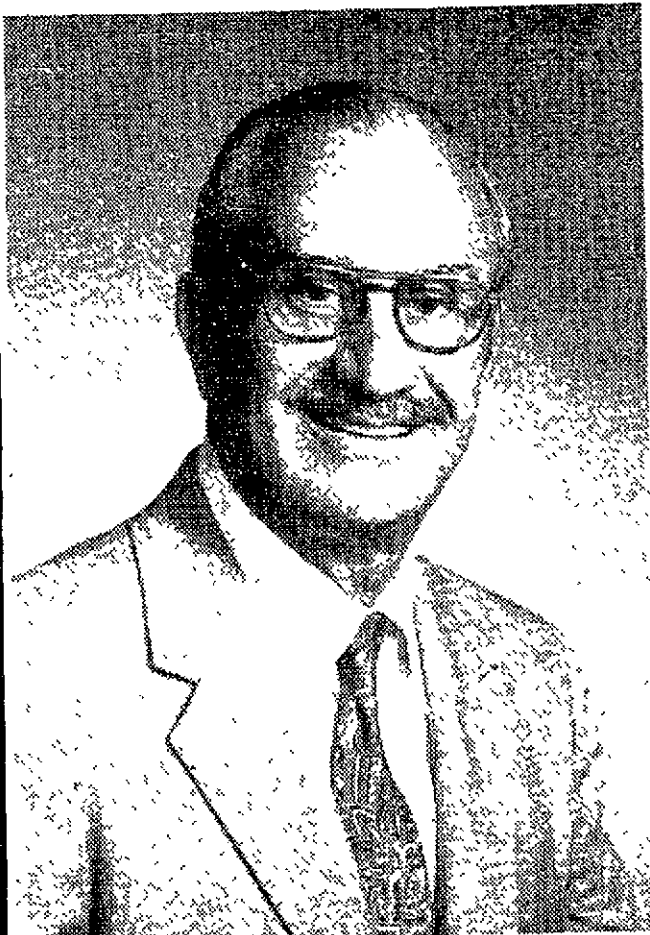

Opponents in the race for the four-year assessor post are Democrat-Conservative Michael A. Marano and Republican John Nicklin, Jr.

In the contest for the two-year assessor position, incumbent Republican Ralph LoFaro is opposed by George R. Peterman, who has Democratic and Conservative endorsement.

Voters will have the choice of two from among four candidates in the race for the town justice seats. Incumbent Republicans Patrick T. Mataraza and Michael A. Pascale are opposed by Democrat William M. Onusko and Leonard J. Bochiocchio, who has the endorsement of both the Democrats and the Conservatives.

Voters will also have the choice of two from among four candidates for town councilman. In the contest for the two seats on the board are incumbent Republican Joseph P. Russo, Republican Michael C. Pasano Jr., Democrat Joseph V. Caserto and Paul B. Quimby, with Conservative and Democratic endorsement.

TOWN OF HURLEY
"No contest" — that's the phrase which best describes six of the "races" for public office in the Town of Hurley this year, as nominees run unopposed for supervisor, town clerk, highway superintendent, tax collector, assessor (two years) and town justice.

Heading the list of unopposed candidates is incumbent supervisor Raymond Crosswell, running on the GOP ticket.

Other incumbents running unopposed are Highway Superintendent Peter J. Naccarato, with Republican-Conservative endorsement; Tax Collector Agnes Metzger, on the GOP line; Republican Assessor Schuyler E. Weidner; and Republican Town Justice Alton Boyce. Also running unopposed for town clerk is Ethel B. Lockwood, who has the Republican endorsement.

The official ballot in the Town of Hurley is not totally without contests, though, as there are opposing candidates in the races for assessor (four years), two four-year councilman seats and one two-year councilman seat.

Four persons are seeking the nod for the two four-year seats as town councilman. They are Daniel H. Caragher, with Democrat and Conservative endorsement; Democrat Michael R. Grubiak; Philip Sinagra, with Republican and Conservative endorsement; and Republican Clarence R. Jansen.

Three persons are vying for election to the single seat open for town councilman for two years. They are former town supervisor George F. Schroeder, running on the Republican line, Democrat Ernest Hinz, and Conservative John A. Miraglia.

In the race for assessor, incumbent Arthur E. Rice, running on the Republican ticket, is opposed by Democrat Robert J. Yonta.

GOP Incumbents

Incumbent Republicans are seeking re-election in races for town clerk, superintendent of highways, town justice and town councilman this year in the Town of Plattekill.

The race for supervisor, however, has Democrat Learline Monteleone pitted against Republican Dominick Ferrante, who currently holds a seat on the town board as town councilman.

In the contest for town clerk, incumbent Republican Edith Auchmoody is opposed by Democrat Minerva Vallejo.

It's a three-way race for superintendent of highways, with incumbent Republican Albert Molson opposed by Democrat Ismael Martinez and Independent Lester A. Wager, Sr.

In the race for town justice, incumbent Republican Frank Berean is opposed by Frank R. Parrinello.

Four persons are vying for two four-year seats as town councilman. They are Democrats David Perez and Edmund J. Monteleone and Republicans Lee Rognon and Salvatore Dolcemascio, an incumbent.

In the race for the single two-year seat as town councilman, Democrat Carmine J. Porcelli is opposed by Republican Harold Jacobs.

Wawarsing Features Three-Way Race

TOWN OF WAWARSING
It's a three-way race again this year for Town of Wawarsing supervisor, with incumbent Frank Sahler, running on the Democratic line, opposed by Republican Thomas C. Thompson and Eugene B. Houck, running on the Enlightened Voters Party Ticket.

Sahler was elected to his first term as supervisor in 1973 in a three-way contest, which saw Thompson wind up a close second.

The 1973 race was Thompson's first try for public office. Sahler had previously served as town councilman for four years.

Houck, an incumbent Dem-

Election . . . 1975

ocratic county legislator from District 7, did not seek re-election to that position this year, but instead chose to enter the race for supervisor.

In the race for Wawarsing town clerk, incumbent clerk Kenneth Mitchell will be seeking re-election on the Democrat and Republican lines. Fred Goslin will be running for the post on the Conservative ticket, and Marie A. Quick is seeking the post as the Ideal Party candidate.

Running for re-election as superintendent of highways unopposed and with the Democrat, Republican and Conservative nominations, incumbent August Hull will again almost without a doubt hold that post come 1976.

In the contest for two seats on the town board, voters will be choosing from among five candidates. Incumbents James Barthel and John Furman, both Democrats, are opposed by Republicans Robert Dowling and Ralph Stedner and Conservative Grace Shaner

In the race for town justice, incumbent Joseph Polonsky, running with Democrat and Republican endorsement, is opposed by Conservative Herbert Poppel.

Six Contests In Denning

TOWN OF DENNING

Six races for town office will be on the ballot this year in the Town of Denning.

Heading the ballot in town contests will be the race for supervisor in which 16-year incumbent Republican Harold Van Aken is opposed by Democrat Clyde A. Clelland.

Vying for town clerk are Democrat Christine A. Cipot and Republican Jane Smith.

In the contest for superintendent of highways, incumbent Republican Benjamin Conklin is opposed by Democrat Robert E. McNamara.

Incumbent Republican Town Justice Harry Bailey is opposed in his bid for re-election by Democrat John V. Higgins.

In the race for town councilman, incumbent Republican Warren Cole is opposed by Democrat Gladys E. Van Wagner.

TOWN OF KINGSTON
With the three members of the Town of Kingston's legislative branch retiring en masse this year, the election of a new board is statistically assured.

Kenneth Whispell, town GOP chairman and supervisor, is getting out. Neither councilman Karl Schuerzinger (R) or Dominick Petramale (R) is running again.

What's more, Highway Superintendent Herbert

A. Dixon (D-C) has deserted the GOP, under which he was elected, and joined the Democrats, and is reportedly plowing straight ahead awaiting the winter's snowfall.

Bruce A. Miller (R) has resigned as town justice to run for supervisor. George J. Spoonhauer (D-C) is the opposition. Both are employed by IBM Corp.

Miller had been appointed town justice to replace Robert Ferrigan, who resigned this year to join the sheriff's department. Running to fill that vacancy are three men: Edward M. Kleckner (D); Douglas V. Dye (R); and Thomas M. Demmel Sr. (C), all employed by IBM.

Five men seek jobs as councilmen. There are two open, and the top vote getters win. They are: John P. Duffy (D), employed by Hudson Cement; Raymond J. Hulsair (D-C), works for New York Telephone; George J. Leedecke (R), an IBM employee and former supervisor; Gerard R. Lewis (R), a security officer employed by Ulster County and chief constable of the Town of Kingston; and William M. McColgan (C), employed by Adirondack Trailways.

For tax collector Alveneta Vanek (R), the incumbent and a retired Internal Revenue Service employee, is being challenged by Victoria A. Tietjen (D-C), a homemaker.

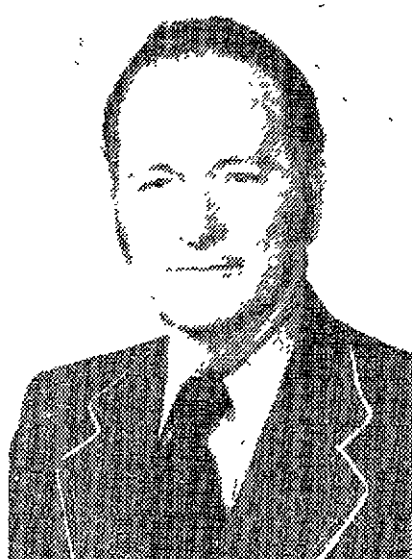

And Edward W. Seche Jr. (R), who works for IBM, returns unchallenged as town clerk. With eight years on the job, he ranks as the veteran elected town employee.

Whatever the election results, Town of Kingston residents will see a host of new faces at town council meetings.

Majestic Seeking But One Office

TOWN OF GARDINER
George Majestic is only running for one office this time, but it's a familiar one.

Majestic, the Gardiner supervisor for 20 years, tried to run simultaneously in 1973 as a candidate for the Ulster County Legislature and for the supervisor's post. The appeals court finally allowed him to run for supervisor after election commissioners had ordered him stricken from both ballots.

To oppose his bid for an 11th two-year term Republicans have nominated Jerry Williams, a resident of Minnewaska Trail and a New Paltz school teacher.

There will be a three-way race for town clerk, where Republican Vivian McCord seeks another two-year term in the office she has held since 1966. Democrats have named Florence Tosti, a retired IBM researcher who has lived in Gardiner for 30 years. She is making her first bid for public office.

The third candidate is Conservative Virginia Lawler, a housewife and former teacher who has resided in the town for 10 years.

Conservatives nominated only two candidates of their own, making it a husband-and-wife team by naming Mrs. Lawler's husband James for the four-year post as town councilman. He faces stiff opposition from incumbent Democrat John Bonagura, who has served since 1970 with a one-year appointment to fill a vacancy and two two-year terms of his own. The third hopeful is Republican Robert Lacouette, who served four years on the board before being defeated in 1973.

Incumbent John Grey's decision not to run means a new highway superintendent for the town. The GOP candidate is Barney Hanson, an Albany Post Road resident who has been in the construction business for several years.

His Democratic opponent is Leo Clinton, a lifelone town resident with extensive experience in heavy equipment. Clinton has been a highway department employe of the town for the past six years.

Democrats have named James Carpenter of Benton Corners for the four-year assessor's post. Carpenter, a former insurance agent and real estate appraiser, will be opposed by Republican James Goodrich of Guilford Road, an insurance broker.

Republican George Smith, now serving on the assessment board as a replacement appointee, will contend with Democrat Gus Durkin of Benton Corners, another former real estate broker, for the two year term as assessor.

J. Philip Zand, an attorney with offices in New Paltz, seeks the four year term as town justice. The GOP candidate will be opposed by Democrat Louis McIntosh, Gilbert Tice, a fixture in the tax collector's office for many years, seeks another two years as the Republican candidate.

Opposing him in what has been a thankless task for a long time will be Democrat

Robert Stiscia, a Central Hudson employe and town resident for 20 years.

Like It Is, Was, and Will Be

"Tell it like it is!" That's one way of describing what press credibility is all about.

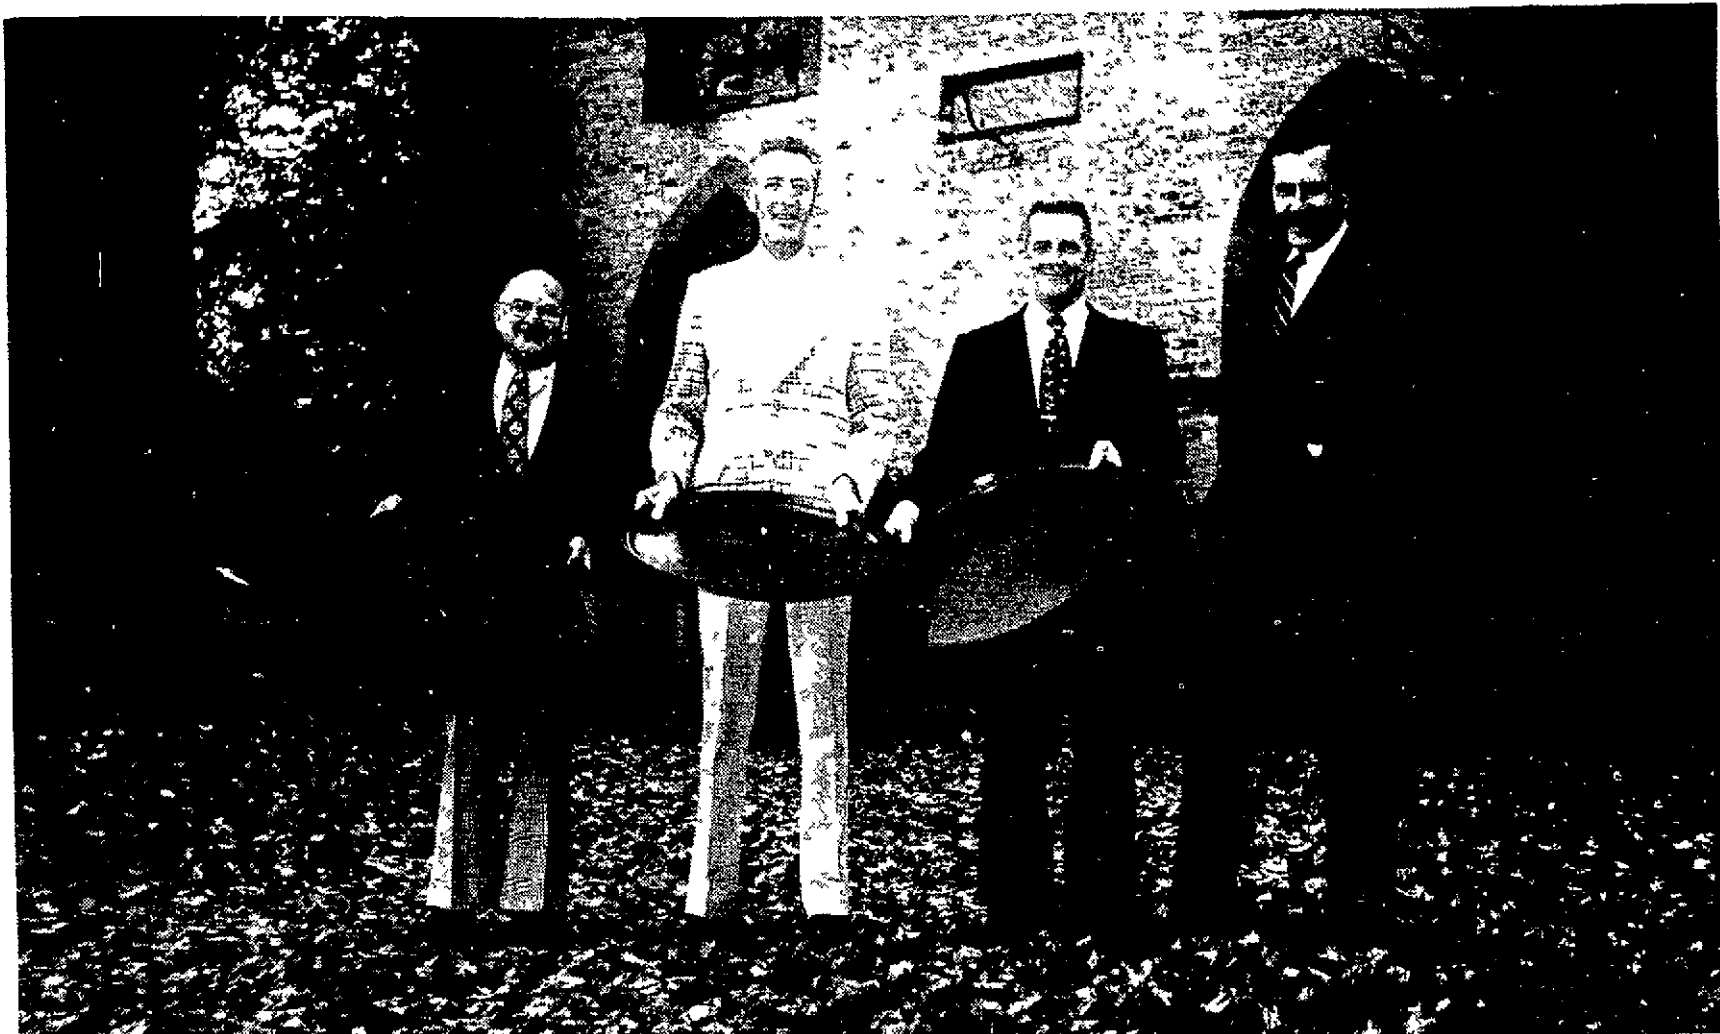

Well, we tell it like it is...how it was...and how it will be.

In the pages of this newspaper, you'll find news reporting that cuts through all the rhetoric, all the partisan in-fighting, the charges and countercharges that confuse the political, governmental and diplomatic scenes.

From yesterday's last hurrah to tomorrow's first political move you will find it here...the straight story without slant so you, our readers, can make up your minds. Giving you reliable, accurate information for that decision-making process is what this newspaper is all about.

We're on guard locally. And watching the state, national and international chess moves is our news cooperative,

The Daily Freeman

Waiters Warm Up

Town of Esopus political candidates will forget their differences—at least for one night—when they help raise funds to preserve the old Ulster Park Reformed Church for conversion into a town museum. Among the waiters at the turkey supper to be held at the Ulster Park Grange Hall on Union Center Road at 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 1, are (L to R) Sol Rosenthal, town Republican chairman; Joseph Sills, Republican supervisor candidate; George Freer, incumbent Democratic supervisor; and Roger Mabie, town Democratic chairman. The dinner is sponsored by the Klyne Esopus Historic Preservation Committee. (Freeman photo)

Jennifer Peetoom, councilwoman; Tim Murphy, town justice, Alice Tipp, county legislator, and Joseph Mayone, highway superintendent. (Freeman photo)

It's Time For a Change!

AND HERE ARE JUST A FEW REASONS WHY . . .

- * Bill Darling has over 30 years of successful Banking and Business background so necessary to streamline City Hall.
- * Bill Darling would create an Advisory Panel to actively work with the Chamber of Commerce---Industrial Development Corp. in seeking to bring needed industry and business back into the City of Kingston.
- * Bill Darling would seek to promote Tourism & Travel, making the most of our City's Proud Heritage and History.
- * Bill Darling proposes a Balanced Budget without Tax Increase!
- * Bill Darling and Emily Johnson propose a government which is truly responsive to the people's needs and wants!
- * Bill Darling and Emily Johnson stand nothing to gain by seeking Public Office, they are both successful people, who have only the city and its people at heart!
- * Bill Darling and Emily Johnson would build a closer bond between the people and their elected officials.
- * Bill Darling and Emily Johnson would implement SUNSHINE GOVERNMENT. A government with an open door policy rather than back room sessions and secret meetings.
- * Bill Darling and Emily Johnson ARE NOT Politicians and have never run for political office. They are merely CONCERNED Citizens who offer you a change from an organized Political Machine type of government to a government by concerned and efficient citizens!

DARLING

SPONSORED BY THE COMMITTEE TO ELECT DARLING-JOHNSON
Bill Darling for Mayor.....Emily Johnson for Alderman at Large.
